Sno Clothes | Milly May Returns

Popular Manufacturer and Retailer Returns to London Street

As a result of the February 2011 earthquake, more than seventy five percent of Lyttelton businesses located with the Town Centre have had to relocate. When we watched Sno Clothes and Milly May being evacuated from the damaged London Street building in February, it was heartbreaking to see.

In true Lyttelton spirit though, Sno Clothes and Milly May owner Heather McMillan never doubted her ability to pick herself up and continue trading. Confronted with an evacuation, a salvage mission, and relocation of her workshop to her very own garage in order to keep the business going – the hard work and determination has proved rewarding with business being as busy as ever. And now demonstrating confidence in both her business, and in Lyttelton's recovery, Heather has just recently returned to No. 8 London Street.

While you won't find Sno Clothes or Milly May in exactly the same location [next door to what was Satchmo's] on London Street, you will find her tucked down the lane, directly behind her previous retail location, at No. 8a London Street. Just walk down the footpath located along the side of the building.

There is no denying the past sixteen months have been difficult, but Heather remains positive about the future and says that "at long last we are able to get back to our workroom. There are still repairs being completed to the building, and heaps of work to do to get the new space looking as good as we would like - but it is so great to be back on London Street".

Established in 1974, Sno Clothes have been designing and manufacturing right here in Lyttelton, providing the market place with quality ski, wet weather and merino clothing for both adults and children. Designs are all original and they use quality waterproof breathable outer fabrics and light weight warm insulation. And as their brand suggests: Sno Clothes – timeless style for the active outdoor person.

And there is more to this successful company. Offering a delightful urban chic range of aprons, home accessory and clothing lines, gorgeous Milly May products are also manufactured and designed by Heather right here in Lyttelton. Everything at Milly May is hand made from quality 100% cotton, and Heather checks each item personally before it is sent out.

In our eyes, the return of Sno Clothes and Milly May to London Street has to be a cause for celebration! And Heather couldn't agree more. Make an effort to visit Sno Clothes over the next week or two, and Heather will be able to offer you quite a few jackets and merino tops for half price, or even less! You won't be disappointed in seeking out Sno Clothes and Milly May, but be in quick to make the most of the generous relocation reopening specials.

about the lyttelton review

Lyttelton Review is a community newsletter initiative developed by local Professionals real estate agent Lynnette Baird and Lyttelton Harbour Information Centre chairperson Wendy Everingham. The objective of the Lyttelton Review is to help keep local residents informed with what is going on in the wider Lyttelton Harbour community. Each week readers can read about community groups; businesses; events; and everything in between. If you have an event, topic, cause, or other, that you would like to share with the harbour community, then we would love to hear from you. Be heard, be seen, be informed - read it or offer it here.

Bells Pharmacy Health Advice

Winter: Influenza Outbreak

There is a lot of influenza [flu] in Christchurch at the moment, around five times as much as there was a couple of weeks ago [do not panic it is mostly normal seasonal flu not the swine or bird flu].

It still kills around 400 hundred people every year in New Zealand though [mostly the frail and elderly], now that is still more than the road toll each year! So it's worth taking it seriously. The flu normally has symptoms such known as the FACTS: Fever, Aches and Pains, Cough and Tiredness including a total lack of energy. Symptoms may have a sudden onset, and sometimes a sore throat and runny nose or eyes. There are four ways you can help stop your family from catching it.

Stop Spreading It - this works to stop most bugs

- Wash your hands often, particularly after touching a door handle or hand rail in a public place, money or an eftpos machine.
- Cover coughs and sneezes - sneeze or cough into your sleeve or use a tissue and dispose of it promptly.
- Stand 1.5m (a step and a half) or so away from those who are sick, to not breath in their air.
- If you feel unwell, stay at home - don't make your school or workmates sick too.

Tamiflu - it is proven to work

If you get the flu, the Doctor or Pharmacist can give you anti-virals such as Tamiflu. If started within the first 48hours of the flu it can make it less severe and last a day shorter. The rest of the family can also take it to prevent them from getting it. Tamiflu is free of charge on a prescription, but costs around $75.00 per person if you buy it off a pharmacist. Bells Pharmacy can also give you cold and flu tablets to help you feel better. Vitamin C and Echinacea can help colds, so could also be worth a go, especially as the average person finds it hard to tell sometimes whether it is a flu or cold.

