SUPPORTING "AMAZING WORK"

Introducing new Project Lyttelton Board member Anne Mackay, who was elected at the July AGM. Anne is also part of the Garage Sale team.

Anne realised that organisations like PL work because people are willing to contribute time and energy and skills to make things happen. "I've been really involved in the garage sale, so over time I got an understanding about how PL worked. When I heard there were some vacancies on the board I decided to put my name forward," she said. Anne has a wide background of experience to draw from and contribute to the governance team. "I used to be a lawyer, I did nursing training post-earthquake, I also have experience in the film industry, the tourism industry." As part of the large garage sale team Anne sees the many hours of love that go into all PL's projects. "I certainly don't have any particular agenda, I'm just really passionate about what I see happening round the community and in constant awe of all the volunteer hours that go into every project."

Anne recognised that having strong governance team was the foundation of being able to support the many volunteers. Three Board members stood down at the July AGM, two are moving overseas and Wendy Everingham, who had held her treasurer position for 16 years, had also offered leadership roles in many projects.

"I realised that everybody needed to be supported, funding is becoming more of an issue. I realised that PL needs to support all these amazing groups that are doing all these amazing things."

"I see how easy it is for things to stop if various people pull out or pull away, sometimes people just have to step forward when they can and give time when they can. We have to make sure the support for these teams and projects continues."

"There's such a wide range of projects and they don't just happen by themselves, I see the work that the volunteers have put in over the years," Anne said. "It's just awesome what they do."

NEW CHIEF EXECUTIVE ANNOUNCED

The Board of Lyttelton Port Company (LPC) recently announced the appointment of Roger Gray as the Port's new Chief Executive.

Roger is Group General Manager Airports at Air New Zealand. In this role he manages all ground handling and lounge operations at 55 airports around the globe, covering 2,700 staff who handle 18 million passengers annually. Prior to this, Roger was Group General Manager Business Performance at Air New Zealand.

Roger will take over from LPC's outgoing CE Peter Davie in the new year.

Chair Margaret Devlin says Roger brings to the role significant expertise and knowledge in logistics, procurement, leadership and operations on both sides of the Tasman.

"His extensive experience running complex business units with large numbers of operational staff is a real asset, not just for the Port, but for the whole Canterbury region. We're delighted to have secured someone of his calibre. We're looking forward to Roger joining us at the end of the year."

Roger says he's eager to take on the challenge of running New Zealand's third largest Port.

"I'm honored LPC's Chair and Board have entrusted me with the role of Chief Executive. It will be tough following Peter Davie. He's had 16 very successful years at the helm, and I'm looking forward to working with the team at LPC to take the Port to the next stage," says Roger Gray.

"The Port's rebuild has really set it up to cement its place as the South Island's international trade gateway. I'm looking forward to being a part of that story into the future.

"My wife Caroline and I are also excited to move to Christchurch from Auckland in the next few months. We know we're lucky to be joining the wonderful Canterbury community."

Before joining Air New Zealand in 2013, Roger was Managing Director - Australia for the Blue Star Print Group. He has also held several senior leadership roles with Goodman Fielder, including Managing Director of Quality Bakers - New Zealand and Supply Chain Director for Goodman Fielder Baking - Australia.

Roger has worked as a Logician at the Sydney Organising Committee for the Olympics Games, and was also an officer in the Australian Army.

He holds an MBA, a Masters of Business in Integrated Logistics Management, as well as Bachelor Degrees in Economics and Arts.

Roger won a Prime Minister's Business Scholarship in 2017 which enabled him to complete an Advanced Management Programme at INSEAD in Fontainebleau, France in 2018.

He was a finalist for Health and Safety Leader of the Year in 2018.

KEEP A LOOK OUT FOR YOUR VOTING PAPERS

Voting papers for Christchurch's local body elections should start turning up in people's letterboxes from this Friday. Each enrolled voter in Christchurch will receive a voting form, a candidate profile booklet, and a pre-paid return envelope.

"There is a lot of choice for voters this year, with 13 candidates for Mayor and a contest for every Council seat," says Christchurch City Council Electoral Officer Jo Daly.

