Celebrating Volunteers

Lyttelton Information Centre

June has been the official month to celebrate our volunteers. Did you know that the Lyttelton Harbour Information Centre is all staffed by volunteers? We have twenty five community members who volunteer regularly. They come from all around the harbour and their roles include board members, art curator to customer service staff.

From April to December we have one day a month where we all do something social together with the aim of improving our local knowledge. This past month seven of us visited the Brighton area. Volunteer Helen Dungey resides in Brighton so with her local knowledge we organised a Brighton area itinerary. A walk along the pier was good to get acquainted with where all the fishing takes place. We get many queries in Lyttelton about easily accessible places to fish.

Camping places are also high on the ask list for visitors to Lyttelton. As we visit places we always ensure we look up the local camping place. For the first time we visited the South Brighton Motor Camp. We found a delightful camping place nestled between the estuary and the sea. An oasis on Southshore and a very pleasant surprise to us all. We will add that to our recommendation list.

Our social event always finishes with an afternoon tea. Our roles at the Information Centre are generally done in isolation so our monthly social is a good way for us all to get to know each other better. Part of the appeal of volunteering is getting to know the team better and share with one another. We have a diverse group of volunteers with varying interests and community links..

Maybe you have an activity or something you think the Information Centre team should know about. If you would like to visit or become more informed about what you do please get in touch.

The Mariners' Bell

Be part of this Exciting Project

The Seafarers' Chapel, St. Saviour's, has once again returned to Lyttelton, this time on the site of the earthquake destroyed Holy Trinity Church. Since its first consecration in 1885, it has made a journey from Lyttelton to Cathedral Grammar School in Christchurch and back again. It has been renamed "St. Saviour's at Holy Trinity" and re-opened to the general public on June 7th.

A major element of the new church will be the construction of a beautiful bell tower which will incorporate the pointed steeple roof and bell of the old Holy Trinity belfry. The design is based on historical belfries in Canterbury.

Unfortunately the cost of construction is not covered by insurance. The Lyttelton Parish is undertaking a fundraising effort to have the belfry built. A generous gift by the Cleaver family in memory of Captain John Cleaver, formerly a parishioner of both St. Saviour's and Holy Trinity and well known community advocate, has spurred the Parish to initiate the building of the bell tower.

The bell tower, standing nearly 12 meters high (40 ft.), does not come cheaply and consequently requires serious fundraising. Due to the historic connection to the port and the fact that St. Saviour's was originally a seafarers' chapel, the new bell tower will be named "The Mariners' Bell" in memory of Capt. Cleaver and other seafarers.

The bell will ring regularly for all the usual Sunday services and other Christian events (weddings, funerals, baptisms, etc.). In addition the bell will toll on the news of anyone from this area lost at sea or the death of any other seafarer upon request.

Anyone who wishes to make a contribution to this project will have their names recorded in a book. Those who make a significant contribution will have their names recorded on a plaque attached to the tower.

Tindall Foundation Turns 20

Project Lyttelton Celebrated

Community and environmental organisations from across the country were honoured for their outstanding contribution to New Zealand at an event at Government House in Auckland on June 24 2015. They were presented with special recognition awards by Lt Gen The Rt Hon Sir Jerry Mateparae, the Governor-General of New Zealand.

The event marked The Tindall Foundation's 20 years of giving to charitable organisations throughout New Zealand in order to help build a stronger country for generations of Kiwis to come.

The five organisations acknowledged for their outstanding work for the good of the community and environment were: The New Zealand Housing Foundation; Project Lyttelton; Mountains to Sea Conservation Trust; SPACE NZ Trust and Bill Holland – a founder of Acorn Foundation.

Whether it was helping low income families realise a dream of owning their own home, or encouraging school children to take action to conserve and protect our marine ecosystems, all five organisations were praised for the significant difference they have made to the lives of New Zealanders, and to conserving the beauty and natural habitats of New Zealand.

Since 1995, The Tindall Foundation has donated $135 million to New Zealand charities as well as providing capacity building, social loans and other strategic support. It is not just about giving away money: the Foundation offers time and expertise, connects people, acts as a convener and walks beside organisations, often for a considerable time.

Stephen and Margaret Tindall founded The Tindall Foundation following the float of The Warehouse in 1995. They decided to use a percentage of their shares to establish a philanthropic family foundation. Today, it is the largest of its kind in New Zealand giving away more than $10M each year.