Get Vaccinated - the best way to protect yourself by far!

The vaccine is changed every year to contain the worst and most common flu's predicted to be a problem for this year. It is free until 31 July 2012 for all children and young people until their 18th birthday. And those who are over 65, pregnant, and people with chronic health conditions such as diabetes or asthma. Otherwise they cost around $35 dollars at your local medical centre. Note it takes two weeks before the vaccine fully protects you, so do it ASAP. Buccaline or Buccaline Berna as it used to be called cannot be used instead of the flu vaccine, it is something totally different. It will only help prevent colds turning into throat infections.

Stay Healthy

Eat well: 5+ a day of fruit and vegetables. If your diet is not great at the moment a multi-vitamin could be of some help to give you what's missing in your diet on those bad days. If you feel you are getting sick boosting up with Vitamin C and Echinacea may help stopping or reducing a cold. Keep your home warm. Less stress and plenty of good sleep.

Why is Christchurch so bad? People are working and living much closer together in crowded houses, and damaged offices and classrooms. Earthquake damage to homes has made living conditions worse for some people. Many only have portable toilets and may not be washing their hands as well as they normally would. Some homes are colder or damper than usual making it easier for people to catch the flu and to develop complications from it. Earthquake related stress is also making people feel run down and more vulnerable to getting sick.

Another Option: Lyttelton Civic Square

An Alternative Proposal by Local Residents

Imagine a public square in the heart of Lyttelton's London Street. One, which is central in the business core, offers expansive views across the port to the harbour, and provides a sunny, level area, accessible to a variety of events and gatherings.

Peter Rough, long time resident of Lyttelton and Director of Rough and Milne Landscape Architects, made a submission on the Draft Lyttelton Master Plan with just such an idea; a civic square on the untenanted supermarket site, 17 London Street.

Whilst appreciating the reasons given by the Council for not hearing submissions, Peter soon discovered that Nancy Vance, another local Landscape Architect, made a similar submission so the two have teamed up to share their enthusiasm for this concept. To demonstrate the potential of this site as public space, the team has submitted a draft concept to the Lyttelton Review for residents consideration.

Although they are not aware of the site owner's long term plans, other than to lease the building shell, they are aware that the site is too large to be a viable supermarket in Lyttelton and believe the former Ground site to be better suited in scale and position for a local grocer or general store. They believe that the Canterbury Street and Oxford Street intersections at either end of London Street's core business area offer strong "bookends", architecturally, to the heart of Lyttelton. These bookends should be enforced with appropriate buildings thereby giving support to the form and rhythm of the remaining [and future] buildings along the main street.

The concept relies on land purchase or land swap options between the owner of 17 London Street and the Christchurch City Council, and the pair believes it offers huge rewards to locals and visitors alike. In conjunction with long term plans for waterfront access in the Draft Lyttelton Master plan, this site offers potential for future connections to the waterfront along a central axis [through the block], supporting the master plan's proposal for internal lanes in that block.

A creative and feasible idea worth "putting out there"!

- Located in the centre of the core business area
- Offers views of the port and Lyttelton Harbour
- Captures the north sun and provides wind shelter
- Large, level area
- Easy access
- An exciting potential location for Lyttelton Market, music events and much more
- Offers potential for future connections to waterfront along a central axis supporting the Lyttelton Master Plans proposal for internal lanes in that block

Lyttelton Farmers Market Corner

Features: New Trends for Markets

Wendy Everingham, Lottie Harris [Project Lyttelton] and Brian Rick [Harbour Co-Op] were fortunate to attend the bi-annual Farmers Market Association conference in Auckland last week. It was really interesting to get an overall picture of farmers markets across New Zealand.

Lyttelton is one of the earlier Farmers Markets established in New Zealand, and is still performing really well. Some markets have flourished and others have fallen by the way side. Some markets are like Lyttelton's and have been set up for the community, while others have been set up by the growers.

