Lyttelton's Talented Residents

A Mediator On Our Doorstep

Need something in Lyttelton and you can just about guarantee that there is someone who can fit the bill. Our township is blessed by people with wide ranging skills. The Review has been seeking people who might be able to help residents in these challenging times.

Lyttelton resident Chantal Jousserand-Shirley is a trained mediator, and she just might be able to help you if you are experiencing difficulties with the various authorities regarding the earthquakes, or your family situation is tense. Chantal, originally from France, arrived in Christchurch twenty five years ago. Lyttelton became her home four years ago and like most of us she was charmed with the great views, our village feel and the great walks.

As a mature age student she completed a degree in psychology, and it was during that course of studies that she took an elective subject that focused on Peace Studies. This unit introduced her to the concept of mediation. "I loved the concept of getting people together and helping them move on" she said. For the last fourteen years she has been working in this field as a restorative justice facilitator, tenancy mediator and community mediator.

Her work is a mixture of volunteering and as a paid consultant. She tells me about a volunteer community justice project that she is part of. This gives her a way to give something back to the community whilst helping offenders address their difficulties. She is particularly pleased that collaborative processes are being increasingly used as a way to resolve conflict.

She explains the nuances of mediation. Some mediators like her have gone through many years of training [Chantal will have completed a Masters of Management in Dispute Resolution by the end of this year] whilst others may be lawyers who have added a mediation module onto their training. They often come to mediation with a legal hat on and not the depth of skills that a fully trained mediator has. Chantal explains that her role as mediator is to facilitate conversations [often difficult conversations]. It can make a huge difference to have the presence and skills of a mediator to help with the conversations.

If you are needing help with disputes her advice is "think about a mediator first". Mediators are impartial, fair and cost effective. They are not a counselling service or legal advisors and they don't make decisions for the parties. Generally two or three sessions will enable you to resolve your issue. Her advice is "you don't have to live with conflict; your wellbeing should be placed above that". If you are stressed in these challenging times this option might just be worth a try. Chantal has a private consultancy called "Time to Resolve". She can help mediate all disputes for families, employers and the community. You can contact her on 328 8219 022 618 8532 or timetoresolve@xtra.co.nz

Bells Pharmacy Online Advice

Innovation Takes Getting Advice to the Next Level

Lyttelton pharmacist John Thrupp and the caring team at Bells Pharmacy have come up with an innovative way to provide pharmacy health care advice via the social media giant Facebook.

Bells Pharmacy established a Facebook page in July 2011, for the purpose of communicating directly to their local customers. And while the Bells Pharmacy Facebook page provides the visitor with a visual delight of historic Lyttelton images, promotions and competitions, the team are now working to taking this one step further.

Most of you will have seen the health advice article the Lyttelton Review ran last week. The article was written by Bells Pharmacy, and the team are looking at doing one such Family Health Topic every fortnight on their Facebook page. Anyone who joins, or Likes, Bells Pharmacy on Facebook will see first hand each of these Family Health updates.

