Lyttelton Harbour Information for the School Holidays

School holidays have now begun and I hope that this amazing Spring continues throughout. In the harbour there are plenty of activities to entertain tamariki.

Black cat regularly cruise from Lyttelton/Ōhinehou to Diamond Harbour/Te Waipapa as part of Metro bus route so just use your Metro card to go. The crossing offers the opportunity to scan the horizon for Hector Dolphins, or get soaked by the spray on the back deck! On land a walk around the headland can be spurred on by the promise of Ice Cream at the top.

You could of course head over to Quail Island /Otamahua. Adults ride free with a child this holiday which makes it a great opportunity to don your pirate hat, grab a picnic and togs and head over to explore shipwrecks, dog kennels, forest and beaches. If you have never been I encourage you to go, it really feels like a world away, especially if you stay overnight. The Department of Conservation hut overlooks Lyttelton and accommodates 12 in 2 bunk rooms. A large living and kitchen area with long table, log fire and candle holders on the wall creates a cosy, relaxed space to while away time. It must be booked through DOC to ensure your place.

Then there is Orton Bradley park in Charteris Bay. The beautiful forest area offers walks through the trees with hidey holes and secret pathways and plenty of insect and bird spotting. Even though the hill tracks are closed due to lambing there is plenty to do in the park itself. Laze by the stream with a picnic whilst the tamariki ride the flying fox, climb over the roped play area or ride the pump track. The old water wheel adds an education aspect if you desire and the cafe offers bonus treats for all.

A small sample of offerings to encourage you to get out there, explore your harbour and enjoy its peace, proximity and beauty.

Ngāti Wheke announces funding for Whakaraupō īnaka study

Whitebait spawning in Whakaraupō | Lyttelton Harbour has been given a boost thanks to funding to Te Hapū o Ngāti Wheke from the Department of Conservation's Community Fund Pūtea Tautiaki Hapori.

Improve spawning habitat and sustain populations

Īnaka ki Whakaraupō is an investigation into īnaka | whitebait spawning habitat at the head of Whakaraupō | Lyttelton Harbour.

The comprehensive year-long study will partner Ngāti Wheke with EOS Ecology and the Marine Ecology Research Group at the University of Canterbury.

Īnaka are an important mahinga kai species for Ngāti Wheke as well as being a key part of the Harbour's ecosystem. Understanding where īnaka spawn in this area and improving their spawning habitat will help to sustain populations of whitebait for generations to come.

Increasing mahinga kai in Whakaraupō

The study is part of the Head of the Harbour project, an element of our Catchment Management Plan that focuses on reducing sediment and increasing mahinga kai in Whakaraupō and its catchments. Ideal īnaka spawning habitat occurs in lowland tidal streams. Streams flowing into the saltmarsh and mudflats in the head of the harbour from Allandale to Moepuku Peninsula are the focus area for the study.

Ngāti Wheke and partners are looking forward to working with landowners whose property borders these streams to share information, help with observations, and discover ways to enhance īnaka and other fish habitat.

A funding announcement was to be made at Rāpaki in August, at the Aoraki Conservation Board Awards, but this event was cancelled due to COVID-19 restrictions.

School students tackle climate change

A group of students from Governors Bay School is doing their bit to combat climate change, in partnership with Christchurch City Council and Future Curious Ltd. On Monday 21 September students delivered a powerful presentation to the Banks Peninsula Community Board on their key learnings and action on climate change.

Students from years 5 to 8 have been learning about climate change as part of the Ministry for Education's climate change learning programme 'prepare today, live well tomorrow'.

The Council have been supporting the delivery of this programme in a number of low lying coastal and inland schools, with additional adaptation lessons for schools to raise awareness and start conversations about the impacts of sea level rise and how we can respond as a city.

Year 7 and 8 students (Sasha Harwood, Kate Rayner, River Lockwood, Flynn Lockwood, Luke Ross and Millie Quinn) provided the Board an engaging summary of what climate change is and why it's a problem, shared some ideas of what could be done, what the Governors Bay School are already doing, and what their hopes and dreams for 2025 were. The presentation concluded with a song written by two of the students and performed live with ukuleles and backing support from their classmates that really hit home with its catchy chorus – 'so you see humans made this mess so we can fix it up.'

Lyttelton Farmers Market 15 Years On...

15 years - who would ever have thought that a farmers market started in a car park of a supermarket would still be going strong 15 years later? Back in 2005 there were only 12 farmers markets in all of New Zealand, and the closest one to Christchurch was in Dunedin. Times certainly have changed...there are now over 40 authenticated farmers markets (according to Farmers Markets NZ) up & running in New Zealand with plenty of others dotting the country.

