Lyttelton Harbour Review is a 100% voluntary community newsletter initiative developed after the February 2011 earthquake. It's a Lyttelton Harbour Information Centre initiative produced by Chairperson Wendy Everingham and Committee Member Jenny-Lee Love.

The objective of the Lyttelton Harbour Review is to help keep local residents informed with what is going on in the wider Lyttelton Harbour community. Of course the success of the Lyttelton Harbour Review could not be possible without the ongoing support and enthusiasm from the wider community.

A big thank you goes out to everyone who sends information; is willing to be interviewed or lets us know what might be happening in the neighbourhood. The Lyttelton Harbour Review project would not be possible without you all.

If you have an event, topic, sport announcement, fundraiser or cause that you would like to share with the harbour community, then Wendy or Jenny-Lee would love to hear from you:

High accident toll prompts speed limit review

The speed limit on Dyers Pass Road could be changed in a bid to reduce the high accident toll along the route.

Christchurch City Council is seeking public feedback on a proposal to change the speed limit on Dyers Pass Road, from its intersection with Governors Bay Road to the Sign of the Takahe.

There have been 180 accidents on Dyers Pass Road in the last 10 years.

Currently the speed limit along that stretch of the road varies between 50km/h and 100km/h.

Under the proposal put forward by the Council the variable speed limits would be changed to one consistent speed limit of 60km/h.

"Around 180 accidents have been recorded over the past decade along this stretch of Dyers Pass Road. Those accidents have resulted in one fatality and 14 serious injuries.

"Loss of control due to inappropriate speeds into bends and risky overtaking account for a concerning number of the reported accidents," says Council Transport Operations Manager Aaron Haymes.

"To improve safety we are proposing a new speed limit of 60km/h. We are also proposing to add double yellow no passing lines."

Mr Haymes says the aim of the double yellow lines is to keep motorists on their side of the road. Motorists are legally able to cross double yellow lines to pass cyclists if they are able to do so safely.

The community has until 18 December to give their feedback on the proposed safety improvements. Have you say <https://www.ccc.govt.nz/the-council/consultations-and-submissions/haveyoursay/show/108>.

Black Cat Treats Supporters

Lyttelton Harbour Nature Cruise

November 21st Black Cat organized a special evening cruise on Lyttelton Harbor. Invited were all the volunteers from the Lyttelton Harbour Information Centre, staff from the Christchurch i-site, supportive business partners, the Bingham family who set up Black Cat all those years ago, staff and crew.

What a treat it was for everyone. The weather really was just perfect, water calm and sunset amazing. Escorting us around the harbor were pods of Hector's Dolphin's. For all aboard this was the highlight of the night. It had been years since most of us had been for a Nature Cruise. They were abruptly halted after the earthquakes in 2011!

Paul Milligan the CEO of the company welcomed us all aboard. As well as ensuring customers have a great experience whilst on board the company has committed to supporting the local environment and community. "A portion of each fare goes to dolphin and community projects" said Paul.

In front of each of us was a student resource booklet. Children from this area are taken on cruises around the harbor to learn about the marine environment. The workbook that the company has created focuses on Hector's Dolphin's. It was really informative. There were lots of facts presented in the booklet. Here are some that may interest you.

Do you know that the Hector's Dolphin/Upokohue...

Is among the world's smallest marine dolphins

There are two sub species: the Hector's Dolphin that we find in around the South Island and the Māui's Dolphin which is found off the west coast of the North Island.

These dolphins are endemic to New Zealand, that means they are only found here

They are generally only found near the coastline

They are named after Sir James Hector who examined the first Hector's Dolphin

Both species are threatened. The Māui's Dolphin is particularly endangered. Numbers in the North Island are extremely low.

They are the only dolphin with a rounded dorsal fin

Like so much in our immediate vicinity our nature is under threat. It's great to see that Black Cat is actively doing something about it.

Threats to these special dolphins have come from fishing nets and waste that we put into our water ways. Another compelling reason to support the Plastic Bag Free Lyttelton campaign.