Each market type has a different flavour. Project Lyttelton seems rather unique having an umbrella organisation running the market. Other Farmers Markets are operated purely as an Incorporated Society for a single purpose, and others are operated by a business.

Authenticity is what is driving the future of the markets. Farmers Markets have no copy right over the use of the term but if they can comply with an "authentic" brand, markets can be differentiated from one another. Authenticity means that sellers must be associated with the production or growing of the products, products must be local, and value added goods need to be sourced locally as well. On selling is not permitted.

Currently the Lyttelton Farmers Market does not comply as an authentic market but it is the aim that we continue to head in that direction.

Linda Hallinan from the New Zealand Gardener was one of the key note speakers at the conference in Auckland. She had loads of ideas for the markets of the future. Key trends from overseas include having stalls that have small indulgences, food trucks that have ethnic foods, local dry goods, interesting drinks and more basic supplies. Community gardens are also going to go hand in hand with markets and spare produce will be distributed via markets.

Conference participants came away feeling inspired and Lyttelton Farmers Market manager Lottie Harris was brimming with ideas for the future of our successful market.

Living Springs: Stream Enhancement Project

Creating High Quality Environment

It's all happening at the Living Springs Farm Park. If you have been past lately you may have noticed changes in the landscape with trees being felled and fencing going up. This is all in aid of our stream enhancement project which we have undertaken with the help of Environment Canterbury and Task Force Green.

As stated in the Living Springs Mission statement "we aim to create high quality environments where people have experiences that enrich them as human beings, enable them to grow stronger together and inspire them to live life to the full". This incorporates the enhancement of the diversity of ecosystems within the property and the rich experiences the Living Springs environment offers.

The work will involve fencing off the stream from the picnic area at the Farm Park down to the Governors Bay-Teddington Road. Fencing on both sides of the stream through the paddocks aims to keep the stock away from the waterway. Native riparian vegetation will be planted along the stream banks, with 1700 plants ordered.

The stream is home to eel, inanga and other native fish, and the project aims to provide a 'source to sea' environment to protect and encourage these native species.

The fencing and planting should decrease the sediment on the stream bed improving water quality. Together with the planting of native vegetation, the aim is to minimise the biodiversity threat to this area and produce a healthy in-stream habitat with the ability to support healthy populations of invertebrates and native fish.

Living Springs also wish to extend a warm welcome to anyone interested in helping them to plant. Simply phone the Living Springs team 03 329 9788. They will be planting over the next two weeks.

Take a look next time you drive past!

LIFT Library

Living Economies + Inspiration + Facts + Transition

Here is the latest news from the LIFT Library. The LIFT Library is the lucky recipient [thanks to Wendy Everingham] of a powerful and important book:

Globalization and its Discontents 2002

Author: Joseph Stiglitz

As Chief Economist at the World Bank till 2000, and then Nobel Prize winner in economics in 2001, Joseph Stiglitz has a unique insider's view into the management of globalization. He speaks out against it: how the IMF and WTO preach fair trade yet impose crippling economic policies on developing nations; how free market "shock therapy" made millions in East Asia and Russia worse off than they were before; and how the West has driven the global agenda to further its own financial interests. Stiglitz offers real, tough solutions for the future. Now 10 years since he wrote this, it's fascinating to read his suggestions for managing the issues then, and to think how they might have prevented the disastrous financial and political mess we now face. He is still active and writing.

To become a member of the LIFT Library, based right here in Lyttelton, contact Juliet Adams on 03 328 8139 or mobile 021 899 404, for more information. And if you are already a member, and these books appeal to you, remember Juliet offers a complimentary pickup and delivery service to the Lyttelton Harbour Information Centre, or the Project Lyttelton office, if you are unable to make it over to the LIFT Library in Voelas Road.

Here at the Lyttelton Review we love receiving your stories and notices about events. Keeping it local and keeping it relevant has resulted in the growth of the Lyttelton Review. One page at a time we are all working together to help connect residents around the Lyttelton Harbour. We couldn't produce the Lyttelton Review each week with your contribution. So here's a big Thank You from the editorial team to everyone who receives and continues to contribute to the success of the Lyttelton Review - your views, ideas and stories are appreciated and always welcomed.