Stephen Tindall said The New Zealand Housing Foundation, Project Lyttelton, Mountains to Sea Conservation Trust, the SPACE NZ Trust and Bill Holland all stood out as exceptional organisations and influencers in their area of work.

"Over the past 20 years we have seen so much good work from so many organisations and inspirational individuals. We have helped over 5000 groups with funding, capacity building and guidance and we would like to publicly thank and acknowledge them for their outstanding service to our wider community."

Continues Margaret Tindall, "Every day we are lucky to see the unwavering generosity and dedication of so many Kiwis. We feel honoured to support their work. We may provide some of the resources that assist them, but it is those people on the ground, making things happen in our communities, who are the heroes in our eyes."

Margaret Jefferies received the recognition award on behalf of Project Lyttelton and the organisation also received a screen print by New Zealand artist Matt Payne. The Tindall Foundation has supported the work of Project Lyttelton for many years. Initially they provided three year funding to support the Timebank. This enabled the Timebank to really get established supporting the wonderful work of Julie Lee in her role of Timebank Coordinator.

Currently the Foundation support the work of the Grow Harbour Kids Project. This enables Jacqueline Newbound to educate children at all harbour schools on how to grow and cook food. During the earthquake crisis they were also incredibly supportive. They provided help to the Farmers Market and just recently gave all our staff and supporters a special bonus to say thank you for all the extra we did to support our community during those days.

The event provided the opportunity for organisations and the family to get to know each other more as well as celebrate the specialness of everyone's achievements.

News From the Garage Sale

If you would like to book a community garage sale please contact Sue-Ellen Sandilands 328 9243. The wider community can book on the 1st and 3rd Wednesday of the month from 10-4pm and the 2nd and 4th Saturday of the month from 10-1pm. To run the sale all you need is your own team of volunteers (preferably 3-4 people) and the proceeds are yours less a small administration fee.

Please note that from the beginning of the July School Holidays Wednesday July 8th, we are moving to winter hours. Wednesday to Friday open 11-4pm. Saturday 10-1pm.

If you have a spare minute or two Teresa and Claire could do with a helping hand during the School Holidays. Just pop in and see them.

We are always seeking volunteers. If you would like to help please pop in and register with Claire or Teresa, alternatively leave a message at the Project Lyttelton Office 328 9243.

Finally "thank you" to everyone who supports the garage sale. Your donations and your volunteer time are so appreciated by our community.

Michelle Parkes the inspiration behind themed weeks at the garage sale. This fortnight be inspired by Red.

Theme Red

To the sale
You were led
To experience RED.
De-clutter the trail
From kitchen to bed.

Let those things out of jail
A new life to be led -
Leave them all at the shed!
Send out your mail -
Tell your friends about RED.

In a gale with hail
Facing winter with dread -
Come and find RED
To warm your entrails
Like mulled wine and bread.

Bright, dark or pale
With the colours of RED
Your senses are fed.
Add black or white details;
A RED hat on your head.
And the kitchen prevails
With a teapot of RED.
Lounge cushions have bled.
'RED pictures,' you wail
'I am alive and not dead.'

Up and down dale
In Lyttelton you tread.
You'll find treasure instead.
You will not fail
To take RED home to bed!

Why is local food important?

Less stress on the environment from transportation - greatly reduced 'food miles'
Better nutrition - less time spent in transit means the fresh goods are fresher when they reach you
Your taste buds will love you for it - less time in transit = fresher

You're supporting your local economy
It's safer - less exposure to contamination, and any exposure is to the bugs in your local environment
Seasonal variety - eating locally improves the range of foods you eat throughout the year and improves the diversity of locally grown crops

Coconut Red Lentil Soup

Serves 6

Prep time: 10 min Cook time: 35 min

Ingredients:

- 1 cup/ 200g yellow split peas
- 1 cup/ 200g red split lentils
- 7 cups / 1.6 liters water
- 1 medium carrot, diced
- 2 tablespoons fresh peeled and minced ginger
- 2 tablespoons curry powder
- 2 tablespoons butter or ghee or coconut oil
- 8 green onions (scallions), or a lesser quantity of shallots, thinly sliced
- 1/3 cup / 45g raisins
- 1/3 / 80 ml cup tomato paste
- 1 can coconut milk
- 2 teaspoons fine grain sea salt
- one small handful coriander, chopped
- cooked brown rice or alternative grain, for serving (optional)

Method:

Give the split peas and lentils a good rinse. Place them in an extra-large soup pot, cover with the water, and bring to a boil. Reduce heat to a simmer and add the carrot and 1/4 of the ginger. Cover and simmer for about 30 minutes, or until the split peas are soft.