Whilst Nature Cruises are quite away from returning to the harbor as a regular visitor attraction, Marketing Manager Natasha Lombart had some good news. "In January our offices will be moving back to Lyttelton". That's a good sign for Lyttelton.

Currently in Lyttelton Harbour Black Cat is operating the Diamond Harbour and the Quail Island Ferry. They also operate special charters that you can book. More trips are available in Akaroa where you can experience Nature Cruises and Swim with the Dolphin's. For more information see <https://www.blackcat.co.nz/> or call 0800937946

Fat Tony's Crew Below the Plantation

A few weeks ago I again found myself travelling to Lyttelton on a Sunday afternoon to meet up with the Fat Tony's Crew. It was July when last we all met below the Plantation to plant native bush. Nearly four months later it is time to clear away the weeds around each plant so they can see the sun.

Brian Downey was our leader again and he demonstrated the way to clear each plant. Finding them was quite a mission as they were well covered with grass. Brian sort of knew where they were situated but we didn't so it was a matter of watching where we stood or slid! It was quite a steep bank down from the main track and quite hard to navigate.

When I was a young lass living up Brenchley Road I spent many, many days climbing hills with no problems. But sixty years later it's not so easy! To get down the bank I found it easier to just sit down and slide my way towards each plant. Lucky I had my gloves because the weeds are not that easy to pull. When cleared the plants were heaped with the removed grass to help mulch them. Thank goodness for the flax bushes because to get back up to the track I gripped hold of them to balance my climb.

For nearly two hours I cleared about twelve plants. With the team in total I think we cleared about forty plants. There was Tom, Rohan, Dino, Chris, Brian and me.

Like last time after we finished there was a great feed put on for us and everyone at Fat Tony's. Whitebait Fritters, crayfish, venison It was an awesome spread. Many thanks to Dino who cooked it all.

A very good afternoon was had by all. For me being in Urumau and the wonderful views you get from up there is something that always brings back so many memories of great times.

The next mission for the plants will be watering in the coming hot summer. How that will all be done I don't know but I hope we don't have to lug watering cans up the track.

It was a really great afternoon and evening back at Fat Tony's. To make the day even more special a man entered Fat Tony's dressed in a cowboy hat and swede cowboy boots. I asked who he was, it was John Grennell a country singer. I'm such a country music fan and have fond memories of seeing him perform at the Town Hall many years ago. Meeting him just capped off another great day in Lyttelton.

Editor: For a couple of years after planting the plants need to be "released". This means in spring time clearing weeds from around the base of the plant so that the plant gets optimum growth conditions. The pulled weeds are then used as mulch which acts as a form of insulation.

Plants are planted in grids generally one –two metres apart. Each row is offset by half a metre. Mulching and this grid indicate to waterers where the plants are. Next time you walk up the track from Foster Terrace take a look and see if you can see the grid system. If you would like to register to be part of the watering team this summer email lytteltonreserves@hotmail.co.nz or call 328 9093. A workshop will be held on Sunday December 3rd 10-12 at the entrance to Urumau Reserve in Foster Terrace so you can see what's involved.

A new emergency alert system is coming!

Emergency Mobile Alert is a new way to broadcast emergency messages to mobile phones in an affected area if there is a serious threat to life, health or property.

A nationwide test of the alert is happening on Sunday 26 November between 6 and 7pm.

The Ministry of Civil Defence & Emergency Management, New Zealand Police, Fire and Emergency New Zealand, Ministry of Health, Ministry for Primary Industries, and Civil Defence Emergency Management Groups are the only agencies authorised to send an Emergency Mobile Alert.

How do Emergency Mobile Alerts work?

Emergency Mobile Alert messages are broadcast via cell towers to mobile phones enabled to receive them. They can be targeted to specific areas affected by serious hazards. For a list of phones able to receive the alerts, visit www.civildefence.govt.nz. Emergency Mobile Alert uses a dedicated signal, so it's not affected by network congestion. This can make Emergency Mobile Alert more reliable in an emergency when mobile phone traffic or people accessing websites could overload the network. Emergency Mobile Alert uses the mobile networks of Spark, Vodafone and 2degrees.