CERA Community Meetings

Implications of White, Green and Red Zone Announcements

A community meeting was held last week in Lyttelton to give Port Hills residents further information on the new land zoning announced on June 30. Speakers included Roger Sutton from CERA; Mayor Bob Parker; Dr Jan Kupec CERA Geotech; and Bruce Emerson from EQC.

A key part of the meeting was explaining the defined level of risk that authorities are applying to residential areas in the Port Hills. Roger Sutton used the analogy of the acceptable risk society applies to driving. Roughly 400 people die on New Zealand roads each year. With a population of 4,000,000 the chance of this happening to you is 1 in 10,000. Society has effectively judged this as an acceptable level of risk. Authorities have transposed this risk level to the chances of us being killed in our homes by rock fall, cliff collapse and landslide.

For residents of Lyttelton, Corsair Bay, Cass Bay and Rapaki the main risk for us is the threat of rock fall. Generally people who were zoned green quite a while ago fall within the 1 in 10,000 risk zone now. Residents who recently moved from white to green fall within the risk bands of 1 in 5000 and 1 in 10,000 and it's believed over time, roughly 2016 these homes will all meet the new level of risk criteria. Homes still within the white zone also fall within this band and the discussion now is can the threat of rock fall be mitigated. For homes that have been zoned red authorities believe these homes can never meet the required level of risk and that no mitigation can eliminate the risk because the numbers of rocks falling is too great.

Jan Kupec explained that in most seismic places around the world the threat of rock fall has been able to be mitigated because it is only a few rocks that endanger people. In our case the numbers of rocks are in the 100's and thousands and no rock walls can cope with that amount of material. No where in the world are there design standards for this type of work.

With a greater understanding of the rock fall risk the city council will be reviewing land use and sub division controls for the entire Port Hills region. Bob Parker touched on the issue of council contributing to the land pay out for red zoned residents and indicated that the council is liable for some of the bill because it's not the residents land that is causing the problem, it's the council reserves above their properties that creates the hazard.

Bruce Emerson from EQC then gave some general information. Residents whose homes moved from red to green can now contact EQC to get their emergency repairs completed. He indicated that there are 8500 people in the Port Hills area and to date 1000 homes had been repaired. People who are red zoned, over cap payments and with repairs over $50,000 are being prioritised.

A brief update was given to residents who receive temporary accommodation allowance from the government. Currently this subsidy is due to expire in February 2013. Officials indicated this is under review and it's anticipated that the time frame will be extended and rates may increase.

If you require more information Earthquake recovery centres are based in Avondale and Beckenham; and if your home remains in the white zone or has a section 124 we have a large information pack at the Lyttelton Information Centre that might be useful for you. Professionals Real Estate Review

Earthquake Damage: Transferring Home Insurance Policies

Late last week CanCERN issued a media statement discussing the transferring of insurance policies when someone sells their home. The primary concern raised is that existing insurance claims, rights or agreements under the home owners' policy are not automatically transferred to the buyer of the property.

When a home owner takes out an insurance policy, the policy is an agreement between that particular home owner and the insurance company. When the home owner sells the property, under some insurance policies, the insurance company enters a new agreement with the new owner. The insurance company may not be bound under the new agreement to provide the identical level of cover as before - irrespective that the property remains the same, or even if an Assignment of Deed of Rights is signed over to the purchaser.

This can be particularly problematic if you are selling a home that has not been fully assessed by the insurance company, as to whether or not the home will be repaired or rebuilt. Even being zoned Green is no assurance your home will be rebuilt. Should your home be assessed as requiring demolition and rebuilding, the insurance companies generally offer two options: cash settlement at indemnity value [land excluded]; or rebuild to same size and comparable standard. The option to rebuild is usually only available to the home owner holding the insurance policy at the date the damage occurred. If the home owner decides to sell the property, then the buyer might well be buying into an indemnity value policy, which is considerably less than full replacement.