In the meantime, in a small dry skillet or saucepan over low heat, toast the curry powder until it is quite fragrant. Be careful though, you don't want to burn the curry powder, just toast it. Set aside. Place the butter in a pan over medium heat, add half of the green onions, the remaining ginger, and raisins. Saute for two minutes stirring constantly, then add the tomato paste and saute for another minute or two more.

Add the toasted curry powder to the tomato paste mixture, mix well, and then add this to the simmering soup along with the coconut milk and salt. Simmer, uncovered, for 20 minutes or so. The texture should thicken up, but you can play around with the consistency if you like by adding more water, a bit at a time, if you like. Or simmer longer for a thicker consistency.

Enjoy big ladles of this thick soup over brown rice. Sprinkle each bowl generously with coriander.

Darren Watson & Matt Langley

Shoot Your Television Winter Tour '15

TOURING MUSICIANS WAGE WAR ON TELEVISION

Wellington blues musician Darren Watson and Dunedin altfolk/country troubadour Matt Langley are teaming up to encourage people to 'shoot their televisions', get their thumbs off their smart phones, and check out some of New Zealand's finest original music LIVE in concert this winter.

Darren Watson and Matt Langley's Shoot Your Television Winter Tour will visit the Wunderbar in Lyttelton Saturday July 11th. Show begins at 8.30pm. Tickets: $15 at www.eventfinder.co.nz or phone 0800 BUY TIX (289 849) Door sales: $20.

Every gig will be an intimate night of great original music played and sung with finesse and soul. At least toetappingly and occasionally tablethumping good. Definitely worth leaving your television lonely for.

Langley promises new material alongside award winning songs from his two albums Featherbones and Virginia Avenue.

"Matt's voice and his connection with the audience are really something to see and hear live." says Watson. "When he's playing without the band you get an even better sense of how powerful and well crafted his songs are."

Langley's set is followed by blues veteran Darren Watson showcasing songs from his new album Introducing Darren Watson as well as his other audience favourites and a few classic early blues songs. "Darren's performances are a mighty force of nature." says Langley. "No really. The raw energy and soul he plays with has actually really shocked people the first time they've seen him play live. He takes an old, beatup '50s Gibson acoustic and somehow magics it into a whole band. Then he sings like his life depends on it."

Darren is also promising to bring his resonator and bottleneck AND even a Telecaster & amplifier for rocking up the end of the set, where he will be joined by some special guests. He says he will 'probably' play the song that he fought a high profile High Court action to be able to legally release, Planet Key.

The pair also play a few tunes together, if the mood strikes. It usually does.

Disclaimer: Watson and Langley do not actually recommend or encourage the use of firearms indoors. They also ask that any redundant electronic goods are disposed of in an environmentally kind manner.

2015 Community Service Award Recipients Celebrating Amazing Achievements

Every three years in the Lyttelton Mount Herbert Ward our Community Board celebrates community members who have done outstanding work in our community. Community nominated recipients are acknowledged with Community Service Awards. It's always a special occasion and this year was no different. For the first time the ceremony was held at Rapaki Marae. With the sun shining, family and friends present the award recipients were celebrated for their amazing contributions to our community.

As Community Board Chairperson Paula Smith said "the list of previous award winners is a who's who of the district". The inspirational award recipients from our Harbour for 2015 were:

Raymond Adams. Ray was nominated for his services to the Lyttelton Community in general. Highlighted in particular was his work for Rotary the Masonic Lodge, Anglican Parish Vestry and Building Committee plus his work with Community Watch. This work has spanned over 40 years.

Helen Chambers: Helen was recognised for her work in the Governor's Bay community. Helen would be well known by many for her work for the Governor's Bay Community Association. She has also done lots of great things for local conservation and biodiversity. Think of Helen when you walk or cycle in the Governors Bay area and enjoy the bushland that you pass through.

Brian Downey: Brian was recognised for his work on biodiversity enhancement in the Lyttelton, Corsair Bay and Cass Bay area. He's been helping to preserve the last remnants of native forest on our south facing crater rim. Carefully nurturing local native plants sourced from the correct genetic material he's been training locals how to regenerate forest and create better biodiversity outcomes for our unique botanical environment.

