Community Support So Enthusiastic Planting Returns to Urumau

After five long years the sounds of enthusiastic planters returned to the lower slopes of Urumau Reserve above Lyttelton township on Sunday August 30th. The Lyttelton Reserves Management Committee Planting team successfully reintroduced community planting. The team lead by Helen Greenfield, Wendy Everingham and Brian Downey were delighted with the enthusiastic response from the wider community.

“For such a drizzly day we were pleasantly surprised by such a great turnout” said team leader Helen Greenfield. Two planting sessions had been organised for the day. The morning session had over forty enthusiastic residents participating and in the afternoon a smaller group of around twenty residents was involved. “We had a great cross-section of our community participating” said Helen. Families, singles, teenagers and couples were all represented.

Councillor Andrew Turner was one of the supportive participants. “It was great to see so many people involved in the planting day and to witness our community organising and supporting itself so well” he said. “The day highlighted how our community has a wealth of local knowledge and when given the ability to manage community assets, in this instance through the Reserve Management committee, there can be an amazing level of community buy-in leading to amazing results. This is a perfect example of how I believe the community and council can work together”.

The entire project was led by the Lyttelton Reserves Management Planting team. For the past year they have been planning the day. “There is quite a bit involved” said Helen. After creating a three year planting proposal that was approved by the committee a year ago, the team have been systematically working through all the lead up to a successful planting day. Plants had to be identified and sourced locally and as they found out this was no easy feat. With many reserves closed since the earthquakes there had been little opportunity for seed collection. DOC supplies were low. Luckily, team member Brian Downey had a community nursery where he has been growing local plants for some time. He shared some of his precious supplies to enable this project to happen.

Plants were only one part of the project. There were weeks of site preparation and various project management tasks. For team members Helen and Wendy there was lots to learn as this was the first time they had been involved in a planting project. All the hard work was well worth the effort. Brian now has two more community members who have a better grasp on what's involved and the wider community has shown their support by getting involved in the planting day.

Thanks also to Juliet Neill who supported the project with a generous donation and Dorothea Herron who shared her extensive planting knowledge to planters on the day.

And yes, planning has already begun for next year's planting day! If you would like to know more about Lyttelton Reserves Management Committee activities, you can sign up to our Associate list to receive emails – lytteltonreserves@hotmail.co.nz.

Like the planting days of the past the community buy in is still strong and more people will be able to visit Urumau Reserve and feel a strong sense of connection to it. The former dairy farm continues to transform and we are all getting a greater understanding of the nature around us and the complexity of trying to re-create forest that we cut down so easily all those years ago.

Lots of Fingers (literally) in these Projects

Lyttelton Primary in Action

Two weeks ago Lyttelton Primary children were out and about in the local community working on two big projects, Urumau Reserve planting day and the Timebank birthday cake.

The year 8's and some of the year 7's were involved in the community planting at Urumau Reserve. This was a separate day solely for the children. The event was another activity organised by the Lyttelton Reserves Management Committee Planting team.

Twenty students planted natives and five made lunch for the teams working at the Reserve. The food preparation was under the guidance of Grow Harbour Kids leader Jacqueline Newbound and the planting was led by five student team leaders. Prior to the planting day teacher Rachel Cummins had selected five children for that role. They had separate tuition from Reserve Committee member Brian Downey the previous week.

The leaders were tasked to show their class mates how to prepare and plant natives.

A team of adults merely acted as supervisors while the children got on and showed their class mates what to do. As an observer it was really impressive to see how carefully the leaders showed their teams what to do. The year 8 team leaders selected were Matthieu, Ollie, Kenna, Krystal and Ngaio

They demonstrated how to dig the special ledges needed to create the forest floor for the plants to be dug into. They concentrated hard and worked carefully to make their ledges sloped correctly and then dug insert holes for the plants ensuring that the clay bottom below would act as a good reservoir for water when summer conditions were hot and dry. Plants were then gently taken from their storage containers and fitted into the ground where they were covered with existing soil and piled high with grass and mulch to ensure good water retention and protection from frost.