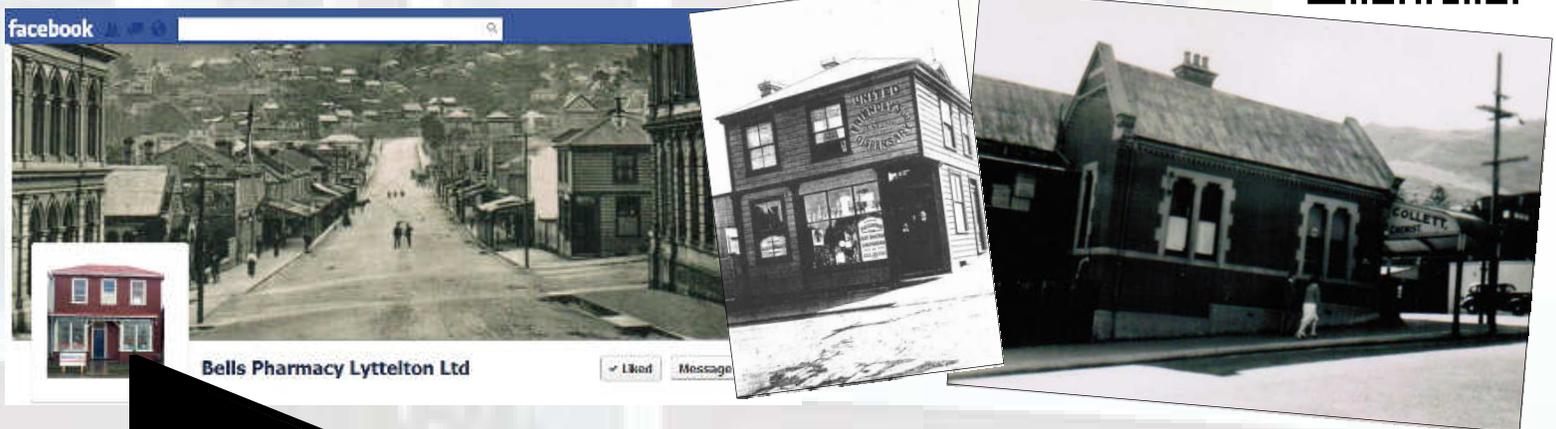

But this initiative doesn't stop there, and here is where it gets exciting. As a Facebook user, you can respond to the Family Health Topics, even ask some curly questions to the Bells Pharmacy Team. Now how great is that. Without leaving the comfort of your own home, or work desk, you can fire through questions to the team for answering. If you have a particularly personal question, you can always use the private messaging service that Facebook provides.

Along with great advice and health care tips, the Bells Pharmacy Facebook page will also feature competitions and special promotions. Bells Pharmacy currently have three great promotions on at the moment. One promotion gives you the chance to win a set of four Hairy Maclary children's books valued at $100! Simply purchase any Nurofen liquid and you are in the draw. How easy is that. Competition closes 31st July 2012.

So, if you are a Facebook fan, then jump online and LIKE the Bells Pharmacy Facebook:

Lyttelton Fletchers Hub

An Update from the Team

The Lyttelton Fletchers hub is responsible for repairing homes on the Banks Peninsula with earthquake damage between $10,000 and $100,000. The Lyttelton Review met with Belinda Thomas and Roger Woods this week to get more information on the work they are doing, how it's getting done and what options people have.

Q: Who are the accredited builders?

A: There are over 1,000 accredited builders in the Fletchers Scheme. There isn't a published list. The easiest way to find out who is accredited is to ask the builder you prefer or just take the builder allocated to you via the Fletchers team. All builders allocated by Fletchers are accredited. In Lyttelton some of our local builders are accredited. Builders for Fletchers jobs can come from all over Christchurch.

Q: How do you ensure the work is to the right standard?

A: Builders and their teams must meet set standards. You are guaranteed that if the work isn't completed to the right standard the work will be re-done. As a safe guard if a contractor doesn't perform well they have three opportunities to improve otherwise they can be removed from the scheme.

Q: What options do residents have with the scheme?

A: When you are first contacted by Fletchers to get your repairs done you need to have thought about what you want to happen to your home. If you want Fletchers to repair your home you need to be aware that they will only repair your home to the EQC brief. You will get like for like and can make no modifications or get extra work done at this time. The only other option you have is to ask for your preferred accredited builder. If you don't nominate your builder at this point you will be allocated one of Fletchers preferred builders. Once you make this choice you are locked into the process and you cannot request a different builder.

Q: Under Fletchers can residents choose different cladding systems for their homes?

A: The cladding will be replaced by the materials that you currently have. If you have bricks, you will get bricks. Different materials are not permitted because extra work is involved in the rebuild. When like is replaced with like no building permit is required but when brick is replaced with wood, a building consent is needed because the existing framework of the home needs to be modified.