Further, contents insurance policies are generally not transferrable. Some home owner benefits associated with contents insurance includes: an accommodation allowance; carpets and drapes. When the buyer of a property takes ownership of a new home, there may be no compensation for these benefits during the rebuilding or repairing process. For example: if the home is to be rebuilt, the new owners might be unlikely to claim for the replacement cost of carpet.

If you are thinking of selling your home there are a number of documents you will need to bring together, including: property assessment details from both the Earthquake Commission and your insurance company covering house, land and contents; a copy of your insurance policy; a letter from your insurance company confirming that they are willing to transfer insurance coverage; together with confirmation from the insurance company as to the level of that coverage.

If you are buying a new home you will need to secure copies of all of the above relevant property documents, together with a clause in the Agreement for Sale and Purchase that the contract [at a minimum] is subject to your acceptance of earthquake insurance.

Regardless of whether you are selling or buying, open communication between all parties: vendor, purchaser, insurance company, respective solicitors and the real estate agent is paramount to ensure everyone is aware of what is, or is not, included with the sales transaction. And always engage the services of a solicitor when selling or buying property.

Even under the best intentions, in this post earthquake environment everything is constantly changing. What is "right" as of today might well be "incorrect" tomorrow. This short article does not attempt to discuss in full, all the factors home owners and buyers need to consider, but does highlight that extreme care does need to be exercised when selling or buying severely damaged property in this real estate market.

Note: For the most part, the above article only applies to homes where confirmed damages and repairs exceed the Earthquake Commission cap of $100,000 +GST per event claimed. Properties with repair work completed, or repairs being undertaken by EQR, or another nominated project manager, continue to be sold in this market, and more often than not, without undue stress.

Insurance Watch

Volunteer Group

www.insurancewatch.org.nz is the work of a team of volunteers helping quake affected Christchurch property owners.

From personal experience and local surveys, Insurance Watch is a residents based group who understands that there are significant differences in the progress experienced by customers of different insurance companies. These differences matter to all New Zealanders who have insurance.

The group are now gathering more information to clarify:

- the differences or disparities between insurance companies
- progress (or lack of progress) getting people back into their houses
- what's happening (or not) to affected property owners

In short, which insurance companies are doing well, which are not, and why? By undertaking this survey, the group hopes to improve the insurance response in Christchurch, and also let all New Zealanders know which insurers will provide effective support when you most need it.

To take the survey, and learn more about this group, visit: <http://www.insurancewatch.org.nz/>

Update: Visitor Industry

What has Happened to the Visitor Industry

In early June, Christchurch and Canterbury Tourism issued their ideas for a visitor services recovery plan for Greater Christchurch. Here is a summary of their main points followed by a discussion on how we think our harbour can contribute to the recovery:

State of Play since February 2011

- The accommodation sector and particularly the central city hotels and backpacker accommodation were most affected. A 40-50% reduction in available beds, mostly in the central city meant that the city could not accommodate the normal level of visitors at the busiest time of the year.
- The Christchurch Convention Centre, AMI Stadium and QE II Stadium were all closed reducing the number of events that attract longer staying and higher value visitors to the city.
- All of the major central city attractions, with the exception of the Botanic Gardens, were closed and most have remained closed since 22 February 2011.
- The central city with its retail, bars and restaurants and other visitor services has remained closed to the public.
- A year on from the February earthquake and the full impact of the disaster for the tourism sector is evident:
- Many tourism operators that are able to operate find that their markets have reduced in size or disappeared altogether.
- Christchurch has lost over one million guest nights with two thirds of them being international visitors.
- The direct impact on the Christchurch tourism sector is an estimated decline in visitor expenditure of $235 million in Christchurch city and $350 million across the Canterbury province based on the loss of visitor nights.
- The Arts Centre is repairable but will remain closed for years, while the Christ Church Cathedral is to be demolished with no firm plans regarding a replacement.

Contact Juliet Adams on 328 8139 for more information.