Students broke for lunch part way into the activity. Their fellow cooks had made a wonderful pumpkin and carrot soup with scones and delicious fudge. The food was terrific and the children really enjoyed working in a neighbour's house getting the lunch ready and then serving it to everyone in the garage.

Come the end of the exercise, a group of happy kids left. "That was awesome" could be heard as they drove back to the school. Hopefully students will show off their hard work to their friends and families and others will become acquainted with this special reserve on the townships back door.

Later that week the food learning adventure continued with their support of the birthday cake for the Timebank's tenth birthday party. This time year 3, 4 and 7 children helped create this wonderful cake for 100 people! Again under the watchful eye of Jacqueline and a favourite cake recipe from teacher Bernice Swain they came up with an amazing cake creation, including a time clock and other wonderful things that children love. There were a collection of mermaids and sea creatures decorating their masterpiece. "I made that cake" exclaimed one of the party attendees proudly as she discovered that this was where their great creation had ended up!

Thank you Lyttelton Primary for your support. Such a nice way for two way connectivity between the young and older generations whilst earning the school time credits and supporting the wider community.

Lyttelton sculpture to celebrate Antarctic connection

Christchurch City Council today accepted a gift from the Canterbury branch of the New Zealand Antarctic Society – a bronze sled dog sculpture.

Celebrating Lyttelton's Antarctic connections, the sculpture, by local artist Mark Whyte, will sit outside the Lyttelton Library on the corner of London and Canterbury streets.

"Sled Dog", a slightly-larger-than-life bronze sculpture of an Antarctic Huskie, symbolises the courage, energy and teamwork demonstrated by our early explorers and their dogs.

Banks Peninsula Ward Councillor Andrew Turner says he is delighted to see this project approved.

"This will be a new point of interest in the Lyttelton town centre as well as recognising and celebrating the importance of our historic and ongoing relationship with the Antarctic. I thank the Antarctic Society for their generous gift and look forward to this work being created and installed."

Sled dogs were working dogs used for transport across the frozen continent. Dogs were used at Scott Base, the New Zealand outpost in Antarctica, until 1994.

Mark Whyte's other sculptures include the twelve bronze busts of prominent Cantabrians at the Arts Centre and the statue of Charles Upham in Amberley.

CCBT runs a successful social enterprise called One on One Driving Solutions and provides contracted services to the Ministry of Social Development. We have been in operation since 1998 in Canterbury.

Alternative Funding Sources for NFP's.

Surveys such as Grant Thornton's "Doing Good and Doing it Well 2013/2014" report that funding the work of a not-for-profit organisation in New Zealand remains a crucial issue for boards, management and staff. Without money, the mission cannot be achieved.

Traditional sources of funds such as membership, personal donations and grants are becoming harder to get due to changing demographics, greater use of contracts by government agencies, competition from other not-for-profit organisations and the private sector, a shrinking grant pool and often outdated attitudes of some not-for-profit organisations.

To survive, not-for-profits will need to adopt new strategies to raising funds from traditional sources and to also try alternative funding approaches.

The workshop will consider some of the new tools that not-for-profits are using to approach members, donors and grant makers. It will also discuss alternative financing mechanisms such as crowd funding, peer-to-peer lending, social impact bonds, asset transfer, social loan pools and social enterprises.

You have received our email as your email address is listed with the Charities Commission or you have had contact with Carolynn Hull of Just Dollars Trust in the past and requested to be kept informed of any free NFP training seminars.

LIFT Library Newsletter

I know that many of you have been involved in recent great events – the 10th anniversary celebrations of the Lyttelton Market and Lyttelton (actually NZ too) Timebank. It's been a wonderful few days. Even the weather let up on its expected bad day on Saturday so we could enjoy sunshine for the celebrations.

Edgar Cahn, the founder of Timebanking, was warmly welcomed at several events, and continued to give us more enlightenment and fresh ideas for the future.

