Lyttelton Historical Museum and the Information Centre

With so many people in our community passionate about Lyttelton's history and no current museum, the Lyttelton Historical Museum Committee approached the Information Centre Board to see if they would like to host a permanent historical display. The answer was a resounding "yes".

The Information Centre now is the place to watch an historical slideshow called "Shedding light on our past". Some of you may remember this show. Originally displayed in Henry Trading's window for the Festival of Lights in 2015 this display now has a permanent home in the front window of the Information Centre. The display will run daily from 10am to 9pm.

This project was fully directed by the museum team. Thanks to Liza Rossie for the photos and her extensive research, Helen Greenfield for putting the slide show together and Murray McGuigan for all his technical support for the installation.

Now when you have a spare minute or two down the street, pop past the Information Centre and watch the display. Alternatively, you can come inside and flip through all the photos as well. The Information Centre also has application forms for membership of the museum society. You might like to join their organisation to support the great work that they do. Lyttelton Recollections

I was born in Lyttelton just after the second world war ended in 1945. On the day of my birth the hills and township were covered with snow. I was told later on that it was one of the worst snow storms in many years.

The maternity hospital was situated around the West End of Lyttelton on Cressy Terrace. Closed I think in around 1965 the hospital became an old peoples home. Many of the older residents who were born there spent their last days at the home. The road tunnel opened in 1964 and that meant mothers now went through to Christchurch to give birth, Shipping in Lyttelton during the early years was abundant with sometimes twelve or more ships tied up at the wharves. The large cranes swung too and fro from the decks to the wharf. Waterfront workers unloaded the cargo onto train carriages which were railed through the rail tunnel to Christchurch.

In 1945 watersiders were brought down from Wellington to help clear the influx of work in Lyttelton.

Also that year the Union Steam ship vessel "Westport" caught fire at sea and was towed into the harbour where the wharfies unloaded the cargo of smouldering hay.

Watersiders worked around the clock to discharge all the hay and get it around to the reclamation grounds (where Cashin Quay now stands). The hay was then burnt.

The Superintendent of the Voluntary Fire Brigade – Mr Carson highly praised the unions for their efforts.

A post war picnic was held in Amberley for the Union members and their families. The train was quiet full and a great day was had by everyone. We always looked forward to the wharfies picnics. There were always lots of icecreams, drinks and lollies and heaps of games.

Lyttelton Harbour Review is a 100% voluntary community newsletter initiative developed after the February 2011 earthquake. It's a Lyttelton Harbour Information Centre initiative produced by Chairperson Wendy Everingham and Committee Member Jenny-Lee Love.

The objective of the Lyttelton Harbour Review is to help keep local residents informed with what is going on in the wider Lyttelton Harbour community. Of course the success of the Lyttelton Harbour Review could not be possible without the ongoing support and enthusiasm from the wider community.

A big thank you goes out to everyone who sends information; is willing to be interviewed or lets us know what might be happening in the neighbourhood. The Lyttelton Harbour Review project would not be possible without you all.

If you have an event, topic, sport announcement, fundraiser or cause that you would like to share with the harbour community, then Wendy or Jenny-Lee would love to hear from you:

Lyttelton Quilters Charity Quilts

For the month of March the Lyttelton Quilters have had a display of their beautifully hand crafted quilts at the Lyttelton Harbour Information Centre. Sue-Ellen Sandilands is one of the members of the group and she proudly tells the story of how this series of quilts came to be.

"It all began really with us wanting an excuse to get together and meet", she said.

Some Sunday's for the past year the group have met up at the Portal – Project Lyttelton's space behind the pool and they have planned and stitched to create these terrific art works.

To get it all happening there is quite a considerable amount of work. The initial phase is sitting down and planning what to do. A piece of butcher paper holds the hand drawn pattern designs for each of the quilts. Sue-Ellen says that this is the part that Liz Baritompia enjoys most. Liz's mathematical mind is just perfect for creating the geometric designs.

The second and third reasons for this year long project are made clear. Between them this team has loads of spare materials that they don't quite know what to do with and as they have all made many quilts before they are also running out of people to share them with. They are inspired by a quilting concept from the USA called charity quilting.

"With charity quilting, quilters provide the comforting warmth and softness of a quilt, and the special significance of a gift made with love. Quilters are incredibly giving and sharing -- of their time, talents, and gifts" <http://www.quilting-in-america.com/charity-quilting.html>.