"At the last election in 2016 several candidates were elected unopposed to the Council and Community Boards, and less than 40 per cent of eligible Christchurch voters took part in the election.

"We want to see a higher turn-out this year and are encouraging all eligible voters to take the time to find out who is standing in their area and to cast a vote.

"You will find information about who is standing in your voting pack but the free mobile app Celect is another great way to learn about who is standing. The app lets you browse candidate profiles and shortlist your favourite candidates.

Once you have received your voting papers and decided whom you want to vote for, you should complete your voting form, put it in the return postage-paid envelope, and post it.

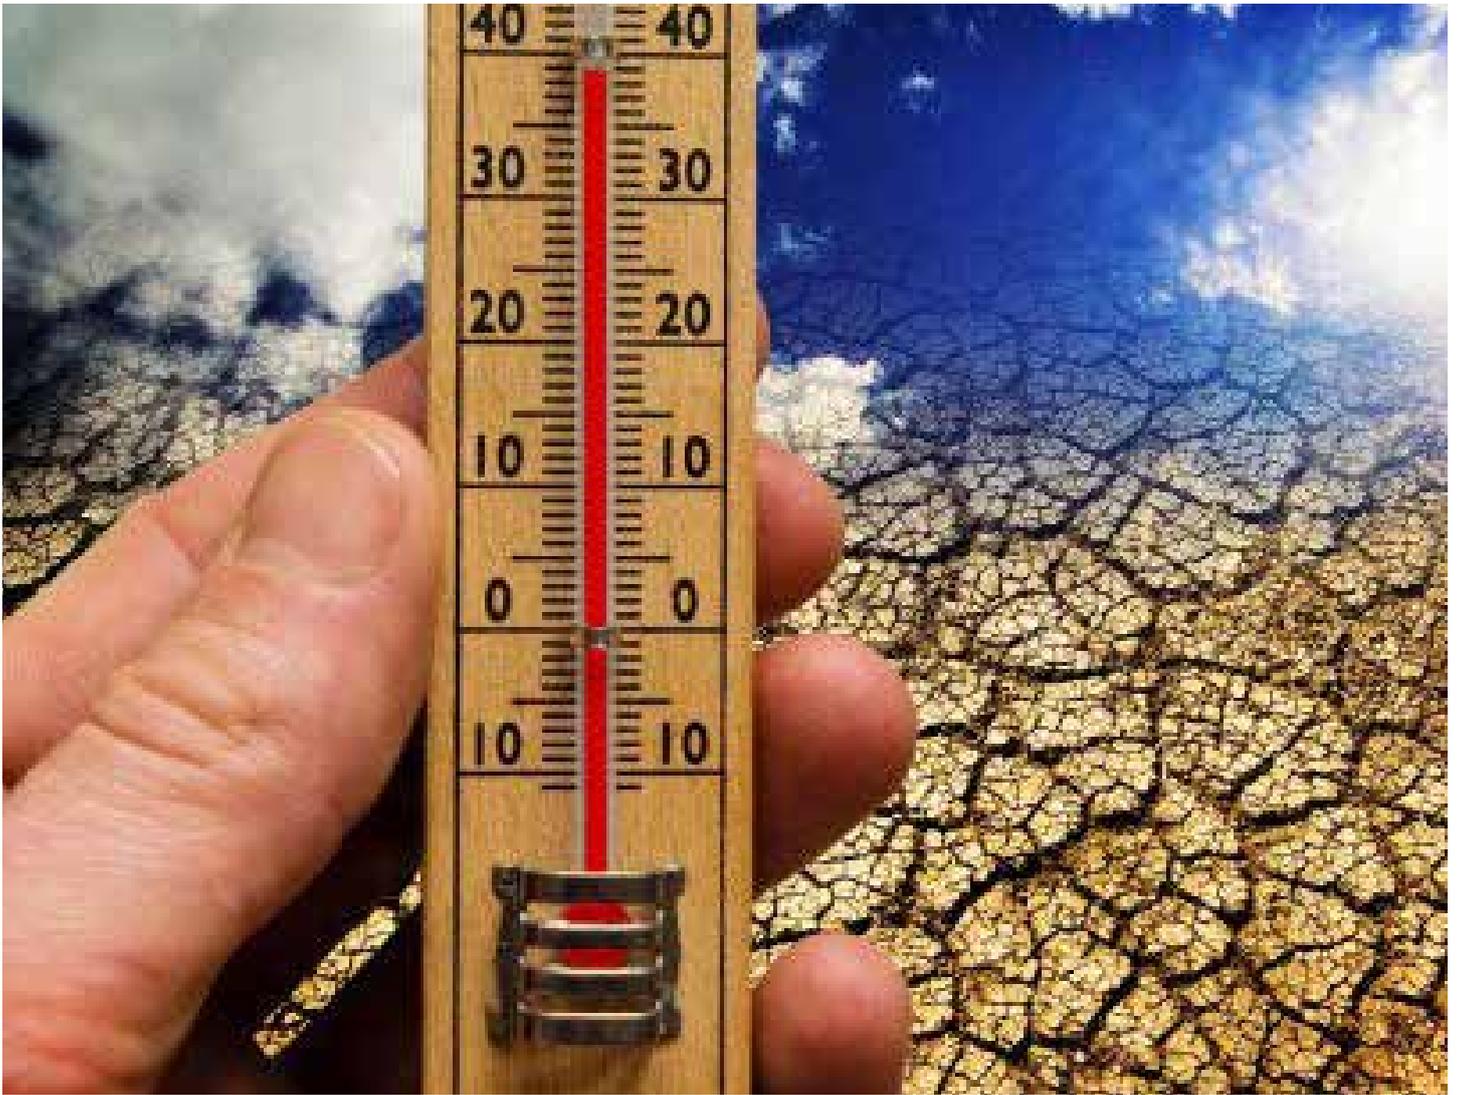

To make sure your vote arrives before voting closes at noon on Saturday 12 October, post it by 5pm on Tuesday 8 October.

Completed voting documents can also be delivered to the Christchurch City Council Civic Offices at 53 Hereford Street, or any open Council library or service centre, until noon on Saturday 12 October.

"If your voting papers haven't arrived by Wednesday 25 September, you'll need to get in touch with us and arrange to cast a special vote," says Ms Daly.

CHRISTCHURCH SETS 2045 CARBON NEUTRAL TARGET

Christchurch will have net zero greenhouse emissions - excluding methane - by 2045 if the city meets the target set by Christchurch City Council.

“We were among the first Councils in New Zealand to declare a Climate and Ecological Emergency and it is important that we back that declaration up by showing our strong commitment to reducing greenhouse gas emissions,” says Council Head of Strategic Policy Emma Davis.