The Lyttelton Farmers Market has been truly blessed over these 15 years with a great mix of top notch vendors covering all the market basics. And we are quite proud to say that quite a number of the vendors that were there on day 1 are still with us today!

Well the times have certainly changed in 15 years, but the reasons for visiting a farmers market have not:

Taste Real Flavors: The fruits and vegetables you buy at the Lyttelton Farmers Market are the freshest available. Fruits & vegetables are allowed to ripen in the field and brought directly to you - no long-distance shipping, no gassing to simulate the ripening process, no sitting for weeks in storage.

Enjoy the Season: The food you buy at the Lyttelton Farmers Market is seasonal. Shopping and cooking from the farmers market helps you to reconnect with the cycles of nature in our region. As you look forward to asparagus in spring (right now!!!!), savor sweet corn in summer, or bake pumpkins in autumn, you reconnect with the earth, the weather, and the turning of the year.

Support Family Farmers: Family farmers are becoming increasingly rare as large intensive, industrial agribusiness farms steadily take over food production. Small family farms have a hard time competing in the food marketplace. Buying directly from farmers gives them a better return for their produce and gives them a fighting chance.

Protect the Environment: Food travels quite a ways on average to get to your plate. All this shipping uses large amounts of natural resources (especially fossil fuels), contributes greatly to pollution and creates excess trash with extra packaging. Food at the Lyttelton Farmers Market is transported shorter distances and grown using methods that minimize the impact on the earth.

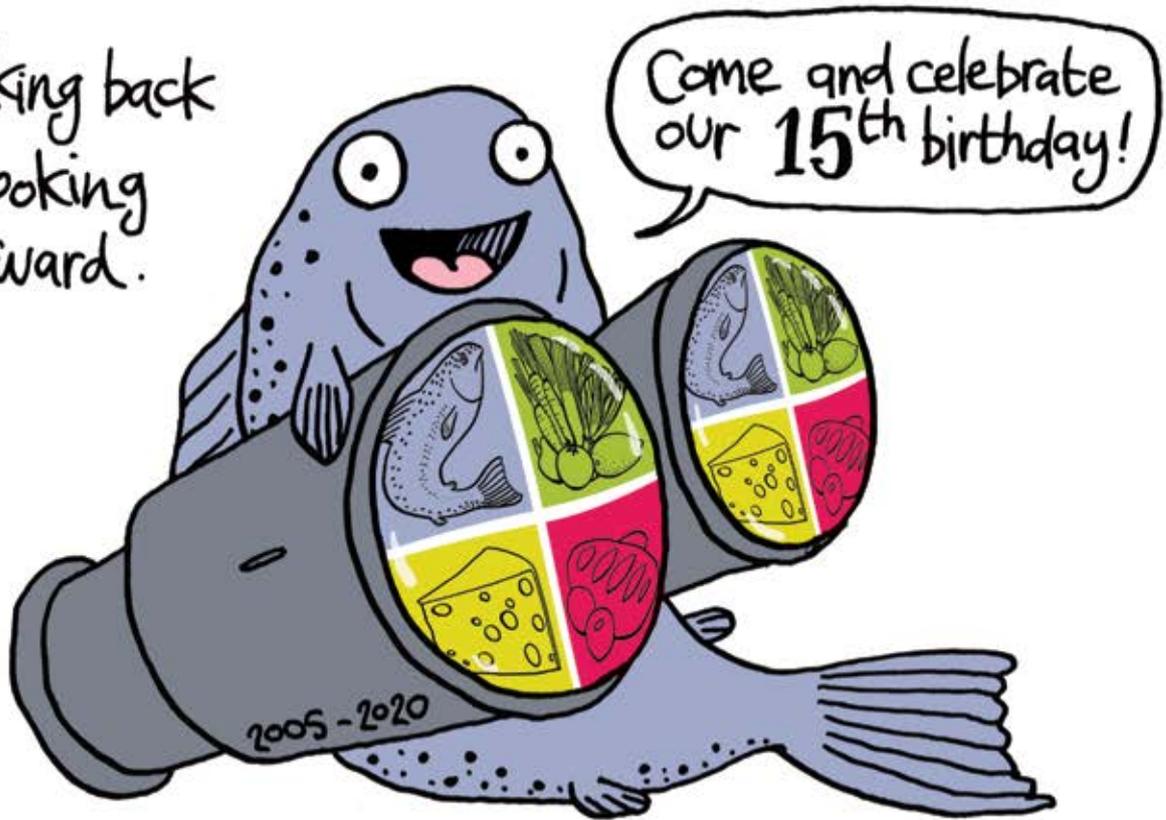

Connect with Your Community: Wouldn't you rather stroll amidst outdoor stalls of fresh produce on a sunny day than roll your cart around a grocery store with artificial lights and piped in music? Coming to the Lyttelton Farmers Market makes shopping a pleasure rather than a chore. The Lyttelton Farmers Market is a community gathering place.