Update: Visitor Industry

What has Happened to the Visitor Industry

- Seven hotels have been demolished or will be demolished with no plans by their owners to re-instate these properties. This represents a loss of 25% on the city's hotel rooms. A further 30% of hotels remain under review and many may not be re-instated.
- Only one new hotel is under construction and one airport hotel is in the process of building 24 new rooms on their site.
- Demolition of buildings in the central city is providing an inhospitable visitor environment and delaying the repair of hotel buildings.
- Major decisions have yet to be made regarding the location and rebuild of a new Convention Centre and sports facilities and this is slowing both the rate of visitor recovery and accommodation investment decisions.
- Air access has reduced as visitor numbers have declined with 15% fewer seats available on Trans Tasman services and Air Asia X announcing their withdrawal from KUL-CHC services from 31 May 2012.
- Between January 2011 and January 2012 international guest nights to the South Island have reduced by over 963,000 indicating that Christchurch's losses have not been taken up by other locations.

While the major focus for the visitor sector is based around the recovery of essential infrastructure, it is important not to lose sight of the potential for the recovery to become a catalyst for further development of the visitor sector. The earthquakes have given Christchurch the opportunity to challenge what we had and make decisions both about improving [developing] existing infrastructure and amenities as well as identifying new opportunities for development that will enhance the visitor experience.

The focus of this recovery plan is the next five years [2013 – 2017]. It is essential that the infrastructure, amenities and services that will drive tourism over the next 20 years are determined and implemented over the next five, if they are to have the desired positive impact on the Christchurch and South Island economies.

Canterbury Christchurch Tourism Vision

Our vision is based on meeting the needs of existing and future visitors, growing the economic impact of tourism and creating sustainable business opportunities.

- Visitors and visitor markets will recognise Christchurch as a future focused world class city.
- Christchurch provides a unique range of high quality experiences and attractions that earns its "sticky destination" rather than just "gateway" status.
- Visitor industry grows in terms of total visitor numbers, high value visitors and its overall contribution to the economy.
- It creates sustainable employment opportunities and profitable businesses.

Major Areas for New Opportunities:

- Visitor attractions – people come to places to see and do things, iconic experiences have the capability to assist in the decision making to visit a destination, increase the length of stay and encourage repeat visits.
- Accommodation – without a range of accommodation to meet the needs of a broad based visitor market, a destination will miss out on some market segments.
- Events – have a strong pull for participants and spectators, have longer stay times and can encourage further visits in the future (e.g. Rugby World Cup). Events can also contribute to achieving a better seasonal balance and visitor demand.
- Conventions – encourage visits by people who may otherwise not have visited Christchurch. They can also encourage repeat visits and strong recommendation for others to visit. Convention delegates tend to stay longer in Christchurch and spend more than leisure travellers.

plenty to share

In Lyttelton so many residents grow vegetables; or have fruit trees literally dripping with produce. Plenty to Share is about sharing any excess produce with the community. So if your lemon tree is yellow with goodness and you can't keep up with making lemon curd or drinking enough gin and tonics, bring those surplus fruits down to the organisers, where every Wednesday between 3pm and 6pm the swapping of produce is well underway. If there is something on the Plenty to Share table that you would like to take home, then you are warmly invited to do so. You will find Plenty to Share on the corner of London Street and Canterbury Street.

Lyttelton Visitor Industry

Tourism Opportunities for Lyttelton

So what is the state of play for Lyttelton Harbour? Gradually the Harbour is recovering as a visitor destination again. Whilst visitor numbers are considerably lower than prior to the earthquakes the area continues to attract family, friends and some overseas travellers. All hospitality and accommodation businesses in Governors Bay have re-opened. In Diamond Harbour the General Store is expanding with a new hospitality business is about to open; and accommodation businesses are mostly open. In Lyttelton, cafes, restaurants, music venues and bars are returning. Lyttelton has been the most affected for accommodation supply with all its hotel related rooms wiped out and many private homes too damaged to operate as Bed and Breakfast options. Like Christchurch many of the visitor attractions have been closed down since February 2011.

Loads of visitor opportunities still abound for our area and in many cases turnaround time for implementation is much quicker because we have the ability to do most of the work ourselves. Events are one of our strongest assets. The Lyttelton Harbour Festival of Lights has continued to operate since the earthquakes. This has brought large numbers of visitors to the township, helped existing businesses improve cash flows, enabled many community groups to fund raise and helped the wellbeing of existing residents.