“The Government’s Zero Carbon Bill sets the target of New Zealand having net zero greenhouse gas emissions by 2050, excluding biogenic methane, but the feedback we have received from our residents showed they want us to take a more ambitious approach.

“Today the Council has agreed that Christchurch should set itself the target of achieving net zero greenhouse gas emissions – excluding methane - by 2045.

“To ensure we stay on track to meet that target, we have set an interim target of achieving a 50 per cent reduction in greenhouse gas emissions by 2030.

“By 2030 we also want to see at least a 25 per cent reduction in methane emissions so that we can achieve at least a 50 per cent reduction in methane emissions by 2045,” Ms Davis says.

In 2016/17 Christchurch emitted an estimated 2,485,335 gross tonnes of carbon dioxide equivalent (t CO<sub>2</sub> e). That equates to 6.6 t CO<sub>2</sub> e per person. That is lower than per capita estimates for Auckland (7.9 t CO<sub>2</sub> e) and Dunedin (11 t CO<sub>2</sub> e) but more than Wellington (5.7 t CO<sub>2</sub> e).

The largest contributor to Christchurch’s carbon emissions is transportation. It accounts for 53 per cent of carbon emissions.

Ms Davis says achieving the 2045 carbon neutral target is going to require the buy-in of the entire Christchurch community.

“We’re all going to have to make changes; we are all going to have to play our part in reducing our emissions, but I’m confident that our communities are up for the challenge. This is an achievable target and by adopting it today we are showing that as a city we are committed to playing a strong role in combating climate change.”