How do you get the alerts?

If your phone is on, capable and inside the targeted area, you should get the alerts. You don't have to download an app or subscribe to a service, just ensure your phone is capable and updated. Emergency Mobile Alert is due to be available by the end of 2017. However, not all mobile phones will be able to get the Emergency Mobile Alerts at first.

What can you do?

Please check your phone is able to receive the alerts and ensure your phone is on the most up to date operating system. Or use the link: <http://www.civildefence.govt.nz/get-ready/civil-defence-emergency-management-alerts-and-warnings/emergency-mobile-alert/emergency-mobile-alert-capable-devices/>

The alerts are not intended to replace other alerting systems, or the need to take action after natural warnings. If you feel your life is in danger, don't wait for an official warning. Take immediate action.

Healthy Harbour, Ki Uta Ki Tai

Healthy Harbour is a draft harbour catchment plan aimed to restore the ecological and cultural health of our harbour. It's a community based process and the plan belongs to all of us.

The draft plan states:

"Whakaraupō/Lyttelton Harbour is a taonga (treasure) to those that live, work, and play in its waters, on its beaches, and along its ridges. Like all treasures, it is important to care for and protect the harbour and its wider catchment so that it can be enjoyed by us and our children after us. In Māori culture the wrapping of a korowai – a beautiful hand-woven cloak- around something indicates its importance and protection. This plan enables the Whakaraupō/Lyttelton Harbour community to weave a korowai that will protect and support this special place to thrive and grow in the future."

The main aim of the plan is Mahinga Kai

"Mahinga kai is a concept that is important to the whole Whakaraupō/Lyttelton Harbour community – although we may all call it different things. Mahinga kai is a term that is used by mana whenua to represent their customary harvesting practices, but it also speaks about things that everyone who calls Whakaraupō/Lyttelton Harbour home do. Spending time in the environment and building an intimate knowledge of the tides, the best walking tracks, the winds, and where different species can be found (including the best fishing spots) is mahinga kai. Teaching your children to thread their first fishhook, how to dig in the sand for pipi, and how to cut flax for arts and crafts is also mahinga kai. At the same time, taking action to preserve these experiences for future generations through only taking what you need, supporting species to breed or regenerate, and being aware of your own impact on the environment is an important part of mahinga kai."

The plan imagines what a healthy harbour could look like from the crater rim to the sea. The birds, fish, sea life, plants, land mass, streams, wetlands foreshore and harbour. It then lets us know the current day realities and sets out a series of action plans to help us transform our special place to a healthy harbour.

Key actions that have been identified to date include:

- Reduction of sedimentation in all waterways
- Pollution reduction
- Increasing land based biodiversity
- Increasing marine biodiversity

To ensure the plan belongs to all of us it needs your feedback.

Do you like the concept? What do you support? Are the right priorities being targeted?

Do you have any advice to share? How can you make things happen? Do you have other comments?

Please send your ideas and thoughts to the project team by December 4th. <http://healthyharbour.org.nz/send-your-feedback/>

Christchurch tree and urban forest survey

Open for feedback: 1st November 2017 - 1st December 2017

Trees are integral to the identity of Christchurch, a city internationally known as a 'garden city', and are highly valued in the wider Banks Peninsula landscape.

The Christchurch City Council is developing a Tree and Urban Forest Plan for Christchurch and Banks Peninsula. Its aim is to provide a long-term vision and strategy to maximise the health and sustainability of our urban trees and forests, and to increase the benefits we get from them.

Christchurch and Banks Peninsula have a mix of native and exotic trees that support biodiversity and reinforce our identity.