The introduction of the Urban Downhill was a great initiative this year. Sport tourism definitely draws a different crowd of people into Lyttelton and its hoped this becomes an annual event. The weekly Farmers Market is also another draw card for Lyttelton and has the potential to attract more food and hospitality businesses to the township.

Working in partnership with the Christchurch City Council their new event IceFest will have some events in Lyttelton during September and October, further reinforcing the attractiveness of the town. The Festival of Walking will return this year. The first two weekends in November will see many interesting walking options harbour wide. We have the ability to showcase our assets with "Harbour Treasure Hunts" as a new form of walking experience. To add to this it seems the summer festival will return again and no doubt many other initiatives will be thought of and actioned. This all increases the profile of the township/harbour and the attractiveness of a visit when many of the iconic central city attractions and experiences are unavailable.

Visitor attractions are returning. In the very near future we should see the return of Grubb Cottage as an historic experience for Lyttelton. This adds to the Torpedo Boat Museum. Cycle tourism also has the potential to increase with round trips of the harbour taking advantage of the existing Diamond Harbour ferry and the bikes on buses initiative. Gradually the walking experiences should return as well. Towards the end of the year "The Loons" will also re-open creating a much loved theatrical experience in the township again. Opportunities also abound for us to tell our success stories. Why are we such a resilient community? How are we doing things differently?

An opportunity exists for our township to have its own conference space. With such a shortfall of venues in the greater Christchurch area surely this is an opportunity awaiting us. Maybe the first co-operative owned conference space in the country?

Accommodation is our most pressing need and at the moment is our biggest limiting factor for visitor arrivals. We really need a boutique style hotel/motel, budget accommodation and a place for campervans to overnight. In the short term opportunities exist for residents whose homes are repaired to consider opening Bed and Breakfast options.

Lyttelton has the ability to be the destination in Christchurch where people can see how a community creates its future. We have abounding energy linked to creativity and a can do attitude. That can create almost anything. We have the ability to create the opportunities that Christchurch and Canterbury Tourism identify at a local level. These opportunities are waiting on our doorstep, the challenge is to take them up.

combined church service

Since the deconstruction of Lyttelton's historic churches you may not have heard that Lyttelton hosts a combined church service every Sunday morning at 10.00am at the St Joseph's Community Centre, 21 Exeter Street, Lyttelton. All residents welcomed.

Canterbury Regional Passenger Transport Plan

Review of Public Transport Options

Under the Public Transport Management Act 2008, Environment Canterbury is required to adopt a new Regional Public Transport Plan by January 2012. Disruption caused by the earthquakes, however, meant this deadline has been extended in Canterbury until 1 January 2013.

It is Environment Canterbury's role under the Transport Services Licensing Act 1989 to plan and administer public transport services in the region, while local councils have the responsibility for providing supportive on-street infrastructure such as bus stops, shelters and bus priority measures.

Public transport services covered by this Regional Public Transport Plan include services provided under contract to Environment Canterbury utilising large passenger service vehicles (buses), small passenger service vehicles [taxis and minibuses], and the Diamond Harbour Ferry. This includes the metro bus services operating in Greater Christchurch, and the scheduled bus services in Timaru. It also includes other non-scheduled passenger services that receive financial support from Environment Canterbury, including Total Mobility services and subsidised community vans.

As part of the process of developing this Regional Public Transport Plan, a network planning exercise has been undertaken to determine the changes that are needed to enable the public transport system in Christchurch to better respond to changing travel demands. This exercise forms the basis of the new network operating concept which is incorporated into this Regional Public Transport Plan. While this will mean some changes in travel arrangements for some bus users in Christchurch, the new concept has been designed to make more efficient use of Christchurch's public transport resources, while retaining or improving service levels wherever possible.

Under the Regional Public Transport Plan the Lyttelton Metro Bus service Routes 28 and 535 are identified as "connector services" with proposed minimum service levels to include:

Hours of Operation:	Week Days 7am to 8pm	Saturday 8am to 7pm	Sunday 9am to 6pm
Frequency:	Peak Every 30 minutes	Daytime Every 30 minutes	Weekend Evening Every 60 minutes

Route 28 Lyttelton|Rapaki is listed with proposed changes in late 2012, including an extension to the route from the Central City to Papanui via Cranford Street. Route 535 Lyttelton to Eastgate is identified as a "trial route" which will be regularly reviewed.

