LYTTELTON HARBOUR

review creators

Lyttelton Harbour Review is a 100% voluntary community newsletter initiative developed after the February 2011 earthquake by local Real Estate Agent Lynnette Baird, and Lyttelton Harbour Information Centre Chairperson Wendy Everingham.

The objective of the Lyttelton Harbour Review is to help keep local residents informed with what is going on in the wider Lyttelton Harbour community. Of course the success of the Lyttelton Harbour Review could not be possible without the ongoing support and enthusiasm from the wider community. A big thank you goes out to everyone who sends information; is willing to be interviewed by a couple of amateurs; or lets us know what might be happening in the neighbourhood. The Lyttelton Harbour Review project would not be possible without you all.

If you have an event, topic or cause that you would like to share with the harbour community, then Lynnette or Wendy would love to hear from you:

Albion Square Opens

The Power of Community

November 8, 2014 was a significant day in the history of Lyttelton. The new town square, Albion Square, was officially opened.

Born out of the destruction of the earthquakes this site came to symbolise a safe place where our wider community liked to meet up chat, celebrate, commiserate and remember. To mark the opening the City Council organised an official opening. Master of ceremonies was Community Board member Adrian Te Patu. Speakers included Nuk Korako, Community Board Chair Paula Smith, Councillor Andrew Turner, members of the Returned Services Association plus others.

Councillor Turner reflected that it had been a long journey to the formation of Albion Square but in council terms quite a short project length with the project delivery within three years, and on budget! He gave a brief outline of its history. "Over the years it's been a former hotel, offices for the Council, backpackers, a liquor store, Information Centre, Ground Gourmet Foods and now it is a public square". Andrew reflected on all the energy that went into the site after the earthquake. From the community and their desire to have this as a permanent public space, to the council hearing clearly from the Master Plan that our community wanted them to return the site to public ownership. He thanked key people who made this happen. Helen Hobson and Tom Jones for selling their land to the council, Trent Hiles and Coralie Winn who developed Lyttel Gap Filler, our former Councillor and then all the local volunteers who helped create what was affectionately known as the Petanque Club. This space effectively became Lyttelton's spiritual heart after the quakes. From Anzac Day ceremonies to a performing arts space this land had our communities name marked on it.

In so many ways the new square marks our community personality. Community Board Chair Paula Smith cited, "where else would one find a square that is an 'L' shape?" Paula also talked of all the energy that we all expended planning the new future of Lyttelton. She reflected on the three hundred people who crowded into Trinity Hall in April 2011 when the ground was still shaking. Paula also told the story of the worried look of the Fire Chief Mark Buckley with all those people crammed into a building that we later found was below the required earthquake strength and that really should of only held 80 people!. She apologised for any stress that might have caused!

Albion Square has been shaped by so many things. Lyttelton is a particularly fortunate community because so many of us are actively engaged. Most of us wanted to play a role shaping our town of the future. This strength was advantageous because it meant we were very organised and united and that gave us a head start on many other places around the city. We were able to tap into council resources before the true state of the finances was known! Community support the entire way during the process ensured success for the square rebuild. Albion Square is a great legacy for the township from the earthquakes of 2011. Paula summed things up by saying the square is an embodiment of the residents of Lyttelton and an accurate expression of our identity. "This is your place, please use it and enjoy it", says Paula.

Port Lyttelton Plan: Your Voice

Feedback Reviewed and Compiled

In June the Lyttelton Port Company released The Port Lyttelton Plan, their 30 year vision for the rebuild and enhancement of the Port to allow the Port Company to cater for Canterbury's freight demands, now and in the future.

Lyttelton Port of Christchurch released the Plan to provide a holistic and transparent picture of how they believe the Port needs to develop following significant earthquake damage and a dramatic growth in trade – 75 percent of the Port's wharves are earthquake damaged and in the last four years there has been a 40 percent increase in container volumes through the Port.

The Lyttelton Port Company engaged with the community and other stakeholders to find out their views on the vision for the Port and obtain feedback as early as possible in the planning process.

Response to the Port Lyttelton Plan was great. The Port Company received 215 written responses; 718 people visited the Port Talk drop in kiosks in Lyttelton to discuss the plan and give feedback; 1,828 people visited the Port Lyttelton Plan dedicated website; and the Lyttelton Port Company had 60 stakeholders attend workshops to discuss the plans and give their views.

On Monday 17 November, Lyttelton Port of Christchurch released a summary of the feedback received about the Port Lyttelton Plan - the 30 year vision for the rebuild and enhancement of the Port to allow the Port Company to cater for Canterbury's freight demands, now and in the future.

The feedback summary is called 'Your Voice'. Please click here to read it:

www.portlytteltonplan.co.nz/userfiles/docs/your\_voice\_feedback\_summary\_brochure\_1416177528.pdf

Lyttelton Port of Christchurch also developed a package of information on the redevelopment plans, their effects and any changes needed to regulatory documents and presented this, along with a summary of the stakeholder engagement process, to Environment Canterbury last week.