A year's worth of friendship and love then culminated in this great exhibition and when the quilts come down early April, Lyttelton Community House is going to be presented with these gifts of love to share with the elderly of Lyttelton.

The Lyttelton Quilters are: Sue-Ellen Sandilands, Liz Baritompia, Sandie Hodgson, Abi Raynor, Alex Everleigh, Shona Rice, Aileen Poulton and Marie Cook. For more information contact Sue-Ellen Sandilands 328 9243

Reserve Management Committees Clarification Needed.

Simmering slowly for many months has been an underlying issue of how Reserve Management Committees are operated. In the Council official hand book the community is told that the governance is “a hands off” approach meaning that the committees if they choose can take as large or small role in the daily operations and governance of the Reserves. Committees operate based on delegations past down to them from the City Council via their Community Boards. Generally Council committees only perform a governance or advisory role. In the case of Reserve Management committees this is not the case. They have the delegated authority for both the daily operations and strategic direction of the reserves. This is where part of the dilemma stems. While the committee has the delegated authority for management and daily operations what role do council staff have? Who actually manages the asset?

Added to this dilemma the governance structure of the committees is now under review. Councillor Andrew Turner at the Cass Bay Reserves Committee meeting in February explained that the review was needed because he believed a Reserve Management Committee was not a legal entity. “It’s a sub-committee of the Community Board and according to current legal advice a Community Board or it’s sub committees are unable to hold property” he said. Reserve Management Committees have held their own funds since inception. Current Council legal opinion is that funds constitute property. Interestingly this legal opinion was not considered back in 2007 when the former Banks Peninsula Reserve Management Committees were changed from sub-committees of the Christchurch City Council to sub-committees of Community Boards.

Newly formed Cass Bay Reserves Management Committee has been the first in our harbour to be impacted by the review. In December their committee was told that the current structure would not enable them to open a bank account! “This has left our committee in a very awkward position. We should have been focused on planning and coordinating on the ground work for the reserve instead we have been tied up in legislation and rules with very little support. One committee member has left in frustration” said Chair Jenny Healey.

Frustration of the lack of council progress and the unsettling impact this was having on the Reserve Management committees was very evident at the Cass Bay meeting attended by Community Board member Christine Wilson and Councillor Andrew Turner.

Some progress was evident at the February meeting of the Lyttelton Reserves Management Committee. Joan Blatchford, team leader of the Lyttelton/Mt Herbert Governance team has been appointed to review the entire situation. She presented her findings at their meeting on February 15th.

“I believe prior thinking on this issue went down the wrong track. What’s needed is a simple structure that allows for difference” she said. Her thinking is focused on a delegation’s review where a simple structure within council can achieve the desired outcomes of the existing committees. A delegation’s review should sort out the actual structural problems and define the roles of the committees and the council staff that they work with. Unfortunately, she indicated this outcome would take more time to resolve. In the meantime, Council is happy for the committees to continue to operate their bank accounts as they have in the past despite the fact that there is uncertainty to their legality and despite the fact that there aren’t clear boundaries between the role of staff and the committee’s.

There is quite a bit at stake. Our communities have invested so much time and energy in being actively involved with the reserves. Suitable solutions need to be found to preserve and honour the community investment to date and to ensure willing meaningful community participation remains.

Lyttelton Recreation Centre, It's Open , Now What?

The Recreation Centre opened to much community enthusiasm on February 20th 2016. Since opening there has been quite a bit of community confusion about how to make bookings and just exactly how the venue operates. To clear things up the Lyttelton Mount Herbert Community Board hosted a public meeting in the basketball court for a community conversation.

The meeting was attended by Community Board Chair Paula Smith, Councillor Andrew Turner, council staff and many interested members of the public. Initially an information session by staff detailed how the current booking system works. Unlike the system in the past there is currently no council employee based at the complex who looks after all the bookings and manages the site on behalf of the council.

Currently the centre is managed directly but remotely by council staff at the Lyttelton Service Centre or from within the Hereford Street office. There are four booking types accepted and you can book each activity via the Lyttelton Service Centre or via the Council Call Centre. Bookings are classed as: Semi-regular, casual, regular and special. All bookings can be paid for at the Lyttelton Service Centre.

There are a few things that you need to know: Semi Regular and Regular users are issued with your own personalized access card. You'll be able to use this card to access the facility for whatever booking you have paid for. Please note for semi regular users the card will be de-activated if not used regularly within the six week time frame.

A casual and special booking ie a one off event also requires an access card and that needs to be collected from the Service Centre the day prior to the booking.