Colin McLeod: Colin won his award for his work for the Diamond Harbour district. He's been a key player in many of the local organisations. His work as a treasurer has laid the foundation for the success of many of the local organisations in the area. Some of the groups who benefited from his efforts are the Diamond Harbour Herald, Orton Bradley Park and the Community Association.

Clinton Norris: Clinton from Lyttelton is well known in the town for his achievements with the rugby club. As a player and administrator he's been an active member in the club for over 25 years.

Helen Sellwood: Helen's achievements centre around ensuring finances and administration of organisations is working well. This is such a vital part of any community organisation. With Helen's skills she's been able to support the Cressy Trust Board, Lyttelton Historical Museum and Holy Trinity Anglican Church.

Emma Odering: Emma is based in Lyttelton and has been mentoring and supporting local youth and their parents for well over 10 years. This work was acknowledged with this award.

Henry Couch from Rapaki was recognised for his lifelong involvement with Rapaki. Instigating the first Mataitai (fishing area), helping locals and working on an advisory board for Ngai Tahu he has been heavily involved in all aspects of community life.

Awards were also presented to community members from the Akaroa/Wairewa area by their Community Board Chair Pam Richardson. Trevor Bedford, Kate Clare, Vincent Hamilton Burke and Annelies Pekelharing were all celebrated.

Article Naval Point Club News

What a rich and fascinating history we have, 175 years ago...

On 23 June 1840 a French whaler, the Heva, under the command of Edouard Lelievre, was engaged in the messy business of processing a whale off Peraki.

Lelievre had been fishing Banks Peninsula waters for a few months, and had been unlucky to lose his anchors. He purchased another from a fellow whaler but was having trouble transferring it between ships. French explorer Dumont d'Urville, captain of the Astrolabe, lent his longboat to Lelievre to assist with the transfer. A short two years later, Edouard Lelievre's mortal remains would be laid to rest in Akaroa.

While back in Akaroa on another whaling expedition, Lelievre fell ill, suffering from vegetable colic, a disease more accurately described today as lead poisoning. He was treated by Etienne Raoul, botanist and doctor from the French naval ship the Aube, but he died on 11 May 1842 and was buried in the l'Aube Hill cemetery.

Le Lievre's grave marker is one of only two surviving remnants from the old French cemetery. It is a tantalisingly beautiful, hand-lettered relic of the old cemetery, which was scraped clear of its history and tidied up in 1925 by the Akaroa Beautifying Association.

Exciting Opportunities with the Council

The Long Term Plan for the City Council was recently finalised. Council has made the following statements about working with the community. This will provide our community some very interesting opportunities. Our often voiced desire to run the pool or the Recreation Centre has the potential to become a reality. Alternative currencies will be developed and the Timebank is set to be at the forefront of this change of direction.

Community Partnerships

The Council has allocated funding for a feasibility study on a community currency, subject to reprioritisation from within the community planning budget.

The Council acknowledged the invitation from the Lyttelton Time Bank to become a member and explore ways of using the time banking movement to deliver social and community outcomes and the relationship between time banking and a complementary community currency.

The Council will develop a cooperative community charter and explore with Life In Vacant Spaces the concept of community brokerage for public realm.

The Council has also asked the Chief Executive to investigate potential Council/community partnerships that could include the management, maintenance, repair and restoration of community facilities.

It's Plastic Bag Free July

Waste Matters and the Port Hill Greens are pleased to be hosting a public discussion about how we can work towards the Lyttelton Harbour being plastic bag free. Denise Roche, Green Party MP, is touring the country to promote her campaign that is raising awareness of the wastefulness of single use items such as plastic supermarket bags, disposable coffee cups, plastic straws and so on. She will speak at the meeting and tell us about other initiatives around the country.

When: Wednesday the 22nd July at 7-9pm
Where: The Lyttelton Top Club, 23 Dublin St

Koha entry and supper provided. Please RSVP if possible to wastematters@lyttelton.net.nz or 021 08254 606 or to Juliet Neill on neillj@snap.net.nz or 0210327014 / 328 8558

Whooping cough and the gas works.

Most all children of young age succumbed to the demon of the times - Whooping Cough. Although a few days from school was ideal, the constant coughing and unpleasant whooping sound made by the sufferer very uncomfortable. Needless to say it was very contagious. The local doctor was called and an entire family was put into isolation for around 10 to 15 days.