Lyttelton Port of Christchurch feel it is important to keep us all updated about progress of the Port Lyttelton Plan as it is vital for the sustainable growth and development of our operations and to support the Canterbury economy and recovery.

In a media release, Chief Executive Peter Davie exclaims "we are committed to ensuring you are kept fully informed as the Port Lyttelton Plan progresses."

Albion Square Cenotaph

Mystery Behind the Missing Piece

Some residents have noted with interest that there is a missing panel on the cenotaph relocated to the new Albion Square. Adrian Thein, Project Manager for the Albion Square development responds to concerns: "With regards to the last piece of missing granite from the cenotaph, this plaque was badly damaged in the earthquake and is currently undergoing repair. The majority of the original plaque has been retained with the exception of a bottom segment. A replacement piece of granite had to be sourced that was a good colour match to the original. This has taken some time. Once repaired, the names will be re-carved onto this new piece of granite to match the original. We anticipated reinstallation of this plaque before Christmas 2014."

Lyttelton Leads the Way

Graffiti App Inspired from Lyttelton Experience

New Years, two years ago, and Lyttelton resident Bill Johnson had just returned home after a trip to the USA. Based down at the marina he literally found his backyard covered in graffiti.

The Torpedo Boat Museum and Naval Point Club were covered, and so Bill set about removing the tagging. This set in motion an idea that he could help reduce this problem.

Coming from a background in government administration and web development Bill has been able to combine these disciplines and drawing on his experiences he developed his TagStoppers mobile application.

Along the way a speaking engagement at Rotary saw a local business man actively supporting his idea. Funding flowed and with open source code originally used to monitor elections in Africa he was able to develop and support the concept further. Within a very short space of time this app is seen as a key piece of software for the City Council to combat graffiti. It is now actively promoted by the Christchurch City Council.

How does it work?

Basically you can download the application onto your phone, and when you see graffiti you take a photo of it. Automatically the photo records the GPS coordinates of the tag and sends the information to a data base at the City Council. This data base logs all the tags and classifies them. Information is logged by tagger and patterns are established and often the taggers can be identified and prosecuted.

Luckily for Bill his application is just used for source information. All the follow up work is done by council officers. This includes sending information onto the police. According to Bill since the council adopted his app a year ago tagging is down by 30%.

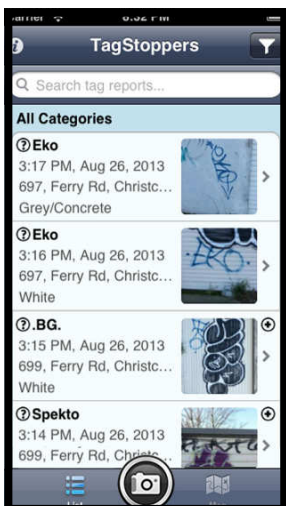

In addition, the app directs the council to where the tags are so they can be cleaned up. Over the last year over 400 volunteers have sought the call to help clean up and over 5,000 tags have been painted over! Bill's favourite volunteer story is: "On the BNZ staff volunteer day, 70 staff removed 1800 tags in one day".

Bill has thought of everything. He has re-designed paint buckets so that the brush is on a roller that gets inserted into the paint tin. You never have to touch the paint, clean up or need paint clothes in order to paint over the tags. He's even got all colour combinations covered! If you see tagging and you want to help you just need to contact www.tagstoppers.co.nz. Bill has sourced everything for free with his links, and support from Rotary and other local businesses.

Rewards of $250 are also offered for information that results in a conviction. Interestingly Bill tells us that under New Zealand law each tag is liable to a $2,000 fine. With multiple tags being able to be identified to one person this can mean huge fines for individuals, and should be a major disincentive for more tagging.

The TagStoppers app is going so well that Bill is getting requests for the system in other parts of the country. Within the last few weeks it looks like the system will go live in Wellington and Masterton too.

Farewell Samo's

Sorry to Say Goodbye

It is now official. Samo's, located in a residential basement on Canterbury Street, is shutting its doors at the end of this month. Be sure to pop in and say goodbye.

This crew of wonderful guys and gals stepped up after the February 2011 earthquake and kept Lyttelton coffeeholics fuelled during some very trying times. While we all knew Samo's was going to be a temporary measure, they have made such a grand effort of it—many of us will be sad to see them close.

May the Lyttelton Review be the first of many to wish them all well for the future ahead, and seriously “thanks so very much for everything”.

Lyttelton Coffee Company

London Street Icon to Re-Open

As the infamous saying goes “as one door closes, another opens” - well the closure of Samo's this month, symbolises the return of the most iconic of coffee houses in Lyttelton. Yes the Lyttelton Coffee Company is re-opening this month! Great news for Lyttelton coffeeholics.