So please join the Lyttelton Farmers Market crew & vendors on Saturday October 3rd 2020 for a wee birthday celebration...

SEA SCOUTS Lyttelton

The Sea Scouts have been a part of Lyttelton dating back to the early 1900's. Many a local has memories of the adventure, antics, fun and comradeship that any group of young people brought together brings. Whether it was Brownies, Cubs, Girl Guides or the Scouts, many of us think back and smile at that time in our lives. Luckily for the kids of the port today there are volunteer leaders and parents who also remember those days and run the Cubs and Sea Scouts today so that we can carry on the adventure for the next generation of boys and girls. In a time where screens seem to dominate, organisations like the Sea Scouts help to upkeep the physical and social skills of our kids. Good old-fashioned fun like we all remember, learning some skills along the way and being a part of something with your peers in the community. How fortunate are we to live by the ocean, where our kids can enjoy learning about the harbour, sailing, kayaking and the importance of keeping our environment safe for the future enjoyment of their children.

We are also fortunate that along the way there are organisations who support the kids with donations and offers of help. Recently we had some of the Lyttelton Port Company staff help to spruce up the grounds a bit and Mitre 10 Ferrymead gifted undercoat, paint and rollers in order to do some much-needed maintenance work on the shower block under the Den. The support of the local community is invaluable and hugely appreciated, so a huge thank you to Lyttelton Port Company and Mitre 10 Ferrymead.

The Den can also be hired for $15 an hour. There is kitchen and toilet facilities onsite and it backs straight onto the Recreation Ground – perfect for that kid's birthday party away from the house.

If you think you would like to be involved, please come down and take a look or contact us for a chat.

Cubs ages 7 – 11 runs Wednesday evenings 6:00pm to 7:30pm during term time.

Sea Scouts ages 11+ and runs Monday evenings 6:00 to 7:30pm during term time.

The Cub Den is located at Charlotte Jane Quay, 1 Godley Quay, Lyttelton 8082, Harbour side of the recreation grounds. Lyttelton Sea Scouts/cubs contact: Ruth Targus – 3288731

Treasure hunt fun te reo teaching tool

A treasure hunt for kids that combines te reo Māori with learning about Ōtautahi Christchurch's artworks, nature and heritage is launching this week. Coinciding with Te Wiki o Te Reo Māori (Māori Language Week), this free Taonga Hunt, starts today and continues through the school holidays until Sunday 11 October.

The trail around Ōtautahi Christchurch helps kids learn words in te reo Māori and provides fun challenges for families to complete while they're exploring Christchurch Art Gallery Te Puna o Waiwhetū, Christchurch Botanic Gardens, Canterbury Museum, The Arts Centre, and Tūranga Central Library.

"Ōtautahi has always been full of treasures, and this activity is a great way to get kids and families out there hunting for them, discovering our city and our shared history while having a great time, keeping active and improving their te reo Māori" says Amy Harrington, Manager Visitor Services at Christchurch Art Gallery.

To begin the adventure, kids can pick up a map from any of the venues involved in the hunt, then follow the clues.

"Follow the map, complete the activities and collect stamps from each of the five locations," says Ms Harrington.

"Then take your completed trail to the Universo café at Christchurch Art Gallery and get a free kids' hot chocolate. Namunamuā!"

Put a spring in your step these school holidays

Our guide to what's happening in Christchurch for families.

Fairy houses in Bottle Lake Forest Park

Help move some fairie houses. Christchurch City Council Park Rangers need some helping hands to move a "fairy village" attached to trees in Bottle Lake Forest to a new location.

The trees that are currently home for the village of hundreds of small hand-made fairy houses near the forest's Juliet Road entrance will soon be harvested for logging.

On Tuesday 29 September at 10am the homes will be moved to a new location and people are welcome to come along and help. You can also bring new fairy houses that you want to put up.

Park Rangers will help with the move and demonstrate how to attach the fairy houses without using nails, which can damage the trees.

People keen to help with relocating the fairy houses can register their interest on the What's on webpage.