SOFT PLASTICS MUST GO IN RED WHEELIE BIN

About 45 tonnes of soft plastics are ending up at Christchurch's EcoSort recycling plant each month because people mistakenly believe they will be recycled. Soft plastics are any plastics that people can easily scrunch or bend in their hand, such as plastic bags, cling film, courier bags, bubble wrap, and cellophane. These soft plastics cannot be recycled because they are low grade and there is no viable local or international market for them.

Soft plastics are causing problems at the EcoSort facility because they have to be removed by hand, which is a time consuming and costly process.

"The automated machines that sort and bale the materials for recycling can't detect the soft plastics so staff at the plant have to remove them by hand or otherwise they will contaminate our recyclable material," says Christchurch City Council Solid Waste Manager Ross Trotter.

"It's a tough job because the soft plastics often get tangled with the other materials and in the machinery itself. EcoSort has had to take on extra staff to deal with the problem so that has added significantly to their operational costs, which has to be passed onto the ratepayer," Mr Trotter says.

"We can't afford though to let any soft plastics into our recycling because if we do, the local and international markets that we currently sell all the accepted contents of your yellow wheelie bin to, will stop buying from us.

"If we lose our recycling markets, then there is a high risk the material you put in your yellow wheelie bin will end up at the landfill and we don't want to see that happen," Mr Trotter says.

"We appreciate the efforts you are taking to recycle but if you have soft plastics, then please put them in your red wheelie bin.

"Do the scrunch test if you're unsure whether the plastic you're wanting to dispose of should go in the red or the yellow wheelie bin. If you can bend or scrunch the plastic in your hand or bend it, then it should go in the red bin," Mr Trotter says.

The Council's wheelie bin app [<https://ccc.govt.nz/services/rubbish-and-recycling/wheelie-bins-app>] can help people work out what should go in each of your three bins.

Tips for reducing your soft plastics use

Use beeswax food wraps instead of plastic cling film or snaplock bags.

For school or work lunches, take your lunch in a reusable container rather than in a plastic bag.

At the supermarket put your fresh produce directly into your shopping trolley and then straight into a reusable shopping bag at the checkout. If you really want to bag fresh produce, use paper bags or light-weight mesh cloth bags.

Consider carefully when you buy – look for items that have little or no plastic packaging.

Consider shopping from bulk bin stores that allow you to bring your own reusable containers.

PLEASE DON'T WALK SUMNER ROAD.

We've just started a massive planting operation above Sumner Road. We're putting traffic management and temporary fencing in place to reduce the risk to people travelling the road from small rocks being potentially dislodged by the planting teams above.

We urge people not to walk Sumner Road - at any time - but particularly over the next month while this work is being done. In rock fall zones, pedestrians are at increased risk than people cycling or in vehicles due to the longer time they spend in the area.

Also, while there is no law against walking Sumner Road, there are no pedestrian facilities on the road, so people walking the road put themselves and other road users at risk, as there is limited or no space for pedestrians to safely move out of the way of cars and trucks.

There are heaps of walking tracks in the area that offer a safe alternative with equally amazing views.

IMPORTANT HEALTH INITIATIVE

Advisory from Naval Point Club Newsletter that is applicable to the wider community

Following the discovery of an introduced mosquito breed that can carry Dengue fever Community & Public Health (CPH) have recently conducted a survey around the waterfront. As part of that survey a number of potential mosquito breeding habitats have been identified and we have been asked to assist in reducing the risk of mosquito breeding by reducing the likelihood of stagnant water build-up prior to the summer mosquito breeding season.

One of the significant items identified as being a risk by CPH are the numerous old / used tyres scattered around the yard being used for supporting dinghies, waka's etc. Our risk minimisation strategy recommends drilling holes in the sidewalls of the tyres (either the underside or both sides) to enable water to drain through. We are working through this process with the tyres utilised by NPCL in the yard or haul out areas. We recommend that members who are using tyres as supports for their vessels do the same, we can assist if you would like us to.