Trees benefit us by:

- Providing shelter from sun, rain and wind
- Removing pollutants from our air and water
- Enhancing our environment
- Improving our urban ecology
- Mitigating some of the effects of climate change
- Providing pleasant spaces for recreation

As we begin developing the Tree and Urban Forest Plan, we are keen to collect as many ideas as possible. We want to know what the people of Christchurch and Banks Peninsula think about trees – what people value and what they would like to see more of.

Christchurch Waterways: Do they matter to you?

Here's your chance to tell us how you rate Christchurch's waterways, what you want to use them for, and what you'd be willing to do to help improve water quality.

Open for feedback: 15th November 2017 - 8th December 2017

Improving the quality of our waterways is a priority for Christchurch City Council and a requirement of the Environment Canterbury Land and Water Regional Plan. This is not something that can be achieved by stormwater treatment infrastructure alone. So, the Council is proposing a community water partnership programme focused on educating, engaging and empowering communities to help stop contaminants getting into stormwater.

As a first step in that process, we're conducting a public survey to help us identify and understand what motivates people, the barriers to people taking action and the emotional triggers that prompt change.

We'd really appreciate your help and time to answer a few questions.(external link) This survey may take between 10-12 minutes.

This survey is open from Wednesday 15 November to Wednesday 6 December.

Lyttelton Harbour Update Councillor Turner

With December fast approaching it was time to check in for one last update with Councillor Turner. Local issues of interest include updates on Naval Point, Cruise Ships, Whakaraupō/Lyttelton Harbour Management Catchment Plan and Urumau Reserve.

Positive news for Naval Point. "The Council has approved that the information from the engagement process can now proceed to a detailed design phase. Additionally, our local Community Board has now been given power to make the final decisions for our community on this issue", he said. He explained that major stakeholders will be spoken with and some funds will be recommended for the draft Long-Term Plan. "If the funding is confirmed there will be more consultation and the earliest any action will be seen on the ground is October 2018".

Staged development will be based around the identified high priority areas. These could be boat safety and security, the new combined site for Naval Point Club and the Coastguard, and the site landscaping. "We are looking at a twenty-five-million-dollar budget. Projects will be staged and we will be really keen to hear what the stakeholder priorities are so that the money can be allocated accordingly".

The return date for Cruise Ships is still unable to be announced. "There are two appeals against resource consents. One for channel dredging and the other in relation to pile driving and the noise impacts on marine life. Once they are resolved we will have a clear indication of when the new cruise terminal can be built and the larger ships can once again visit the port".

In relation to Urumau Reserve, Councillor Turner is keen to conclude the process and provide some certainty to submitters on the way forward. "We received many more submissions than we imagined, 600+ so the entire process has become much bigger than originally thought. It is providing our Community Board with a good challenge. It has been great to know that so many people in this community care about their reserves. To help the Community Board make the best decision I believe there will also be a public hearings process where submitters will be invited to speak to the Community Board".

"With such interest about Urumau Reserve I trust the community will also get behind the Draft Whakaraupō/Lyttelton Harbour Catchment Management Plan". This plan is being consulted on currently and is a joint project between Environment Canterbury, Ngāi Tahu, Ngāti Wheke, Lyttelton Port Company and the Christchurch City Council. The plan sets a community vision to restore the ecological and cultural health of the harbour. From the Crater Rim to the sea, this whole of harbour vision seeks to reduce sedimentation and erosion, minimize the impacts of pollution and improve our land based and marine biodiversity. "We really want to know if the draft plan is your vision for our wonderful place". To find out more visit <http://healthyharbour.org.nz/activities/> Submissions close December 4th.

Proposed intersection improvements Simeon Quay/ Brittan Tce

This proposed intersection improvement is part of a wider Inner Harbour road project looking at safety improvements.

Open for feedback: 23rd November 2017 - 14th December 2017

Why are we proposing an intersection change?

- The volume of traffic entering and exiting Brittan Terrace from Simeon Quay is a lot greater than straight through traffic.
- The existing intersection layout causes delays on Brittan Terrace with the majority of traffic waiting to turn right on to Simeon Quay.
- To increase pedestrian safety at this intersection, a continuation of the path from Brittan Terrace across to Simeon Quay will be installed.