I think you will see more initiatives arising. He's an amazing man – and so modest with it. You can hear him speak on these two links:

<http://www.radionz.co.nz/audio/player/201769465>
4.9.15 Interview with Kim Hill, before joining us at the Market <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=J7xkPGGFVxs> Dion Michael Coburn Films presents 'Professor Edgar Cahn – The Interview' 22.50
3.9.15 This was filmed just after the Thursday talk and workshop. The background noise is a distraction, but you will get most of the message.

And for an amusing but very helpful short video go to 'The Parable of the Blobs and Squares' –

This is useful in so many areas of life, not just in Timebanking. I may well show this at a film evening, but you won't mind seeing it twice, I'm sure!

Climate Change: If you are concerned about this matter, a recent National Radio Insight programme gave a wide-ranging, useful discussion: 'Fossil fuels – Necessity or Lethal Indulgence?' Listen to it on this link, where you can also read a summary of the matters discussed.

Action is building around the world, with the aim of getting governments to bring real action to the table at the United Nations Climate Change Conference in Paris in December. I don't belong to any political party, but I do support action by any of them on this matter. Contact me for petition forms, information leaflets, postcards to send to parliament, and more information. I usually have some at the Saturday Market. Watch for news of local events, especially the Christchurch one on Saturday 28th November.

I've been reading a powerful book on this topic, in LIFT for a long time but not read by me. I strongly recommend it:

Storms of my grandchildren: the truth about the coming climate catastrophe and our last chance to save humanity by James Hansen. Written in 2009, it explains the science behind the situation (which I occasionally found a little over my head) and the politics in the USA at that time, which was easy to understand. I kept thinking – 'so that's why.....', and found it compelling reading. It was fascinating to see how difficult it was for him and other reputable scientists to make their views known to those in power. So what's changed? Having also listened to Edgar Cahn talking about ways to influence those in powerful positions, I was struck by some similarities of thinking.

Wayward Homeward Wayward

I sit waiting for the ferry to arrive,
The scene sets to serenity with harbour aglow,
Then a reflection of my lost children plays,
Upon these mindful shifting waters to somewhere,
Far away where dusk and sunset take un-lived dreams,
Deep, deeper than the greatest epiphany moves one's tears,
Gob smacked, I gaze at first starlight, kissed by moonbeams,
Life breathes and sighs here, in its present enigma,
The approaching ferryman shakes my reverie,
Of course he is unaware that the responsibility of this wayward child,
Is but mine alone, tied up, engaged, mortified, might flee,
Lightening zigzags across Port-Hills sky,
Maybe a baby-boomer, playing thunder off against forgiveness!
Twilight bends to evening, bringing daydreams to forget,
Some soulful memories try to burn imprints,
Even those unquestionable, binding, tender sacred other moves,
Which swell and vanish like the mist!
An engine rumbles contempt to my departure and I am lost,
That I have loved you today as any day,
One is leaving, is one confused?
There sails a separation from the bliss,
Letting the ropes free, faith versus expectation,
A bigger will surrenders to the ferryman.

Do You Remember the Four Party Line?

What's a Wee Willie Winkie?

Telephones had to be applied for and then a waiting list for an available pair of copper wires in the street to become spare. It could be up to two years sometimes before the magic of the telephone bell rang in the house!

The nearest automatic exchange to the port was at Mount Pleasant in Christchurch. Most phones were connected to a building by a pair of copper wires. The main cables ran through the rail tunnel from Christchurch.

When and if one received a note from the telephone lines department that your installation was ready to be done most folk celebrated the occasion with a cuppa with a neighbour and of course the subject was, 'our new phone'

The phone was a black metal box screwed to the wall with a separate earpiece you held in one's hand, and leaning forward you spoke into the microphone with a gentle hello! Who's there?

No one really took much notice of the departments description of how the thing on the wall really worked or the fact that most likely there would or could be three more folk elsewhere sharing the same line!. Oh Joy!

Now, this is where life really started to be very very interesting indeed!

It depended on who you shared your line with, imagine if you were talking to a friend about some sort of interesting subject, you know real parish pump stuff!

Now the other party who just happened to lift the receiver when you did, got an earfull of goodies, gossip wise, to broadcast the secret information to goodness knows who in a matter of minutes!