As quoted from the Department of Building and Housing: Schedule One - Work that does not require a building consent: Allows an exemption for any 'lawful' repair and maintenance using comparable materials, or replacement with a comparable component or assembly in the same position. This clause allows people to repair and maintain existing building elements [components or systems], using comparable materials, as long as the work is 'lawful', which means it must comply with the Building Code and other legislation." calling all community groups

The Lyttelton Review has been designed to help keep Harbour residents informed. It is a tool to be used for sharing information, and is widely circulated across residents, business and media contacts. A great way to find out what has happened during the year from our community organisations is to read their Chairpersons AGM summaries. If you would like to share your AGM reports, or any other information as required. with the wider community we'd love to hear from you.

pass it on, spread the word

Not everyone receives these news letters, so please pass them onto anyone you think would be interested. We can also arrange printed copies for interested parties - just let us know. A big thank you to everyone who emails us with what is happening in their part of Lyttelton Harbour paradise. If you have news, or belong to a community group, own a business - get in contact with us, we would love to promote or share your story with the Lyttelton Harbour district. Errors, Omissions and Typos are all part and parcel of a volunteer service. These quirky additions are offered free for your amusement. But, if we have "got it wrong" - please just let us know.

Q: What happens to a persons household goods when the repairs start?

A: If the repair is small any household items can remain in the home. If the repairs are extensive and all the floors need to come up, storage for household items will be arranged. Storage could be a shipping container. It is the home owners responsibility to pack things up.

Q: How are jobs being prioritised?

A: By the end of 2013 the hub is aiming to have all jobs over $50,000 completed. Smaller jobs will be slotted in to ensure teams are always working.

Q: When should someone consider opting out?

A: If you want additional insulation, new materials, more space and a variety of things over and above your EQC scope you need to opt out of the Fletchers scheme. Be very careful at this stage. If you apply for the "opt out" package the system assumes you are opting out. You may only be making an enquiry. Confirm with the Fletchers hub if you wish to continue in their system.

Q: What do people need to now about the "opt out" system?

A: You become the project manager under this system. You are responsible to get the building consents and all the paperwork to complete the job. You will be directly liaising with EQC and your preferred builder and you will be required to pay your builder as the project progresses. You will not be paid a lump sum in advance to complete the job but will be reimbursed from EQC as the job progresses. Progress payments will be negotiated with EQC and based on agreed payment schedules.

There was a great turnout for the first Quiz night last Wednesday. Five teams faced the quiz master for the first session of the quiz night series. The night was topped off by a little physical challenge [Boat lace? - well, you have to be there!].

Quiz night will comprise a series of seven nights, spread over July and September on Wednesdays nights. Questions will be biased to things nautical, but not directly related to boating. So bring your land lubber mates!

Anyone and everyone is welcome to participate! Best six scores count for the end of series prizes. Maximum of six people in a team, $30.00 per team. Bar will be open and dinner will be available at 7pm, approximately $15.00 per head.

So that the Naval Point Club can know numbers please download a Quiz Night Entry Form from www.navalpoint.co.nz and send it through to Ken [secretary@navalpoint.co.nz] by Monday 9 July, but you can enter on the night for $35 a team.

CERA Chief Executive Update

Monday 9 July 2012

The recent land decisions on the Port Hills have been followed up with community meetings in various locations, and last week we saw over 600 people at afternoon and evening events.

Another meeting was held last week, but this type of engagement is not the only way those recently zoned Red, White or Green can find out more information about their land decision. You'll see that we have Dr Jan Kupec and Mayor Bob Parker explaining the decisions and the next steps forwards for you.

Dr Jan Kupec has also been taking the time before and after these meetings to talk to people individually about their land decision and help them understand more about why their land is now zoned Red or Green, and what has yet to be assessed before the remaining 166 properties get their new zoning.