Many patients would end up in hospital very unwell indeed. When the writer of this story had his dose of the lurgies my father who knew many of the locals, came home for dinner and suggested to my nurse, [my mother] it may be a good idea if he took me to the Lyttelton gas works for a visit! Mother shuddered and looked rather pale, I carried on whooping, and dad said let's go!

The long walk down to the gas works, seemed to take ages, finally arriving at the door of the works, where the cement silos are presently, I was ushered to a drain, with pipes coming out from goodness knows where. The boss of the works, a well-proportioned jovial type of fellow in blue overalls encouraged me to sit on a box and bend one's head towards the mystery pipes. Moments later some very strange liquids of goodness what, came gushing out. Just breathe that in lad, and don't get it in your eyes.

Well they watered even though they were shut tightly. I had no idea where my dad was, however I could hear the man in the blue overalls say, he'll be fine in a moment or two, don't worry. That was all right for him, but not much help to me.

The session over taps turned off and a gulp of good old Lyttelton Harbour air, dad and I returned home to an anxious mother, and after a refreshing drink and kind words, I felt better and I never whooped again! Only problem was it was back to school in a day or so! But a big thank you must go the man in the blue overalls!

It could only happen in Lyttelton, and it did!

Keeping in touch

SPECIAL EDITION:

Free legal advice* and questions to ask the lawyers of the proposed class action

In this special edition of Keeping in touch, we share our thoughts on the proposed class action, what it could mean for you should you be considering participating, and the help and support we provide.

We understand the importance of getting you settled at home and getting back to enjoying the things that really matter.

It is our commitment to work alongside you, support you and ensure you have all the necessary information to make an informed decision about the best settlement option for you.

If you have any questions or concerns, big or small, you're unsure about the next steps, or you're simply feeling stuck somewhere in the process, we encourage you to let us know so that we can help get things moving.

We know that there's a lot of confusion, noise and misinformation out there at the moment and you may be feeling unsure about the best way forward.

Are you considering joining the proposed class action?

Are you unsure whether you have the full picture of what's going on from the organisers of the class action?

We would like to offer you the opportunity to seek unbiased, expert legal advice, at no cost to you*. Further information on this service can be found below.

We don't contest our customers' rights to take action and challenge us regarding their claim, if they wish to do so. However, we are genuinely concerned about the risks and potential negative impacts on our customers signing up to a proposed class action without being fully informed.

If you have any questions or concerns, please don't hesitate to contact us.

~ - Peter Rose, CEO Southern Response

2 hours free legal advice*

If you're considering joining the proposed class action and you are presented with contractual documents from the fronting lawyers to sign, but you're not sure if you have the full picture of what's involved or the risks you may be exposed to, we would like to offer you the opportunity to seek unbiased, expert legal advice, at no cost to you.

To access this service there are a few simple criteria:

- The service is limited to 2 hours, which should be a sufficient amount of time to review and advise you on the contractual documentation. The 2 hours will be at reasonable fees at standard rates
- You can use any New Zealand lawyer you like, so long as they are not involved with the proposed class action.
- Please speak with your Claims Specialist to confirm your choice in advance, before speaking to a lawyer.

Questions you could ask the proposed class action lawyers

If you are considering whether the proposed class action is right for you, here are some questions you may want to consider asking the fronting lawyers, or get advice about;

- How will a class action address my specific insurance claim?
- Each person's specific insurance claim and circumstances are different. How does this fit with the concept of a class action?
- If the fees are a percentage, what are they a percentage of?
 - ~ For example, if Southern Response has already offered $400,000 to repair my house, and the result of the class action means that I get paid $420,000, are the fees a percentage of the additional $20,000 the class action got for me, or a percentage of the full $420,000?
- If I have a mortgage against my property, do I need my bank's permission to sign the contractual documentation?
- How will you receive the fees and costs from me if I intend to repair or rebuild my house (should my claim be successfully settled under the class action) - directly from my settlement amount, or via a mortgage on my property?
- If I join the class action, but reach a claim settlement with Southern Response before the end of the class action, what happens?
- What fees and costs do I have to pay the fronting lawyers, the litigation funder, the

QCs and other barristers, and experts (such as engineering, geotechnical, QS), and for disbursements, and what are these costs likely to be in the following scenarios:

- ~ if I join the class action and it goes ahead, or
- ~ if I choose to pull out of the class action?
- What are the likely and maximum fees payable to:
 - ~ the lawyers and their barristers?
 - ~ the litigation funder?
- How can you (fronting lawyers) guarantee I will get enough money to repair or rebuild my house once fees and other costs are deducted?
- What happens if either party appeals the Court decision? Who would pay?
- If the amount of the fee depends on the class action being resolved within a specific period of time, what happens if things go on for a lot longer?
- Can the funders pull out; if so, what would happen and how would this impact me?
- How long does it normally take to resolve a class action in New Zealand?