Splash into Council pools

Take the kids for a swim or for some extra fun, hydroslides will be open daily at Tairora QEII from 10am until 6pm and Jellie Park from 12pm until 6pm.

There will be a big inflatable obstacle course to play on at Graham Condon each Sunday afternoon of the holidays (12.30pm - 2.30pm), Jellie Park pool most afternoons, and on weekend afternoons at Tairora QEII (2pm - 4pm).

Get arty at Christchurch Art Gallery

For creative kids, the Gallery is hosting school holiday workshops led by professional artists, including Mapping your Imaginary Journey for five to seven year olds (Monday 28 September to Friday 2 October) with Della Rees. Rees explores ways to create an imaginary map using colour, collage and pattern. Bookings are advised, costs $10.

For older children, aged 10 to 18, Watercolour Exploration led by Christchurch artist Sharnae Beardsley is for young people interested in learning watercolour techniques. From Wednesday 7 to Friday 9 October. Bookings advised, costs $20.

Go on a Penguin Hunt at Canterbury Museum

While you're checking out the exhibitions Our Moon: Then, Now and Beyond, or Owen Mapp: Dragons and Taniwha, look out for rocks painted with penguins that have been hidden around the Canterbury Museum. Pick up an entry form and find as many as you can (26 September to 18 October).

There's also lunar-themed storytelling for children in the light of artist Luke Jerram's four-metre glowing MOON installation on Friday 2 October from 10am until 10.30am.

Attendance is free but spaces are limited so you need to register online (note that the storytelling will not take place if Christchurch is at level 2).

You can also help celebrate the museum's 150th birthday with a Night at the Museum from 6 to 8 October. It has created a book of 150 museum treasures – but one of the pages is missing. Kids can dress up as something from a museum, grab a torch and head to the museum from 6pm to 8pm to find the treasure from the missing page.

Night at the Museum is usually a popular event held as part of KidsFest, but was delayed this year because of COVID-19.

Book in some time at the library

As always, Christchurch City Libraries are a treasure-trove of fun indoor activities for children in the school holidays, with Minecraft Game Zones, Claymation Creation workshops, and the Lego-loaded Imagination Station at Tūranga Central Library. Some sessions are bookable and others are drop-in.

Improvise some comedy

Head to The Court Theatre on the first Sunday of the month, including 4 October in the school holidays, for The Early Early Late Show. It's family-friendly improvised comedy where actors compete against each other or work together as a team to create impromptu magic. Perfect for kids aged seven to 12, and with plenty of audience interaction, The Early Early Late Show is a fun theatre experience for kids and their grown-ups.

Spring into Arts Centre

The Arts Centre is holding a Spring School Holiday Programme with arts, crafts, music and a holiday fun zone in the North Quad. There's a Student Makete on the last Sunday of the holidays (11 October), Music with Michal in the Great Hall on 9 October, and activities like Monster Flower Art (4 October in Market Square) and a Stencilling drop-in session (1 and 2 October).

Relax at hot pools

If you haven't visited the He Puna Taimoana saltwater pools on the New Brighton foreshore yet the school holidays could be your chance, but make sure you plan ahead - bookings are essential. There are five outdoor pools ranging in temperature from 26°C to 40°C. Book online for one of four sessions a day between 10am and 5.30pm and take the family for a soak by the sea.

Wai on the mind

He mihi kau ana ki te hunga e noho puhuru mai na i waenganui i o ratou whanau, no reira tena ra koutou katoa!

Wai/freshwater is pivotal to our lives. We rely on it to live, while often not thinking about the effects that our consumption has on our water sources and wider environment. But it doesn't mean that we should shy away from having conversations about where, how and what we need to do to ensure our tamariki and rangatahi have the same access and quality of water that we have today.

Many different people are involved with ensuring we are provided with good levels of water quality and quantity, but it's important to think about the role we play in this process, ensuring this resource remains available for us and for our future generations.

Water quality a Committee priority

Water quality is a key focus for the Banks Peninsula Water Zone Committee (BPWZC) and we work closely with councils and other organisations to help ensure Banks Peninsula has a safe and secure drinking water resource. Sharing data, research and other information with the community is an important part of this.

We also look closely at how we can support rural landowners to understand and follow rules around stock exclusion and riparian planting, and work with councils to support farmers with this.

Knowing what our community thinks of these topics allows us to carry out our roles more effectively and take you with us on the journey, so we'd love to hear what you think – send us an email.

Working Group identifies hot topics

Our Committee has a dedicated Water Quantity Working Group, that identifies hot topics in the water quality/ quantity space, then brings them back to the Committee for discussion.