One remembers one such occasion a conversation heard on the east side of the port, ending up minutes later in Diamond Harbour as a toll call, and resembling nothing like the original subject!

Can you imagine the scope of the party line?

On a technical note, we were warned not to use the phone during a thunder storm. Well the box was metal after all and Ours did detach itself from the wall one stormy night. Thank goodness no one was on the phone at the time!.

To conclude, what a wonderful education we had from eaves dropping on the party line. But thank goodness it is gone now.

Just before we go, a wee willie winkie, is a candle holder made much like a saucer with a finger grip on the side and made by the Judge co in the UK. It was finished in white enamel with a blue line round the rim.

Timebank Celebrates Inspiring Conversations plus a Party.

The first week in September 2015 will be remembered as a major milestone for the Lyttelton Harbour Timebank. The generosity of Air New Zealand enabled Timebank founder Professor Edgar Cahn to come to New Zealand to witness the great work of the Timebank movement half a world away from his home town of Washington DC.

"As an eighty year old I have seen my life's work materialise in front of me. Generally these things are set in motion while living but you don't get to see the outcomes in your life time" he said. He was so excited to witness how Timebank under the guidance of Margaret Jefferies had evolved in Lyttelton and wider New Zealand. He held up Lyttelton as a flagship for the Timebanking movement.

For Edgar Cahn the concept all began after he suffered a major heart attack in the 80's. He was told that he wouldn't recover. He was not going to become a "useless" person and with justice as a foundation corner stone of his life he set about devising this alternate currency that would have the power to transform the lives of many. In the process he created a new form of social operating system that values the all the parts rather than just the sums that have monetary value.

Lyttelton Timebank has evolved to suit the needs of its community. Similarly Timebanking in the USA has been developed to address certain issues. It's a flexible mechanism that can be used to assist where ever the community requires it. He gave some interesting examples of where Timebanking has been applied. In Chicago it was used to help younger people learn to read. This project saw older children and unemployed teachers mentoring younger ones. For their efforts they earned Timecredits which many used to enable them to get second hand computers. Edgar said his cross age peer to peer tutoring was incredibly useful for all concerned.

Timebanking has also been successful in the USA for people in the youth justice system. Rehabilitated offenders earning time credits have sat on youth courts judging their peers. The re-arrest rate for repeat offending fell from 34% to 6%. Similarly with aging baby boomers time banks have been able to step up and supply the services many older people need. The older people have been banking these precious credits for some time as a form of insurance.

During Edgar's visit the Lyttelton Harbour Timebank and the Christchurch City Council joined together to facilitate a wonderful day of Timebank conversations. Approximately 150 people gathered at the Netball Centre and under Margaret's "Open Space" groups self-organised to talk about various time bank issues relevant to them. A very important conversation was held on how the Timebank and the City Council could work together. Since that conversation the local governance team from the Lyttelton Mt Herbert area have become members. Together they will explore with the Timebank team what this will look like. They hope to roll out a project that focuses on the pool in time for this summer.

To wrap up the celebrations for the week in true time bank style we held a party. The entire event was produced by Timebankers, Invitations were designed, food supplied, entertainment was provided, a birthday cake made and the venue was beautifully decorated,

Most of the celebrations were focused on the first week of September however there is still one special event. The Timepiece exhibition is showing at the Lyttelton Information Centre. This is open until September 26th and the event will conclude with a silent auction and all proceeds will go towards operating costs of the Timebank.

If you would, like to get a greater understanding of Timebanking, Professor Edgar Cahn's book "No More Throw Away People" is a very interesting read. This is available in our local LIFT library. Contact the Information Centre for more information.

Free Lyttelton Port Tours Start This Month

Free tours of Lyttelton Port by boat will start at the end of this month (Sunday 27 September) so the community can see the developments underway and hear what is planned.

A ninety minute free tour on the Canterbury Cat will leave from the Lyttelton ferry terminal at 1.30pm on the last Sunday of the month. An LPC representative will provide information and answer questions about the area covered during the cruise, including the Inner Harbour, Dampier Bay, the Container Terminal operations and reclamation.