About Southern Response

Southern Response is the government-owned company responsible for settling claims by AMI policyholders for Canterbury earthquake damage which occurred before 5 April 2012 (the date AMI was sold to IAG).

The ongoing series of earthquakes since September 2010 had a profound impact on AMI and its Canterbury customers. As a result of the unprecedented cost of earthquake claims, in April 2011, AMI received capital support from the New Zealand Government to ensure the interests of all AMI policyholders were protected and all claims would continue to be met under the terms of their policies.

Commodores Report Dec 2014 / 2015 Season

This year has been a challenging one for the club and it was not until later last year that we realised the full impact of Ken's passing, the depth of knowledge that he carried and the strength of the Ken / Ross working relationship.

At the December SGM we strengthened the committee members, who have put in considerable effort to get us back up to speed. Accounts are now fully reconciled for last year and this, all staff have been reviewed and new contracts are in place, budgets for last season and next are nearing completion, Club operational aspects / storage etc have been reviewed, operations manual is being written.

The committee are now working on membership and governance that we hope to table with the members in the near future.

Building and tenure wise, the combined building committee with Coastguard meets monthly, Craig Edwards is jointly chairing this with Graeme Riach from Coastguard and will report separately on progress.

The club and many members have submitted the ECan Port Recovery Plan, Colin and I have submitted to the CCC long term plan and the club is now engaging with LPC & CCC as stakeholders in the Naval Point area.

The Current Club house is under discussion with our insurers, we have prepared an independent structural report on all buildings that is being financially peer reviewed in comparison with our insurance assessment. Whilst our structural assessment (DEE) is greater than 67%, we have no issues with occupancy, however we will not be able to obtain consents for repair with the cliff danger zone that the building sits within.

Last week Ross and I hosted our annual dinner for 70 volunteers and partners, was a great evening with a great bunch of people who are the heart and soul of the club, is really humbling to be involved with such a dedicated group.

Naval Point Club is unique in the number of marine use groups we encompass and the volunteer support we have, the potential is huge and we are already talking to the Ocean swimmers, SUP & Kayaker paddlers and Canterbury Underwater Club.

Personally I thank committee, volunteers, staff and members for the support and advice over the last 6 months, a lot has happened and we still have some way to go, but the Club is entering an exciting time that will set the foundations for many generations to come.

Invitation to submit to The GREAT Harbour Basin show

Submission deadline:
5pm, 1 August 2015

Exhibition dates:
10-27 September 2015

The Great Harbour Basin will be the Tin Palace's September exhibition.

This is an open invitation for anyone, any age, to submit work that references a basin/bowl and a harbour basin.

Open to any media and art form, this exhibition is about your interpretation of the/a harbour basin.

Works must be newly created for this show.

A $500 cash prize for the best harbour basin will be awarded at the Opening.

Selection of submissions by curatorial panel including the Tin Palace's curator, a member of the Harbour Arts Collective and Lyttelton-based artist Cheryl Lucas.

Costs: $20 exhibition fee for each submission. 30% commission deducted on work sold. One submission per person.

All submissions will be kept confidential. Curatorial panel reserves the right to select and reject submissions without discussion at any time until receiving work for exhibition.

Email: curator@tinpalace.co.nz for an entry form or pick one up from Tin Palace art space.

Deadline for submissions: emailed or delivered to Tin Palace by 5pm August 1st 2015.

Learning to Live within our Natural Limits

It has been claimed that in some areas the Canterbury Earthquakes caused as much damage as 200 years of climate change. We still have the impact of human-induced climate change to come.

- How do we come to terms with these and other pressing issues and make the changes we need to make?
- Do we need to retreat?
- How do we have a healthy transition?
- How do we ensure equity and fairness?
- What are the risks?

This event is a contribution to that conversation.

All are welcome.