Recently, the Working Group has been looking at methods to estimate household and stock water use, how much is too much and challenges for sensitive catchments.

The Group is also in discussions with experts in the water quantity field and is working through ways that we can help our community understand how we can make sure our access to clean, quality drinking water for our people and animals is sustainable.

Water use during drier months

Banks Peninsula can see some pretty big rain events, but we are also subject to dry, hot summers – so balancing our use and conservation is important year-round.

These fluctuations in temperature and water levels means we need to be thinking about ways to reduce impacts on local waterways, while preserving water where we can, to use during those drier months.

Rain gardens can be a wonderful source of sustainable water filtration. They are engineered gardens that are designed to use vegetation and soil features to filter and treat stormwater naturally.

They can be used to reduce the effects of stormwater volumes, peak flows and contaminant loads on waterways. Christchurch City Council has some good information about them.

Collecting and using rainwater on your property can also help to reduce environmental impacts during heavy rain events, while providing you with a water top-up during summer.

The Committee welcomes feedback from the community about current issues or good news stories you know of, in the freshwater space.

Our monthly meetings are also public, and all are welcome.

Na, Benita.

Lyttelton Volcanoes Basketball Team

Continuing The Review's delving into sport and fitness in the harbour. I introduce, The Lyttelton Volcanoes basketball team.

Lyttelton youth basketball began a number of years ago at Lyttelton Recreation centre, the emphasis on participation, team work and fun. It was run by Finn who at the time was senior student enjoying playing for his own team and sharing his skills with others with Jeff Bluett an enthusiastic (and patient) parent in support. As time went on and the enthusiasm grew Jeff began taking a team over to join Pioneer Basketball league over at Pioneer Leisure centre. The 5 a side team is made up of age 11 to 13 and has to have a minimum of 2 females. As the students leave at 13 it offers the opportunity for others that have been training in Lyttelton with Darren to move up into these games.

So Lyttelton have had a basketball team for a while now but up until recently they had no team strip...they wore their own tops or borrowed the school sports shirts...not ideal. The kit didn't meet the league requirements either as there were no numbers on the back. With a requirement for shirts there was a need for money!

The Lyttelton Volcanoes applied to SuperValue Community Cash fund and gratefully received $200 which enabled purchase of the superb shirts - Lyttelton colours in reverse, gold with blue logo and numbers. A huge Thank You To SuperValue! The team now proudly parade their shirts on court and these will continue the legacy of The Volcanoes. If you are interested in playing or trying basketball feel free to contact Jeff : shawbluett@gmail.com

University Outreach

Lyttelton Benefiting

For some years now the University of Canterbury has seen the benefits of working closely with the wider community. Project Lyttelton has been fortunate to have been the beneficiary of this outreach. What started years ago with project work in the Geography Department has now widened to other departments and larger assignments. This year Tyler Davies was selected for a three-month community internship with Project Lyttelton. Internships are a prerequisite for her degree - a Bachelor of Social Work Honours Degree.

"Actually, to graduate we have to complete two internships. I'd already completed one placement focused on family therapy and was looking for my next. Project Lyttelton became a possibility and my tutor encouraged me to take this role having herself had such a positive experience in a Community Development organisation when she was studying".

Social Work and Community Development go hand in hand in an incredibly positive way. The opportunity has given Tyler the chance to work at the grass roots level where people are focused on helping and growing their community. Her placement has enabled her to make a significant difference to the lives of particularly youth in Lyttelton.

"When I arrived at Project Lyttelton, the Youth Team required quite a lot of policy development work to ensure the programme was operating safely for everyone. Parts had been written by several people, but it had just not been completed. I was able to complete the work and have re-written, filled in the gaps and implemented the policy! It's been amazing to have been given the opportunity to do this work from start to finish. I don't think too many students are given the freedom to do that".

Tyler must have done an exceptional job. Her passion for youth has paid dividends and when she's graduated, she's been appointed the part time coordinator of the Youth Programme for Project Lyttelton! That means she will be helping guide three groups of young adults with the support of Shannon Mudge and the community advisory team that work around them. She has lots of great ideas to engage them and develop the programme to be a lot more than a drop in place for youth.

She's also had so many opportunities that she would never have imagined. "Shannon and I were invited on a Māori Leadership Programme and I've learned so much that I can apply from that".

Even though Tyler never met Margaret Jefferies she feels she's been touched by her legacy. "I watched the film made about Margaret last year and it gave me insights for my course work and how to create a solution to an issue using Chaos Theory"!