COMMUNITY HOUSE – PLASTIC FREE MEALS

Lyttelton Community House (LCH) is proud of its new initiative to reduce plastic waste. LCH runs a meals service which home-delivers healthy, freshly cooked meals to residents in the Lyttelton, Bays and Heathcote areas. Since April, LCH has stopped using single use plastic meal containers and instead delivers meals in reusable glass containers with reusable lids. Glass containers were favoured over plastic containers, because as well as being microwave-, oven- and dishwasher proof, they are attractive to use.

The reusable glass containers are popular with customers, who are keen to help the environment. If you are interested in ordering a meal, the meals are $8.50/each. Phone 741 1427 or email facilitator@lytteltoncommunityhouse.org.nz

THE GREEN LAB

(FORMERLY KNOWN AS GREENING THE RUBBLE)

We have some exciting news: Greening the Rubble is rebranding to The Green Lab! Our name may change but our focus remains the same: to create urban green spaces that support strong social connections and wellbeing. Christchurch has evolved beyond an immediate post-earthquake reality, and so have we. We wanted a name that was future-orientated and still reflected our approachable, innovative and experimental green nature. We will continue to work with communities to create urban green spaces but you will also see us providing services like indoor greening for organisations and delivering workshops from our new moveable workshop, 'The Green Lab'. Keep in touch with us through:

Instagram, Facebook and our new website. Just be a little patient with us as we work through the different changes.

LYTTELTON HARBOUR WASTEWATER PROJECT

Kia ora from the Lyttelton Harbour Wastewater Project team. We're well underway installing the Heathcote Valley pipeline that will connect Lyttelton Harbour's wastewater system with the main Christchurch treatment plant in Bromley. So far we've laid 1.6 kilometres of the pipeline and on track to complete the project in early 2020. We would like to take the opportunity to thank the community for their patience while we complete the Heathcote Valley pipeline.

Our contractors, Fulton Hogan, are working hard to minimise any disruption this work is causing you, so if you have any concerns please come and have a chat. You can ring Fulton Hogan on 0800 342 48457 or call Council on 03 941 8999.

Across the hill in Lyttelton, our Simeon Quay site is taking shape. The Diamond Harbour pump station is set for commissioning shortly and our team are looking at alternative options to access the Governors Bay foreshore track to complete the pipeline installation works.

Thank you all for your patience as we work towards ending the routine discharge of treated wastewater into Lyttelton Harbour. For more information, please visit <https://christchurchcitycouncil.cmail20.com/t/ViewEmail/r/99ECB413F25FB4362540EF23F30FEDED/2B9E1153515D6BE69E794568BD214575>

PORT SADDLE PLANTING DAY - LYTTTELTON PRIMARY SCHOOL — SEP 12, 2019

A group of students from the Enviro Club went into the hills for the day of the 12th of September. Mila has written an article reflecting on the day.

On Thursday a group of students from our school Heathcote Valley School and went to the Port Saddle planting day when we walked to the Port Saddle.

We did some activities there. Here are some of the things we did, a bird count, where learned about birds that live in the area. We also had an invertebrate expert and we all learned about the invertebrates and their homes. Just like last time the lizard expert was there we got to see two geckos which were beautiful and soft.

After we had lunch we did a planting workshop. We learned why and how to plant and some tips about it. We all got to plant some native trees. All together we planted 60 trees.

Mollie has written a little something here it is...

We got to see cool geckos they felt so nice like velvet. We learned about different types of gecko! The group had the best day!

LYTTELTON HARBOUR BUSINESS ASSOCIATION CHANGING THE GUARD

It's the time of the year when many associations are reflecting on their years' work and new people are stepping up to the vital governance roles. Rob De Thier has been the Chair of the Lyttelton Harbour Business Association for the past couple of years. At the AGM he announced that he was stepping down from this role and leaving committee life after many years of community service.

"It has been a privilege to be part of this group of dedicated and hardworking people. It has been great to see Lyttelton business recover and grow since the earthquakes, and I can only but see a great future for businesses here in Lyttelton as further opportunities arrive like the sale of the Woolstore and the commencement of the cruise ship season in October 2020".