CERA's community wellbeing deputy general manager Ivan Lafeta also attended with his team to talk about the Red Zone offer process and the options that the Earthquake Support Co-ordinators offer if you need any kind of housing assistance or support.

CERA have also recorded three of the recently held meetings, each once with a different emphasis on the particular zone, but all with the main information about the next steps. The three videos can be watched online by following the links below.

Port Hills community meeting, Monday 2 July 2012:

<http://cera.govt.nz/land-information/port-hills/community-meetings#video-2-july-2012>

Port Hills community meeting, Tuesday 3 July 2012:

<http://cera.govt.nz/land-information/port-hills/community-meetings#video-3-july-2012>

Port Hills community meeting, Friday 6 July 2012:

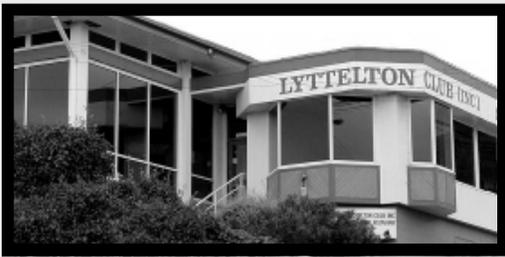

<http://cera.govt.nz/land-information/port-hills/community-meetings#video-6-july-2012>

CERA have also had DVDs made of these meetings which we can send out to you if you would like to watch in a format other than on your computer. We are trying to make as much information available as possible so we have been live streaming the big announcements as well as recording them to keep.. We also recorded meetings like the Port Hills series and upload these to our site, as well as a raft of other informational videos.

I am always intrigued to check up on the website statistics and see if we are reaching people as well as we can. On any given day we get about 4500 visits to our website and that tells us we are being viewed by over 2000 people. On the day of the Port Hill land zoning announcement we had 25,500 visits which apparently equates to over 15,000 people. On that day we had a midday peak of about 2000 people watching the live-streaming and 2,000 looking at other things on the site. So it does seem as we are reaching a fair chunk of the community – but as always, you can let us know what more we can do to ensure you are receiving the information that you need by calling 0800 RING CERA [0800 7464 2372].

LIFT Library

Living Economies + Inspiration + Facts + Transition

The LIFT Library has some new stock in:

The Frugal Colonial Housewife: Susannah Carter

This was the only cookbook published in America between 1742 and 1796, retaining the original language. It has over 500 recipes, plus instructions for 'candying, collaring, drying, pickling, potting, preserving and wine making'. It will appeal especially to meat-eaters, and those interested in simple basic ways of dealing with food before the days of gas, electricity and microwaves! Interesting illustrations too.

DVD: Living Architecture: Peter Cowman

Five short films exploring personal shelter making. These films resulted from a course teaching people how to design their own homes. The course uncovered many of the hidden aspects of house design, particularly the deep psychological impact of personal sheltermaking. There's an explanation of the course, followed by separate films on the houses and the people who created and live in them.

Reading for Timebank Hours

The LIFT Library librarian simply doesn't have time to read and review all these books! With 183 books now available. So Juliet is hoping some of you, with time to read in these cold stay-inside months, will read some books from the LIFT Library, and write reviews to help others choose suitable reading. Each review would be about 300-400 words and include a brief description of the content of the book, and your opinions as to the value of the information and the style of writing, meaning what kind of reader it would suit. Perhaps other members may later consult you about the book too. Or the LIFT Library may even arrange a get together to discuss a few books on the same general topic. You would keep a tally of your reading hours and review-writing hours, and receive those hours in your Timebank account.

And here's another idea: the LIFT Library has several copies of No More Throw-away People, by Edgar S. Cahn. He is the man who had the bright idea of 'time dollars', now known as 'timebanking'. This book tells the story of the development of time dollars in the USA and then in other countries. He hopes to come here and see New Zealand's amazing development. If several people were to read this book, then perhaps a group could gather to have a really useful discussion on the ways in which timebanking could be further developed here, by looking at lots of different applications of the idea.