Under the description of services to be provided, the Diamond Harbour Ferry service is classified as a "link service" and while there are no proposed changes to the route [Diamond Harbour to Lyttelton] the minimum service level is proposed:

Hours of Operation:	Week Days 7am to 6pm	Saturday 9am to 6pm	Sunday - Based on Assessment
Minimum Frequency:	Peak Every 60 minutes	Daytime Every 60 minutes	Weekend Evening - Assessment

Environment Canterbury will be using the special consultative procedure set out in the Local Government Act 2002 to seek feedback on this Draft Regional Public Transport Plan. The procedure includes provision for public submissions, and for submitters to appear at public hearings that will be held to consider submissions. Members of the public are therefore invited to consider the contents of this Draft Regional Public Transport Plan, and to make submissions by the closing date of 03 August 2012. Submissions should be in writing and can be made to:

Post: Free Post 1201, RTPP submissions, Environment Canterbury, PO Box 345, Christchurch 8140
E-mail: mailroom@ecan.govt.nz
Fax: 03 365 3194

lyttelton live music scene

Lyttelton is hosting some great live music these days: Tuesday 7.30pm Open Mic Night at Wunderbar; Wednesday 8.00pm Marlon Williams Live at Port Hole Bar; Thursday 7.30pm Live Music at Porthole Bar; Saturday 10.00am local musicians at the Lyttelton Farmers Market; Sunday 3.00pm Courtney Carmel at Freemans; Sunday 6.00pm local live music at the Lyttelton Club. So don't say home! Head on out and celebrate all that is Lyttelton Live.

Suburban Papers Available

Do you know that each week at the Lyttelton Information Centre you can collect most of your local newspapers? We get all the editions of The Star, Bay Harbour News, generally the Akaroa Mail and sometimes the Christchurch Mail. Every Thursday we also have hard copies of our own Lyttelton Review. We also have local events advertised in our windows plus many brochures for events happening in the greater area.

Flatmates Wanted

One flatmate wanted for a lovely London Street cottage. Large bedroom, and less than a minute walk from the village centre. Would suit a professional, easy-going and tidy person. $140/week plus expenses. Please contact Emily 328 7137 or 021 0399120.

Room offered for a hardy soul to share a large house with me, a male of the species, as well as some tame furry animals. Though it be on the west side, it faces east and there be some winter sunshine. London Street is a cruisy, level five minute walk away. Most mod cons and plenty of furniture to use. Will favour applications from nice people. $150 per week, plus bills. Hugh - 328 9090 or 0220 745301.

Available for Rent

Large studio which would suit a tidy couple or a single person. The kitchen, washhouse, dining room is a separate room. It is sunny and warm as it has double glazing and insulation and a heat pump. It has amazing views. It has a large deck and a lovely garden. It has a security system and a wastemaster. It has a bath and shower and a walk in wardrobe. It is not furnished. Costs $280 per week. No pets. Phone Michelle 328 8020 or 027 416 0625.

Three bedroom house in Corsair Bay, now available. It has some earthquake damage to cladding but is warm and sound inside and weather proof. Anyone interested could contact me in the first instance and I will put them in touch with owner. Phone Rose 027 662 4837.

Lyttelton Review Loves Your Feedback

Dear City Council

While the gritting of your associate towns roads is appreciated, what your department doesn't understand is that this grit is almost as hazardous as the icy conditions if it is left after the thaw especially on our crater towns steep slopes. Pedestrians are in great danger of slipping on our roads without footpaths and even footpaths receive a spray of grit from car tyres. Two examples of the present danger are the lower steep of Ross Terrace, (I swept the higher one) and Ross Parade. They are heavily sprinkled with grit and quite dangerous for foot traffic, also near impossible for climbing two wheel drive vehicles. Please be prepared to sweep up after every grit application.

Doug Illingworth