The beauty of Project Lyttelton is there are many varied projects to be involved with. Tyler spent quite a bit of her time also working at the Garage Sale and the Lyttelton Timebank. Her social work skills have been especially useful for both of these projects.

"I've really loved that in all the projects I've worked on it feels like everyone is equal. There is no hierarchy and everyone's skills are valued." As she has since found out, that is a core foundational value of the Timebank. "I'm also so impressed at the willingness for members of this community to get involved and give freely of their time to make things happen. What's more amazing to me is some of these people are helping day after day. It's not a once off feel good experience."

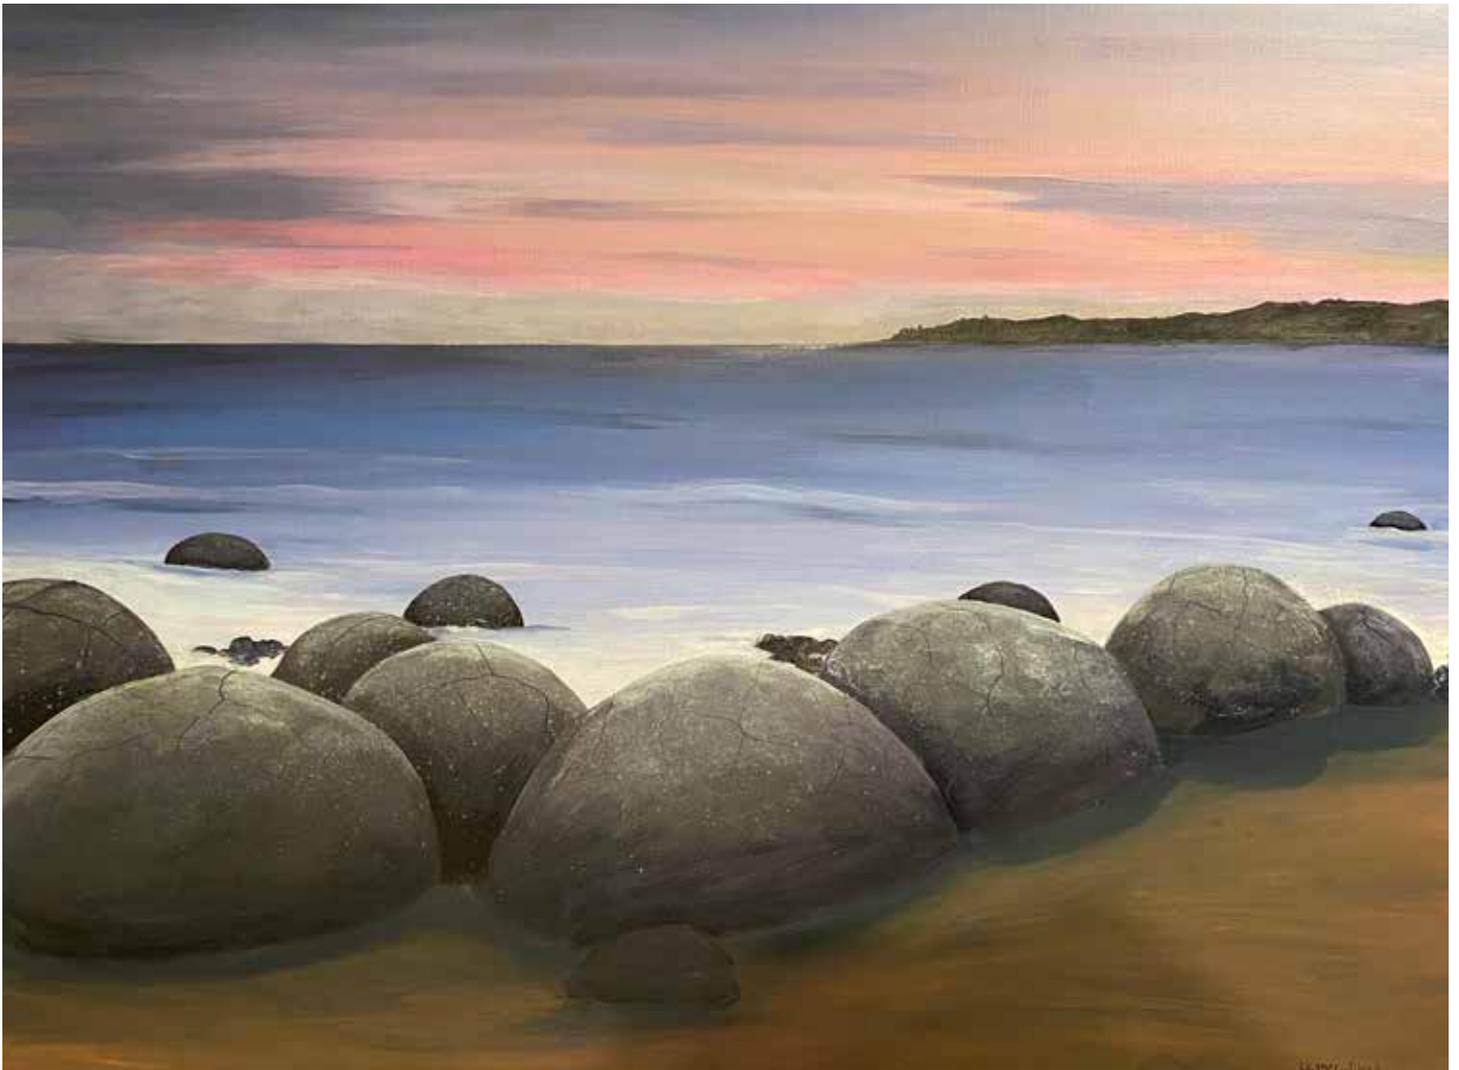

The closeness of the community has touched her in more ways than one. "For myself I'm so surprised that after three months I can walk down London Street and people acknowledge me. I love the interconnectedness here."

Tyler has really loved the opportunities this placement has given her. She's had the freedom to create, connect and lead knowing that she has the support of the Project Lyttelton Team, especially Manager Jacqueline Newbound when needed.

"The most special thing I have taken away during my time at Project Lyttelton is the "Week of Gratitude". It's been so lovely to see how an organisation has valued and appreciated all the special people within it."

Vibrancy & Peace

Ursula McCulloch & Kevin Mackay

2 October – 1 November 2020

Stoddart Cottage Gallery, Diamond Harbour

Opening event – 2 October 6.30-8.30pm

Ursula McCulloch is an artist and clinical psychologist who paints landscape because she enjoys the vibrancy and peace nature offers. She works mainly with acrylic on canvas. "Acrylics capture the energy and immediacy of the landscapes I choose to paint", says Ursula McCulloch.

Her exhibition features iconic and lesser-known scenes from around New Zealand, where she came to settle from South Africa nearly 25 years ago.