Currently the facilities on offer are:
A sports hall including a basketball court and a squash court. (The sports hall doubles as a large assembly space for events and can also support activities such as volleyball, indoor football, indoor bowls, dance, yoga, pilates, group exercise, children, youth and parenting groups.

An open mezzanine area
Trinity Hall (currently being used for the temporary Lyttelton Library).

Trinity Hall will not be available for hire until the end of the year when the library is re-located to its renovated former site in London Street.

Hire charges are summarized in this table and the facilities can be hired seven days a week from 8am to 10pm. Payments can be made by cash, credit card or eftpos at the Council Service Centre in London Street. Please note payments and booking can only be made Monday to Friday 8.30am to 5pm.

Current charges per hour are:

Facility	Adult	Child
Gym	$25.20	$18.90
Mezzanine	$17 Business	$10 community group
Squash Court	$15	$10

For further information you can check the council web site <http://www.ccc.govt.nz/culture-and-community/venues-for-hire/>

The following activities are now available at the Recreation Centre:

- Social volleyball
- Karate (all ages)
- Zumba
- Futsal (seniors)
- Futsal (juniors)
- Jikyo Jutsu (adults) - combination gymnastics, aerobics & yoga
- Pilates (starting May)

In the next edition of the Lyttelton Review we hope to have the contact details for each of the classes available so that you'll be able to contact the tutors directly if you would like to participate in the classes.

The community meeting highlighted that the current arrangements were not well known and for many they were not working. Bridget O'Brian highlighted that if you wanted an impromptu weekend booking it was impossible because bookings could only be made at the council service centre Monday to Friday. Lucette Hindin highlighted that many other council facilities were actually run by the community themselves. She gave some examples in New Brighton. She'd like to see other models of operation explored.

Nigel Cox from the council's Sport and Rec team indicated that the council has 78 facilities sport and recreational facilities and of those 14 were currently being operated by the council. Our Recreation Centre was one of these. Centre's that were not being totally managed by the council were often managed by the local community. Diamond Harbour Hall was given as an example of this. Paula Smith said the community has a lease to manage and operate that site on behalf of the community.

Suitability of spaces, meeting rooms and other items were also discussed. The long and the short of it is the facility will be continued to be managed by the City Council in the short term.

Moving forward it was agreed that everyone would like to see the Centre humming with more activities. Staff are going to explore the hire of a part time Community and Recreation Advisor who would be employed to get the facility working more effectively. This could include organizing some former programs that were run by the council at the site, and just generally getting the facility to operate more effectively. There was a keen desire for "Tumbletimes" to be resumed as soon as possible. Following the library model it's also been suggested that a community working group be established to work with council staff to transition the facility from a council run facility to a more community based model.

If you would like to get involved with this group please contact Andrea Wild andrea.wild@ccc.govt.nz

Cakes for Greatness

28th Recipient

Introducing our 28th Cake for Greatness recipient, Walter Gallagher. Walter and his wife Wendy have called Lyttelton home for over 40 years so they are local through and through. Walter was nominated for his hard work around the Lyttelton hills, in particular around Voelas/Harmans road where he has planted literally thousands of trees; pines and eucalyptus mostly. When I heard that he planted at least 100 trees per year for the past 44 years, I was completely blown away. He gave away many trees to friends that lived in their area and whenever rain fell and the hillsides slipped away, he was inspired to plant more trees. Of course not all of them survived (due to heavy winds/rain, or being taken down due to the winter sun factor and views) but you can still see evidence of his efforts up around Voelas road. Those trees are upwards of 20 years old and are all due to this man's wonderful heart. Wendy told me a story how in the 1980s Walter, herself and their neighbour, Colin Gates, cleared all the scrub on top of the hills also. She shared how you could walk up along the sheep tracks barefoot on hot summer days. Looking up there now you wouldn't realise the gigantic grassroots effort there was to clean it up, but perhaps this will inspire a new generation of Lytteltonians to follow in the Gallaghers' footsteps. In addition to his huge tree planting commitment, Walter has also helped a lot of local pensioners when needed and generally has been there in times of need, like so many wonderful people. Walter has certainly talked the talk and walked the walk and it was no surprise to see him helping his daughter, Jodie in the garden when we went to deliver him his cake.