Rob has been particularly proud of the diverse nature of his volunteer team who he believes have acted with the best interests of the wider business community and their own individual businesses. "We have representatives from the retail sector, hospitality, professional services, construction and the Lyttelton Port, which bring a range of skills and contributions to the meeting table and have the skills to move the Association forward" he said.

He highlighted some of the major changes that had happened over the last twelve months.

The sale to the Peebles Group of the LPC owned Woolstore.

"I think the Peebles team will bring a great amount of knowledge with them to put together a great retail and hospitality venue that Lyttelton will be very proud of".

Development of the new cruise ship berth.

"Cruise ships will be returning from Spring 2020. There are already 70 ships booked to visit Lyttelton".

Widening and deepening of the shipping channel.

"This will enable larger container ships to visit and the new generation of cruise liners".

Opening of Sumner Road.

"Local businesses have really noticed an increase in patronage".

No parking requirements for new builds.

"I hope that when this requirement is waived it will encourage land owners to develop many of the vacant sites around the township centre".

As Rob hands on the baton, Vicki Tahau-Paton becomes the new Chair of the Association. Committee members for the New Year are Anne Parkinson, Martin Cooper, Maree Henry, Dana Dopleach, Ronnie Moore, Sam Henderson and Phil de Joux. The AGM was well attended and this year was hosted at the Lyttelton Arms. Everyone was thanked for their volunteer efforts and the new committee was wished well for the year ahead.

OPPORTUNITIES ABOUND

MAKING A DIFFERENCE

There's a lot going on in local Vicki Tahau Paton's life. By profession she's one of our local real estate agents. With spring on the doorstep there are many houses to sell and she's also just taken on the role of selling agent for Lyttelton's newest development, Collett's Corner. Collett's Corner fits in with her ethos of supporting people's wellbeing and building community.

"This development will be a community within a community. Apartment owners, tenants and the public will all share the space. I love that the design caters for older people and apartment living. At last there will be some different housing choices in Lyttelton. I hope this development will stem some of the tide of older residents selling up and feeling their only option is to move to the flat".

Added to her normal workload Vicki has just become the Chair of the Lyttelton Harbour Business Association. With this new role she's very keen to see the LHBA as a facilitating mentoring group for both young and old. She's only been in the role a week and her first initiative is being rolled out. The NZ Youth Mentoring Network will be coming to Lyttelton to run a workshop on October 18th. Thirty five places will be available for young people and locals who are interested in participating. Vicki hopes some students will be able to attend and the training can be included as part of their studies. The workshop aim is to train local people who work with youth and those who would like to work with youth, and give them the skills to have a quality mentoring relationship with younger people.

Vicki's mind is racing at the possibilities.

"Imagine if our young people can be offered relationships with our local businesses and get a glimpse of what future work opportunities are available for them in port. There are so many interesting businesses here ranging from social enterprises, port focused business, hospitality, IT, tourism and retail".

She's also keen for local community groups and businesses to promote themselves.

"I'd love to see an expo or series of expos where we showcase ourselves to all people from here, both young and old. For me it's all about sharing knowledge and helping one another. Years ago I started a business in Lyttelton and it failed. At that time I didn't have much support. I want to ensure local businesses know they have support and that we can work as a team and help each other when support is needed".

Another idea that flies by as we speak is developing a local business directory.

"We used to have one so this shouldn't be too hard to resurrect".

Vicki has also put her hand up to be elected onto the District Health Board. At the last election Vicki stood to be a City Councilor in the Central Ward. She wasn't successful but during this time she got involved with city wide housing forums. Coupled with her work in real estate she knows there are major issues with social housing and health in Christchurch. She's very keen to ensure vulnerable people have healthy housing.

"I think I can have a greater impact on positive outcomes by being on the District Health Board and coming from a wellness perspective", she said.

Vicki wants social housing providers and in particular the Christchurch City Council provider to be forced to follow new legislation on having warm and healthy homes.

"Over 900 social houses do not comply with the regulations in Christchurch due to a loophole regarding the ability to insulate some older style houses" she said.

She's very conscious of a lack of support for drug and alcohol rehabilitation. "It's time places like Queen Mary Hospital were reopened again".

Vicki believes that it's easy to juggle quite a few different roles.

"It's all a matter of organizing your time and priorities well".