Book Week Parade

Lyttelton Primary School

Lyttelton Primary students really got into the spirit of the Book Week Event dressing up in costumes depicting their favourite book characters.

During the week students also enjoyed stories from many members of the community. The highlight was Ben Brown reading classes "Dogs of the Vastness" the book he has recently written for New Zealand Antarctic Society - Canterbury Branch, celebrating the sled dogs and their history with Lyttelton.

Wild Art in Lyttelton

Stand Tall Christchurch

Have you seen the three giraffes in Lyttelton? Two are located at the Lyttelton Library, and one on the former Lyttelton Bakery Site on London Street.

The two smaller giraffes at the Library entrance are two very special creations, and have been decorated by students from Lyttelton Primary and Governors Bay Primary Schools.

The larger giraffe was painted by artist Christine Wright, is titled "Evolution", and was sponsored by SCIRT.

Giant fibreglass Giraffe sculptures, reaching 2.5 metres high, are now standing tall on the streets, parks and public spaces across Christchurch and surrounding areas until 24 January 2015.

Sculptures of the giraffes have come to the city for Christchurch Stands Tall, a public arts project designed to lift residents' spirits and make people smile. The 99 giraffes form a sculpture trail and will be dotted all around the central city until February 2015, when the 50 larger ones will be auctioned to raise money for charity. The baby giraffes will be returned for each school to keep.

After all the fun and excitement of the trail, the Christchurch Stands Tall Giraffes will be put up for sale at a charity auction on the 11 February 2015, hosted by Christchurch Casino in the Mashina Lounge. 75% of the net proceeds will be shared by the chosen charities: Child Cancer Foundation; Life Education Trust; Gap Filler and Life in Vacant Spaces.

To find all 99 giraffes, hunters can use a trail map available from the web site: christchurch-stands-tall.co.nz/trail-map/; or download a free app called Christchurch Stands Tall, to track down the sculptures.

LIFT Library Update

Last Saturday, I was delighted to see so many Lytteltonians, especially LIFT members, in the huge crowd that marched against the TPPA. The marches throughout NZ featured on TV news. The event was a great success, and enjoyable as well, with at the end of the march good music (Carmel Courtney) and food and drinks and sunshine and presentations and conversations.

The team responsible for most of the organising, 'Its Our Future, Christchurch', invites you to join a celebration event – see the attachment. Maybe some who attended the march would like to make up a team?

NEW STOCKS

New Internationalist Nov 2014 - Big Oil RIP? This issue of the magazine is well worth reading. I think it's very important. Recent news about two matters are behind "The Big Story" - the oil industry is seen by most as a major factor in causing climate change, and we have just heard about the Inter-governmental Panel on Climate Change's final report; and Anadarko are going to continue drilling off the Otago Coast after all.

In this magazine you can read about such topics as Ending the oil age – growing pressure for divestment, disruption and alternatives; Action to end the oil age – what we can do; A year of oil resistance – success stories from around the world; Big Oil's looming bubble – investors beware!; The spirit of Saro-Wiwa rises – Ogoni people rebelling again; My spy – oil companies monitoring an activist. These days, when so much news is about what's wrong, it's really refreshing to read some good news, especially about what ordinary people are achieving.

Guardians of being 2009 Eckhart Tolle, Patrick McDonnell

This is a book, kindly donated by a new acquaintance, to lighten your heart and refresh your mind, by dipping into over and over again. The text by Tolle (The power of now) is expanded by the illustrations of McDonnell, and together 'they convey a profound love of nature, of animals, of humans, of all life-forms.' This book 'celebrates and reminds us of not only the oneness of all life but also the wonder and joy to be found in the present moment, amid the beauty we sometimes forget to notice all around us.'

I see it as "philosophy for beginners", with humour and beauty.

One quote: 'The human says, "I love myself," or "I hate myself." The dog says, "Woof, woof," which, translated, means 'I am myself.' I call that integrity – being one with yourself.'

I've read it three times now, and still have a good laugh, and then a good think, and then a good feeling.

And if you want quick reads, with updating news on "boosting social enterprise", try this website, and join in for the weekly newsletter, 'Element', which is part of the NZ Herald online production. Of course, there is promotional stuff to ignore, but not too much! www.nzherald.co.nz/element-magazine/news/headlines.cfm?c\_id=1503340

I've read two great LIFT books recently, which have been in the library for some time, and hope to tell you about them next time.

Today's quote: (from Guardians of Being – Eckhart Tolle)

You are not separate from the whole.

You are one with the sun, the earth, the air.

You don't have a life.

You are life.

Flatmates wanted

Beautiful 2 storey house with wonderful harbour views on a sunny Teddington farm has one double en-suite room available. $200 p.w. and power, firewood, local calls and water are $25 for one, or $35 for two, per week. Garden space and grazing available.

We had a B&B for 14 years and now it is time for us to travel and play a bit. We are a couple in our 60's with an organic lifestyle, and want to share our self-built log house with flatmates keen to enjoy life.