If you're not a member of the Lyttelton Timebank, contact Juliet for details, and join up, 03 328 8139.

To become a member of the LIFT Library, based right here in Lyttelton, contact Juliet Adams on 03 328 8139 or mobile 021 899 404, for more information. And if you are already a member, and these books appeal to you, remember Juliet offers a complimentary pickup and delivery service to the Lyttelton Harbour Information Centre, or the Project Lyttelton office, if you are unable to make it over to the LIFT Library in Voelas Road.

Red Cross Extends Winter Assistance Grant

Thousands More Eligible

The New Zealand Red Cross 2011 Earthquake Commission has extended its Winter Assistance Grant to thousands more households in Christchurch. The grant of $100 per month for four months is paid directly to the power company and is now available to all households living in homes significantly damaged by the earthquakes or to households who have had to move into damp or hard to heat accommodation. Up until now the grant was available to the elderly, young or sick.

Earthquake Commission chair Sir John Hansen says there are many people living in cold houses who are struggling to pay power bills. "We are responding to a need we are seeing out in the community. Our volunteers tell us many people are having trouble heating their damaged houses, not just the old and sick."

Last year Red Cross approved 3651 Winter Assistance Grants at a cost of $1.45 million. Power companies Contact and Meridian Energy contributed $500,000 of that amount. By extending the grant to everyone with damage-related heating problems, Red Cross expects this year to be able to help around 19,000 people at a cost of $7.5 million.

The grant is for the months of June, July, August and September and applications close on 1 October, 2012.

To apply for the Winter Assistance Grant or for more details on criteria go to www.redcross.org.nz and click on Grants or call the grants hotline 0800 754 726 between 8.30am and 5pm

We also have local events advertised in our windows plus many brochures for events happening in the greater area.

Chalfont Cafe at the Diamond Harbour Country Store

Cook Required for Immediate Start

Working with our existing, experienced cook, this is a part time role, which does involve some weekend hours, with plenty of scope for extra hours as summer approaches. We are a new destination cafe in the seaside village of Diamond Harbour and are actively expanding our cafe building and food offerings during these exciting times. This is a great opportunity for an experienced cook to put their mark on the menu and join a bubbly, outgoing team. Must be self-motivated, honest, reliable and a team player. Hours of work will fit in with Black Cat Ferry timetable, making the trip to work from Lyttelton just a ten minute boat ride. Email your CV to jane1.broughton@gmail.com or call Jane Broughton on 021 248 8887.

Front of House, and Barista Staff, for Immediate Start

We have both full time and part time roles available, working on a roster basis with some weekend work essential. Hours of work will fit in with Black Cat Ferry timetable, making the trip to work from Lyttelton just a ten minute boat ride. Email your CV to jane1.broughton@gmail.com or call Jane Broughton on 021 248 8887.

Lyttelton Review Loves Your Feedback

This from an advocacy group in Waiwera, Auckland, responding to concerns raised by Marie Malone and Daisy Foldesi about the installation of power company Smart Meters: "Residents need to be aware that Electrosmog is a major issue. Smart meters being placed on our houses emit constant emissions [actually they are pulsed spikes throughout the 24 hours]. The installation of these power meters is very difficult to fight. Power companies have invested millions to get them installed so will be very resistant to change. A fact sheet from Genesis has one section which says you have the right not to have one installed. However, it is another matter getting one removed. It is apparently mandatory here in New Zealand for smart meters to be installed in all homes by 2015, so resist and remove before that date, before all houses are affected throughout New Zealand" – Ian. Marie Malone follows this statement by saying "I understand all information can be biased and it is hard sometimes to get the real truth and facts, however I strongly object to not having the right to choose. Please do not let this happen. We have to be part of the solution not the problem."