Her business is her number one priority and that allows her the freedom to achieve all her other community aims.

WIMBLEDON

STORY CHATS DUNCAN

Pip Andrews watched his son practice serving tennis balls at their Teddington property. The balls followed guideline strings he had rigged months before, most hitting the dead centre of a red painted circle. He smiled, the lad was improving fast, just his speed to work on now. Pip had played at Wimbledon in his youth but had failed to qualify. But Eddie was a much better player, already representing NZ overseas. They both wanted him to have a crack at Wimbledon. 'Now work on your speed son, I'll set the speed camera up.' Eddie was eighteen, weighed 121 kilos and was 2.33 metres tall, giving him a huge physical advantage. Later, Pip entered, 'All over, 129 mph,' he said, 'it's coming along.' 'Yeah, but still not fast enough, Dad. I need to match that Aussie, Sam Groth, who served a staggering 163 mph ace.'

The following year Eddie won a coveted wild card entry. It was now all down to him. Eddie drew Andy Murray, the British champion and a Wimbledon crowd favourite. The youngster beat him in straight sets, Eddie was on fire. The media didn't know how to react to his play. But the Wimbledon crowd did, they loved him. This teenage Kiwi giant stole their hearts, with the incredible speed of his serves. Slow-motion replays showed the accuracy of his aces. Surely, they were witnessing the arrival of a future number one?

By the end of the match bald patches had appeared where Eddie's scorching deliveries had landed. The umpires had never called for so many new balls. International media were eager to learn more. By the time Eddie made the semi-finals, Australia had already claimed him as one of their own; making Kiwis squirm, as Australia had already claimed NZ's champion racehorse, Phar Lap, as their own. 'You dropped off the speed towards the end, Eddie, how come?' 'I paced myself, Dad, the competition is getting tougher, Rafa Nadal was no pushover.' 'Understood, but averaging 131 mph may not cut it with Federer, he's a machine on court.' Pip sighed, he hated pushing his son, but as coach it was his job, plus he had heard whispers about competitive moves, to combat Eddie's speed of play. The media compared him to the Australian legend, Rod Laver, four times Wimbledon champion in the sixties. Pip and Eddie discussed possible changes of play.

'Eddie, play as you've trained, don't try any new moves now, son, stick to the knitting, we know that works, okay?' Eddie nodded. 'Well it has so far, I'm into the semi's, but I wonder what the competition is planning?' Eddie answered. 'I've put out feelers but can't find any reliable information anywhere, said Pip.' 'They could be just trying to unsettle me, Dad.' Pip agreed this might be true. 'The thing is, as we don't know, it's pointless worrying about something that might never happen.' They sat quietly considering how any counter challenge could be mounted.

Eddie served first, a blistering 152 mph ace. Federer's racket deflected the ball into a ball boy, doubling him in two. The centre court erupted with concern. Play was suspended, pending a committee's decision. The injured boy was rushed to hospital and had his damaged spleen removed. Following an all-night session Wimbledon management chose the safest option, outlawing serving speeds over 120 mph. The top speed across professional men's singles tennis players being around 114 mph. Eddie was disappointed but had to accept the ruling.

The semi's match resumed, once the slow clapping had stopped. Federer had first service and delivered an ace. The crowd groaned, with many encouraging Eddie with colonial accents. The atmosphere was electric, the crowd waited for the new star to shine. Media commentators were almost too nervous to speak, for fear of saying the wrong thing on this epic occasion. Federer's second serve slammed into the opposite corner that Eddie could not reach. The twenty times grand slam champion, then gave the young New Zealander a tennis tutorial. He made his muscular opponent run all over the court. Eddie, despite his amazing physique, could not cope and his game fell apart.

The crowd watched in dismay, as their young hero was torn apart, many shedding tears. Federer retained his usual remote calmness and did what was necessary. The match ended with Eddie on his knees, head down, utterly spent and shattered, his Wimbledon dream over. Federer dropped his racket and jumped the net to reach Eddie. Dropping down alongside the Kiwi he embraced him and whispered compassionate words of encouragement. Wimbledon had never witnessed such an emotional act of kindness. The two players gathered their belongings together and supreme champion, Rodger Federer, insisted that Eddie lead the way off-court, ignoring the traditional winner goes first, and the surprised looks of the court officials.