Proposed changes

- Remove the stopping restriction on Brittan Terrace to allow vehicles to continue on to Simeon Quay.
- No entry to Simeon Quay west from Brittan Terrace, for traffic to flow from Brittan Terrace to Simeon Quay.
- No through route to Simeon Quay west heading from Lyttelton, vehicles to use Brittan Terrace and Voelas Road.
- The new intersection layout will increase pedestrian safety by continuing the pedestrian path from Brittan Terrace to Simeon Quay. New kerb build outs on Brittan Terrace and Simeon Quay to slow vehicles travelling through this intersection.
- New no stopping lines on Simeon Quay and Brittan Terrace to improve the sight lines for vehicles and pedestrians at the new intersection.

Background

This proposed intersection improvement is part of a wider Inner Harbour road project looking at safety improvements. This covers the route between Lyttelton and Diamond Harbour, travelling through Corsair Bay, Cass Bay, Rapaki, Governors Bay, Charteris Bay and Church Bay.

The aim and objectives of the Inner Harbour road improvement project is to improve safety for all road users, including pedestrians and to improve travel times.

Drop in session

Would you like more information? We will be holding a drop in session on Thursday 7 December between 4pm and 6pm in the Lyttelton community board room, Canterbury Street.

Going green for final resting place

Christchurch's first eco-burial site has opened in Diamond Harbour.

The 12-plot "natural" burial site was officially opened in the Memorial Gardens Cemetery last Thursday. Diamond Harbour's Memorial Garden Cemetery now has 12 plots for natural burials.

The "green" site is the culmination of an extensive community collaboration between the Christchurch City Council and the Diamond Harbour Eco-Burial Group.

Council Head of Parks Brent Smith says eco burials have become more popular amid a greater focus on the environment and "natural" values.

"While traditional funeral methods remain the norm, more people are opting for an environmentally friendly final resting place," he says.

"The eco burial site – the first in Christchurch – offers a green alternative to the conventional funeral, along with many ecological benefits for the area.

"It provides people with another option that may better suit their commitment to the environment."

An eco-burial site features shallow plots at a depth within the "living soil layer". Each "green" site is different to suit the local conditions.

In Diamond Harbour, the plots are "slightly shallower" than a standard full burial.

The bodies, which are not embalmed, are dressed in natural, biodegradable materials. The coffin is also biodegradable and non-toxic.

Within a year of burial, the plots are over-planted with native trees and shrubs so that the area eventually resembles a regenerated nature area.

The Council is investigating other possible eco burial sites in the city.

A Child's Story.

The dry, Sri Lankan low-country jungle was very big and scary – not that the small animal knew that it was called “jungle” – to him it was just “here”. In the same way that he did not know that some would call him a very young mouse deer – to him, he was just “me”, but we may call him by a Tamil name, Tumby, meaning “Little Brother”. About the size of a small puppy, a mere snack for a leopard, Tumby was right to be scared.

It was a beautiful evening with the sun moving down out of a clear sky, the shadows extending from under the branches of the low, scrubby trees, many of them sharp with thorns, onto the spaces made by the animal tracks. There was a gentle breeze that carried all sorts of smells to Tumby – and that was one of the things that made it scary, for Tumby did not yet know how to recognise some of those smells. His father had told him that there were all sorts of dangerous things in the jungle but in the few weeks that he had been alive he had not had time to learn what those smells were and now he did not know where his father was to help him. That was the really scary thing. The family had been out together looking for food but because the jungle was so dry there was very little to find and Tumby had wandered away from his parents and now was lost. It was all so BIG.