"This is another step in our ongoing engagement with the community," said LPC Chief Executive Peter Davie. "Taking a tour of the Port by boat is the safest and most effective way of viewing the developments in progress and understanding the long term plan to ensure a modern, thriving Port that meets the increasing needs of our customers and the growing freight requirements of the Canterbury economy."

"We have some of our most experienced staff providing commentary on the boat tours to make sure everyone can get a good understanding of what's happening, what's planned and why."

Bookings for the free Port tours by boat can be made by phoning LPC reception (03 328 8198) Monday to Friday between 8am and 5pm.

At the end of each Port tour passengers will be invited to make a donation to Cholmondeley Children's Centre located in nearby Governors Bay.

Since opening in 1925 Cholmondeley has cared for over 26,000 children and continues to provide short-term emergency and planned respite care for Canterbury children. The community funded service cares for children from ages 3 to 12, focusing on preserving the family bond, returning children to their families more refreshed and more resilient than when they left. Cholmondeley has recently rebuilt the centre and returned fully to Governors Bay after operating on split sites for over four years.

Navigation Safety Officers Blog

Hi there from the Harbourmasters Office in Lyttelton, my role is to look after recreational boating in the Canterbury (Waitaha) Region, this encompasses everything from maintenance of assets such as buoys, signs, posts, liaising with communities over boating issues and looking after our enforcement officers in other parts of the region over our busy periods.

Our area is huge, covering over 45000 square kilometres and has the most rivers, lakes and coastal area of any region. As you can appreciate we also have a large boating community many of who travel to our waterways ranging from Kaikōura in the North to the Waitaki in the South.

There are many competing interests for the use of our water ranging from fishermen, divers, and swimmers through to boaties of all types, as a consequence we have bylaws in place to ensure the waterways are used safely.

With such a large area, clearly I can't be everywhere, neither can our enforcement officers, this is where we rely on public support to ensure that any bad behaviour on the water is reported to us, so we can take appropriate action.

However to do this we require the following information.

- Time, date and place.
- Description of vessel, including a car or trailer registration number.
- What actually happened?
- Is it a one off event, or is it a regular occurrence, if so we need when, where and how often, then it makes it possible for us to target the area.
- Lastly we would need the person who is making the complaint to be prepared to go to court if necessary to give evidence.

Our call centre number is 0800 324636.

Lastly for those out there on paddle boards, there is a little misconception around the rules, so here is the official version.

If you are over 15 you must either wear an approved PFD (Lifejacket) unless the person in charge of the paddle board considers there is no increase in risk to the safety of any person then it may be carried, UNLESS you are paddle boarding and physically involved in breaking waves (Surfing) then you must be attached to the board with a leg rope. A person under 15 is required to wear a PFD.

That's it for this week, chat soon,

Gary Manch, Navigation Safety Officer

Introducing the Graffiti Team

The Christchurch City Council Graffiti Programme Team is based at the old Linwood Service Centre and consists of the Team Leader, Graffiti Business Coordinator and Graffiti Volunteer Coordinator. The goal of the Graffiti Programme is to significantly reduce and prevent graffiti vandalism in the Christchurch area to reduce the impact that graffiti vandalism has on residents and visitors to Christchurch City. The 'Off the Wall' graffiti removal volunteer programme has 15 volunteers in Lyttelton who help keep Lyttelton graffiti free. There are two ways to volunteer with the programme, you can become a tag remover (paint out graffiti) or become a Tag Spotter (spot and report graffiti for removal) or do both. If you would like more information on volunteering with the Graffiti Programme's Off the Wall Volunteer programme please contact our Graffiti Volunteer Coordinator on (03) 941 66655 or offthewall@ccc.govt.nz. It's not just volunteers that help us, anyone can report graffiti by either using the Christchurch City Council's application Snap, Send, Solve which is free to download onto Apple and Android phone, or by contacting the call centre on 03 941 8999, graffitiprogramme@ccc.govt.nz or emailing info@ccc.govt.nz. Thank you in advance for your support.