Ursula McCulloch's paintings are accompanied by a display of wooden toys and other objects handcrafted by Kevin Mackay, who began making things with wood after he retired to Charteris Bay. Using mostly recycled rimu, as well as quilla and pine, each object is finished with an appropriate coating, either Danish oil, varnish, bees wax polish or brightly coloured paint. "I gain great satisfaction when someone buys one of my products and appreciates the work that goes into it" says Kevin Mackay.

Historic Stoddart Cottage is the oldest surviving dwelling in Diamond Harbour and birthplace of well-known Canterbury painter Margaret Stoddart (1865-1935). The gallery is open 10am- 4pm every Friday, Saturday and Sunday, and will be open on Labour Day Monday as well. See www.stoddartcottage.nz.

Lyttelton Library of Tools and Things - Traps

In case you weren't aware, the Lyttelton Library of Tools and Things also have a variety of traps to loan courtesy of Predator Free Port Hills. Currently the loan period is for 4 months but the folks at Predator Free Port Hills would like everyone to know the following:

Predator Free Port Hills has been pleased to partner with the Lyttelton Library of Tools and Things to offer traps on loan. The intention of this arrangement was to give locals the opportunity to try backyard trapping and to trial particular traps. However, trapping is a long term game. Predators constantly move in and out of residential backyards in search of food so trapping needs to be ongoing to be successful. Predator Free Port Hills offers subsidised traps for sale - these are normally about 50% to 60% of the retail price. The traps are subsidised by grants and donations to the programme. Wooden tunnels with victor traps are available for $20, trapinators for $30, DOC200s for $40 and the 2 Goodnature self-setting traps for $130. Once you have finished with your loan, we would encourage you to purchase the trap (you can keep the one you have if you like and we can provide another trap to the library). Make sure you have signed up to our website www.predatorfreeporthills.org.nz so that you are on our mailing list for events and newsletters. Trapping is a bit of an art and we offer advice and support to improve success. To purchase the trap, please contact Alison lyttelton@predatorfreeporthills.org.nz

Little Ship Club of Canterbury Time to check your life jackets.