29th Recipient

Saturday 2nd April saw our 29th Cake for Greatness delivery. I am very happy to introduce Karen Young, a Lyttelton local who has been nominated for her commitment to the set-up of our Lyttelton Farmers Market. For many years now you will find Karen up early every Saturday morning helping the Farmers Market team close London street, moving tables and chairs for punters to enjoy their food later in the day, setting up gazebos and the rubbish/recycling bins and helping out vendors as and when they may require. She has been praised for her spirit, enthusiasm, kindness, friendliness and reliability. Our farmers market is so popular with people all over Canterbury and acknowledgement of volunteers such as Karen who continue to assist on a regular basis is a must in my books.

Cake for Greatness wouldn't exist without nominations from our community. If you know of any unsung heroes please send me a nomination. You can do so by sending me an email (rushani@rushanis.co.nz) or through my website; www.rushanis.co.nz

Book Reviews

From the Lift Library

I am in the process of going through books that arrived in LIFT some time ago, but which I did not have time to write notes on before they got borrowed. Gradually you will find out about them, and the information will be included in the full list of stocks, with notes – totalling about 60 pages now! If you would like the updated version emailed to you, let me know.

The FIRE Economy:
New Zealand's Reckoning 2015 Jane Kelsey

I don't easily cope with books about economics, but this is easier than most. When it arrived I skim-read it, skipping some sections, but found the information compelling, in understanding why New Zealand's economy is so sick (as well as many other countries'). The author began working on it in 2009, in the fallout from the Global Financial Crisis, and continued at the same time as her action on the changing course of the Trans-Pacific Partnership Agreement. 'The FIRE economy – built on finance, insurance and real estate – is now the world's principal source of wealth creation. Its rise has transformed our political, economic and social landscapes, supported by a neoliberal regime that celebrates markets, profit and risk. From rising inequality and ballooning household debt to a global financial crisis and fiscal austerity, the neoliberal 'orthodoxy' has brought instability and empowered the few. Yet it remains remarkably resilient, even resurgent, in New Zealand and abroad.' If you want to understand why we are living in such hard times, read this book.

LE: This changes everything: capitalism vs the climate
2014 Naomi Klein

This book has stirred action of all kinds around the world. It's a big book (466 pp plus notes etc) but worth reading, even if you do skip bits. I can't do better than quote Bill McKibben's words: 'This is the best book about climate change in a very long time – in large part because it's about much more. It sets the most important crisis in human history in the context of our other ongoing traumas, reminding us just how much the powers-that-be depend on the power of coal, gas and oil. And that in turn should give us hope, because it means the fight for a just world is the same as the fight for a liveable one.'

The surprising purpose of anger: beyond anger management: finding the gift Marshall B. Rosenberg

Some of you will know of this writer, having learned about 'non-violent communication'. This short read (40 pp) will help you become more conscious of four key truths: "People or events may spark your anger, but your own judgements are its cause; judging others as "wrong" prevents you from connecting with your unmet needs; getting clear about your needs helps you identify solutions satisfying to everyone; creating strategies focused on meeting your needs transforms anger into positive actions".

The brain that changes itself Norman Doidge, MD

Our local book club members read this book, and all agreed that it was well worth reading, and very important. So I bought a second-hand copy. The author is a psychiatrist and researcher who has travelled widely and examined cases where people changed the functioning of their brains for the better. For example: a woman labelled retarded who cured her deficits with brain exercises and now cures those of others; blind people who learned to see; learning disorders cured; IQs raised; entrenched depression and anxiety disappearing.... There are stunning numbers of case histories that will inspire you.

New Stocks

I mentioned this one last week, but now I've read it. It was hard to put down! (Thank goodness for a holiday weekend!) The art of happiness: a handbook for living

His Holiness the Dalai Lama & Howard Cutler, M.D. Having attended a public talk by the Dalai Lama many years ago, and having been very impressed, I decided to read this book first of all the new ones donated recently. Many out-of-towners at the Market on Saturday, most of whom had read it, stopped to praise this one. I hope it will become popular with LIFT members too. Howard Cutler is a psychiatrist, who managed to get an interview with the Dalai Lama, and then, over many years, many more interviews, so that he could compile these discussions, which include the Dalai Lama's detailed, often humorous, and honest responses to all sorts of questions posed by Cutler. And then we read Cutler's additional comments on his observations with patients (and his own experiences) and how they often support the Dalai Lama's points. It's an easy read, and pleasurable – seeing it's about happiness. The topics are: The purpose of life; Human warmth and compassion; Transforming suffering; Overcoming obstacles; and Closing reflections on living a spiritual life.

You don't need to be religious, or a philosopher, to appreciate the wealth of wisdom in this book. It provides much food for thought – and smiles.