Matinee Performance 1:45pm

Evening Performance 7:00pm

In a truly collaborative project students have been working hard all term on four areas of show production - acting, music, costume & mask design and promotion. LPS has pulled in the talent of local professionals Mike Friend (acting), Tony Geddes (mask & costume creation), Pete Evans (original music) and Fleur de Thier (dance and movement).

Animal Farm is an adaptation of the book written by George Orwell. Over the last few weeks students from Year 5 - 8 at Lyttelton Primary School have been creating masks, researching and marketing while rehearsing under the direction of Mike Friend.

When the downtrodden animals of Manor Farm overthrow their master Mr Jones and take over the farm themselves, they imagine it is the beginning of a life of freedom and equality. But gradually a cunning, ruthless elite among them, masterminded by the pigs Napoleon and Snowball, starts to take control. Soon the other animals discover that they are not all as equal as they thought, and find themselves hopelessly ensnared as one form of tyranny is replaced with another.

With only four performances, this is one show you'll want to book early for!

STODDART COTTAGE GALLERY PRESENTS

Exhibition runs from 6th–29th September 2019

Stoddart Cottage Gallery Diamond Harbour is open every Friday, Saturday & Sunday from 10am – 4pm.

Quality | Connections | Impact - Lifting the effectiveness of Youth Mentoring in Aotearoa New Zealand

We are pleased to offer a brand new workshop about Quality Relationships in Youth Mentoring based on requests from across the youth mentoring network.

In 2016 we released the second edition of our Guide to Effective and Safe Practice in Youth Mentoring. Since then, we've delivered 18 regional Sharing the Kaupapa workshops with 522 practitioners and 262 organisations.

The feedback from these workshops was extremely positive, hence, we have created a brand new workshop based on the demonstrated desire to learn more about mentoring, specifically about the art of forming and maintaining relationships with young people in mentoring.

Workshop objectives:

- To learn more about effective mentoring
- To develop specialised skills to build relationships with young people
- To provide new frameworks, research and skills to strengthen quality mentoring relationships, available for all levels of mentoring programme delivery, including coordinators, teachers, mentors, youth workers and volunteers
- To reintroduce and remind practitioners about the Guide to Effective and Safe Practice in Youth Mentoring (2nd edition)
- To expand upon Section 3 of the Guide: The Mentoring Relationship
- To strengthen regional and national networks in the youth mentoring community
- To have fun!

Workshop content and structure

The workshop is structured to mirror the typical mentoring relationship journey. You will receive a comprehensive workbook, explaining this framework, inspired by recent research about youth mentoring in Aotearoa and in other parts of the world.

- Youth mentoring recognises culture
  - What are the unique indigenous approaches to mentoring in Aotearoa?
  - What are our cross-cultural competencies?
  - How do our cultures weave throughout everything we explore?
- Youth mentoring requires contemplation
  - How do we reflect on our motivations to mentor?
  - How do we consider what young people are looking for and need?
  - Can we name programme aims, goals and expectations?
- Youth mentoring prioritises connections
  - How to connect with young people? What works?
  - How are mentoring relationships formed?
  - Can we reflect on mentors in our own lives, and their impact on us now?
- Youth mentoring creates covenants
  - How can we co-create with young people a shared purpose and goals?
  - How do we set boundaries and expectations?
  - Who needs to be involved in the relational agreement or 'covenant'?
- Youth mentoring includes challenges
  - How can we respond to defiant and challenging behaviour?
  - How do we avoid power struggles and conflict?
  - How can we refocus and get relationships back on track?
- Youth mentoring needs continuity
  - What skills and qualities can we apply as relationships mature?
  - How do mentoring relationships develop long term?
  - What kinds of ritual and rhythms can we create?
- Youth mentoring enables change
  - What impact are our relationships actually having?
  - How can we evaluate progress and the covenant?
  - How do we know we've made a difference?

Please contact the NZ Youth Mentoring Network if you have any questions. E: info@youthmentoring.org.nz