Before you head out sailing this summer its worth giving all your safety gear a once over to make sure that things like your flares are in date, that your VHF radio works (call Maritime radio on Channel 16 and they will let you know), that your fire extinguishers look ok, no corrosion - give them a bit of a shakeup. Have you got a bucket on board (great for bailing and dousing flames), bungs beside all your seacocks, is your anchor warp securely attached to the boat? Also now is a great time to service your life jackets and throw out any old kapok ones.

Red Zoned Land begins to transfer to Local Ownership

Within the last few weeks, the Crown agency, Land Information New Zealand (LINZ), has transferred the regeneration areas in Brooklands and most of Southshore and South New Brighton to the Council. The Ōtākaro Avon River Corridor land will be transferred in tranches over the coming years as LINZ reconfigures more than 5000 land titles.

The balance of Southshore and South New Brighton red zone land will be transferred in the coming months, and the Port Hills red zone land in May 2021.

CCC Draft Tree Policy Have your Say

Trees play an integral part in reinforcing our identity as the Garden City, a reputation which many Christchurch residents pride themselves on. As well as their aesthetic values, trees also provide a range of other essential environmental, economic and social community benefits. With the current challenges being faced through climate change, the vital role which trees play in sequestering carbon, cooling through shade and managing stormwater has never been more important. We understand the need to take a leadership role in the management of trees to ensure that the many benefits provided by such a vital resource are maintained for future generations. Through proactive management of trees on public land these benefits can be maximised and retained for the future.

We are currently developing an Urban Forest Plan which will address the strategic planning of our urban forest. Our Tree Policy will align with the Urban Forest Plan and should be read in conjunction with it once this is in place.

Policy scope

This policy includes all trees on land we own and look after, including parks, reserves, roads and other public spaces.

The following activities are included in this policy:

Planting, Maintenance, Protection during construction or earthworks, Removal

This policy does not include trees located in the following areas:

- On private land
- On state highway land
- Public land not owned or looked after by us
- Other areas which are not included in this policy:
 - Native revegetation or regeneration
 - Plantation forestry
 - Riccarton Bush

Consultation open until October 12th

Collett's Corner Another Step Closer

Over three hundred and forty New Zealanders invested in the first phase of Collett's Corner back in 2019. The second phase of the project is now open for Lyttelton Harbour locals and other New Zealanders to invest via an equity crowd funding campaign. The project is seeking a further $800,000 – $1.4 million to fund the final design phase. The money will enable the directors to engage the architects, engineers & builders, and other professionals to get the project underway for the construction phase in Summer 2022.

This is the first property development project in New Zealand that has taken a totally new approach to how a building is created. Generally, a property developer will do the entire process from beginning to end. The developer takes all the risks and all the profits. They build exactly what they like within council regulations. In this instance the general building concept has been generated by anyone who was willing to engage in the community conversation. Ownership is shared. The commercial space is being shared by many hundreds of people who have the option of purchasing shares via the equity fundraising campaign and the apartments are for sale individually to people who want a slice of living in a building where you have the ability to co-share assets.

Being a "first", not everything has gone quite according to plan. A competition was held to create a design for the space. The selected winners design has been modified substantially since selected. Modifications have mostly come about due to city council building requirements not aligning to the initial design. Camia clarified, "Yes the design has departed substantially due to the city council requirements, this is very true. However, it is not abnormal for property development and in hindsight I needed to emphasise that a concept design always evolves".

Some of the popular ideas have also not made the final designs. Initially a movie theatre and swimming complex was dreamed about but these have not come to fruition due to cost. The overall concept of the building has however remained. Communal spaces, shared facilities for the residents, a wellbeing centre, a place to work, a hospitality centre. A vibrant hub in the centre of the township where people can meet easily and feel connected and well.

The building project is challenging how you go about developing property and how it is owned. How can ownership be fairer? How can we get better outcomes for everyone involved? How can we turn this space into what is better for community rather than the individual? How can we use scarce resources better? These are questions are being asked around the entire country.

Founding Partner Camia Young is hoping to find answers to these questions and has certainly put her money where her mouth is so to speak! She could have gone the traditional development model and just gone her own way and done as she pleased but she has not. She is trying to forge a new path forward that is more inclusive and equitable.

"If we can demonstrate that this model works here it could be an example of change that could ripple out to other parts of the country. This would put Lyttelton on the map AGAIN in the way of leading innovative community initiatives."

Camia really wants to define the next era of architecture, creating places of connection, and belonging.

"I truly believe it is possible to create a more equitable society if we work together".

To find out more about this project visit www.collettscorner.nz Shares are available to purchase via PledgeMe. Investment. Each share is $120 and the offer is available until October 29th. Apartments are also on sale now.