Repairs affecting Ferry access commence April 4

Repairs will commence on April 4 at the bottom of the overhead bridge where the buses turn around taking approximately 9 months. Access from Norwich Quay will be closed off and temporary stairs will be installed from the top of the bridge. All buses will stop on Norwich Quay.

Help a Child in Crisis Regular Giving Programme

The Help a Child in Crisis campaign asks members of the community to consider giving a donation to Cholmondeley on a regular basis. This could be monthly, in an amount determined by the giver. These donations go directly toward the annual costs of the Centre (totalling around $1.8million), and are the most direct way to assist the children Cholmondeley cares for. Go to www.cholmondeley.org.nz/donate to join the programme or learn more.

About Cholmondeley: Cholmondeley provides planned and emergency respite care and education to children whose families are experiencing genuine stress or crisis. The service is structured around a Child and Youth Care approach and aims to build resilience in the children who stay there, enabling them to better cope with the challenges they may be facing. Cholmondeley has operated out of Governors Bay, Canterbury, since 1925 and it is expected that over 400 children will stay at Cholmondeley this year.

Community funding applications open next week

Local organisations working on grassroots projects that contribute to the strengthening of community wellbeing in Christchurch can apply for funding from Christchurch City Council's Strengthening Communities Funding Schemes from next week.

Community groups have from Tuesday 15 March until Saturday 30 April 2016 to apply for either the Strengthening Communities Fund (grants of over $5000) or the Small Grants Fund (grants of $5000 and under).

"The Council has a long history of supporting community organisations through our community grants programmes." says Claire Phillips, Christchurch City Council Community Support Team Manager.

"The not for profit sector provide a critical contribution to the wellbeing of our city. The Strengthening Communities Fund and Small Grants Fund is an invaluable resource to tap into for projects that increase participation, support innovation, encourage community connectedness and we encourage groups to apply." To assist community groups in preparing for the 2016–17 funding round, the Council will run six information sessions.

Session times and locations are available on the Council website.

Update from the Rata Foundation

Supporters of the Lyttelton Information Centre

Last year we sent you information announcing changes to our funding programmes. We're excited to let you know that information about our new funding programmes is now available on our website. Our new funding programmes reflect our strong desire to contribute to building strong, happy, healthy, prosperous and more connected communities.

You can be assured we will continue to provide grants, both small and large, to a wide range of cultural, social, environmental or community projects and organisations across our four funding regions of Canterbury, Nelson, Marlborough and the Chatham Islands. Our online application portal will be open by 1 April 2016. In the meantime, you can get to know our new funding programmes and what it means for your project, programme or service.

Under our Small Grants programme, for requests $20,000 and under, we'll be assessing year-round, so you can choose when is best for your organisation to apply.

Under our Large Grants programme, for requests over $20,000, there are three funding rounds per year. You can find details of these deadlines on our website.

Take your time to familiarise yourself with the new process and to gather any supporting information you may need. Our website contains more information about our funding programmes, and our funding focus areas. You will also find FAQs with helpful information on our website, but if you can't find what you are looking for, you can contact our funding team by email: enquiry@ratafoundation.org.nz or freephone 0508 266 878.

We're excited about the changes to our programmes, our aim is to make the process more responsive, flexible and transparent to better meet the needs of our applicants.

Support for Fathers

Has anyone got any information with regard to Rob who set up NZ FATHERS?. There have been many fathers who have appreciated the support Rob has offered to fathers who are dis-illusioned with lawyers, CYFS social workers and the Family Court system in general. Fathers have discovered they can legally represent themselves and because Rob has studied up on Family Law and has gone through the frustration of the system on a personal level – he was inspired to offer free support towards fathers going through the stree of the Family Court.

In the past Rob would regularly put up fliers on the library and shopping mall noticeboards.

Since March 2015 he has not responded to emails, texts or phone calls. Is it possible his email account for NZ Fathers has been hacked into as it is so out of character for Rob not to respond to emails etc. Please text or contact me on 022 304 4354 if you can provide me with any information. Thank You.

Cobblestones give streets and buildings a historic look.

It allows roads to be heavily used.

The noisy nature of the surface allows pedestrians to hear approaching vehicles.

The use of cobblestones in buildings make them look distinctive.

Cobblestones, they are ancient, sturdy, artistic and unique.

News from Oxford Steet Art

Landscapes , The League of Super Artists, our visitors and the human portrait and figure exhibition 'Simula-crum'.