He got a big fright when a bird with a very large beak in the tree above him suddenly called ka-ka-ka very loudly. He could hear a tearing noise a little way off in the direction of a strong smell but he could not yet recognise that this was just an elephant grazing and so harmless to him. He moved cautiously through the undergrowth. Evening was coming on and it was getting darker. The other animals knew this – some birds with big tails lumbered, shrieking into the lower branches of the trees and, a little further away he heard a harsh coughing sound that frightened him without knowing why. Oh! Where were his mother and father? At last he recognised a smell that he did know – water and he started towards it despite all the other sounds that were coming from that direction. Suddenly, right behind him, he heard a rustling noise very close. Tumby jumped around and a huge wave of relief went through him as he nuzzled his mother – everything would be alright

Future-proofing Whakaraupo/Lyttelton Harbour

“This plan belongs to the community and we want you to journey with us as we turn it into a reality”

Yvette Couch-Lewis

Kia ora koutou katoa. When Te Hapū o Ngāti Wheke, Te Rūnanga o Ngāi Tahu, Environment Canterbury, Christchurch City Council, and the Lyttelton Port Company signed a Memorandum of Understanding committing to work together to create an action plan for restoring the cultural and ecological health of Whakaraupō/Lyttelton Harbour, we wanted it to be a plan that all those who live in the area and use the harbour could see themselves contributing to.

So in the past few weeks we have held a series of meetings to present the initial draft plan to key stakeholders in the area. We wanted to make sure we were on the right track and that the plan aligned with what the community expected of it.

We were excited to hear the initial draft was easy to read and understand, and people appreciated the story that flowed through the plan.

The Lyttelton Port Recovery Plan gave us the conceptual requirements to base the plan around mahinga kai and Ki Uta Ki Tai (from the mountains to the sea) whole of catchment management, and it has been important to stay true to these values.

One way we have tried to do this is by placing a metaphorical korowai over the catchment, where the species weaved into the korowai are the kaitiaki (guardian) species of the health of our natural environment and our engagement and impact on the landscape.

The plan is written using a series of pou - or guiding principles- which include:

- “Change Making” – the idea that everyone can be a change-maker with the power to influence the future of Whakaraupō/Lyttelton Harbour;
- “Mō tātou a mo kā uri a muri ake nei” (for us and our children after us);
- and “Collaboration” – the idea that change will come about with Whakaraupō communities working together to create real and sustainable change.

This plan belongs to the community and we want you to journey with us as we turn it into a reality.

Thank you to all those who made the time to attend these meetings and providing your thoughts and feedback.

We received some great feedback from those who attended the initial meetings and our team spent last week incorporating that feedback into the draft plan.

In the coming weeks, the plan will be available for public consultation on our website healthyharbour.org.nz.

We will also have information hubs around the harbour with staff available to answer any questions you may have about how you as an individual or group can get involved in the plan an input into the health of Whakaraupō.

So please keep an eye out for details and we look forward to hearing from you.

Yvette Couch-Lewis is the Chair of the Whakaraupō/Lyttelton Harbour Catchment Management Plan Governance Group.

The Butler Dresses Again

The Butler began life in 2006 as a showcase for circus students. It morphed into a piece of professional circus theatre. We staged it to sell-out crowds in Lyttelton. We took it on tour around New Zealand. We took it on tour to London. At every stage it got reworked. In 2015 we rewrote it without most of the circus elements and put it on in Hull in the north of England. Here's what they had to say about it in Hull.

'What a genius production. So funny, intriguing and sexy and bonkers. I didn't want it to end.'

'Laughed till I cried. (Don't take the kids.)'

'Bold, hilarious, sharply observational, surreal and deliciously bawdy.'

'My face hurts from laughing'

And overheard in the ladies' toilets during the interval: 'I've never seen anything like it. Even my dreams aren't as weird as this.'

And this is the show we're now staging at LAF, the Lyttelton Arts Factory. If you saw the original Butler you'll recognise The Butler Dresses Again and at the same time you won't. It's still funny and sexy and wrong. It's still like nothing else.

The butler presides over a dinner party in nowhere. The guests blow in on the wind and have no idea who they are, why they're there or what the rules are. So they make it up as they go. The result is cruel, comic, pointless and entirely recognisable.