Our group Landscapes exhibition closed on 28th April (Easter Monday) The exhibition attracted over 600 visitors over 4 weeks and we have received very positive comments about the overall look and feel of the exhibition and the venue.

Two of the highlights were the surprise visit by the Mayor of Christchurch, Lianne Dalziel who admired and purchased Bridget Allen's work - Bridge Street Monument , and our visit last week by Lyttelton school pupils. We were blown away by the enthusiasm of these students and the great interest they exhibited towards the show. They all went away with Oxford Street Art pencils and have promised to come back with their own interpretation of Landscapes. A big thank you to Julie Sheppard, artist, who demonstrated how to draw landscapes on an iPad.

Our new exhibition 'The League of Super Artists' opened on Friday 1 April. We had a great turnout at our opening night party and visitors came from all over Christchurch and further afield to see this great show.

These Super Artists are Anne Dillon, Donna Chisholm, Jil Cowan, Julie Sheppard and Roseanne Jones.

The exhibition explores abstract contemporary art at its finest with an array of images using a range of media, shapes, forms and colours and incorporating various digital techniques. The results are a vibrant and unique range of artworks that come together as one for this very special exhibition.

Last but not least Oxford Street Art is now looking for Expressions of Interest for our group exhibition - 'Simulacrum'a contemporary view of Portrait and the human figure opening on May 6th 2016.

All submissions need to be in by 20 April 2016.

Please visit www.OxfordStreetArt.co.nz for further information and submission form.

You can also email thecurator@oxfordstreetart.co.nz for a form or contact Madhu Rees on 0274298505.

The gallery is open 11am - 5pm, Weds - Sunday.

We have Late night openings on Fridays until 7.00pm for those visitors who can't get to us during working hours.

We look forward to welcoming you to our gallery very soon.

Oxford Street Art

Our new exhibition 'The League of Super Artists' opens on 1 April with an opening night party at 5.00pm with an array of cocktails and nibbles.

These Super Artists are Anne Dillon, Donna Chisholm, Jil Cowan, Julie Sheppard and Roseanne Jones.

The exhibition explores abstract contemporary art at its finest with an array of images using a range of shapes, forms and colours and incorporating various digital techniques. The results are a vibrant and unique range of artworks that come together as one for this very special exhibition.

Artwork can be purchased on the evening and a selection of prints and artwork can be taken away by the collector during the show.

Last but not least Oxford Street Art is now looking for Expressions of Interest for our group exhibition - 'Simulacrum' - a contemporary view of Portrait and the human figure opening on May 6th 2016.

Rebuilding earthquake damaged roads, water, wastewater and storm water pipes.

16 March 2016

Work notice: Hawkhurst Road, Jacksons Road, Selwyn Road, Ross Terrace, Lyttelton, wastewater and storm water segment repairs

What	Wastewater and storm water segment repairs
Where	Hawkhurst Road, Jacksons Road, Selwyn Road, Ross Terrace, Lyttelton
When	From Tuesday 22 March for around three weeks

Where:

Key:

● Segment repair

Fulton Hogan is repairing the earthquake damaged storm water and wastewater networks in Lyttelton. There are eight segments of earthquake damaged wastewater/ storm water pipes on Jacksons Road, Hawkhurst Road, Selwyn Road and Ross Terrace that need to be repaired. Due to the narrow width of the road and the requirement to dig a trench to complete these repairs, the road will need to be closed around each worksite. Each repair is expected to take one to two days. The road closure will be progressive and move with each repair.

Tuesday 22 March: Work will begin on the segment repair on Jacksons Road. This work will take around two days to complete. Please use the lower section of Jacksons Road as a detour.

Wednesday 23 March: For around two days the intersection of Hawkhurst Road and Jacksons Road will be closed. Please use Bridle Path and Ticehurst Road as a detour.

Tuesday 29 March: For around two weeks a progressive road closure will be in place on Selwyn Road. We will start at the southern end and gradually move north. The road closure will be progressive and move with each repair.

Please note: The dates on this programme may change. If you have any specific requirements that we need to know about, please give us a call so we can keep you updated.

Traffic impact example:

The road will be closed at the intersection of Jacksons Road and Hawkhurst Road on Wednesday 23 March and Thursday 24 March. Please use Bridle Path and Ticehurst Road as a detour during this time.

When the road is closed directly in front of a property vehicle access to driveways will be unavailable and you will need to park your car outside the road closure. We will leave an access restriction notice in your letterbox the day before to give you time to move your car.

If you are not the property owner please pass this on to your landlord or property manager
