Extraordinary Opportunity for Culinary Star

Lease Free Premises: Lyttelton Club Restaurant

In what can only be described as an extraordinary opportunity served on a silver platter, the Lyttelton Club on Dublin Street is showing its support for Lyttelton's recovery by encouraging an up and rising culinary star to lease the Lyttelton Club restaurant kitchen, equipment and dining room – at no cost. And that is no typo. The Lyttelton Club are offering their fully functioning and equipped kitchen, plus a furnished dining room with quite possibly the best restaurant views in Lyttelton to one very fortunate candidate at no charge. And while some say you can't have your cake and eat it too, the Lyttelton Club are also open to changes in menu style, décor, signage, licensing and marketing to help support such a culinary star reach their full potential in making this restaurant opportunity a real success.

Seldom will such an opportunity come along. Establishing a new restaurant business can be a long, difficult and financially challenging prospect. The Lyttelton Club is serious about supporting someone who has the energy, enthusiasm and proven experience to fulfill their dream of opening a new restaurant in Lyttelton. Through not only eliminating the capital outlay expenses, but also eliminating lease and OPEX expenses, the Lyttelton Club hopes that this opportunity will appeal to someone within the community that has the wealth of knowledge and experience to establish a successful restaurant business, but just needs to be given the golden opportunity.

As the Lyttelton Club Committee says “the restaurant premises here are a real community owned asset with one of the best views in town. We are excited to now be in a position to be able give back to the community in this way and to support a talented local chef. Perhaps we have the next Al Brown or Fleur Sullivan living in the region, and it would be a shame to think they would venture away from Lyttelton simply because the opportunity to get started was not here for them.”

If you are an experienced chef and have developed plans for opening the next great restaurant in Lyttelton, then you need to make contact with the Lyttelton Club. The Lyttelton Club committee is now seeking expressions of interest by Friday 15 February 2013. How can you express your interest? Write to the Lyttelton Club with three things: an outline of your culinary experience; an overview of your business and marketing plan for a new restaurant in Lyttelton; and an example summer and winter menu.

If the Lyttelton Club believes you have what it takes then they will make contact with you to discuss all the gritty details and before you know it you might just be starting 2013 with your very own restaurant business.

All expressions of interest will be treated in the strictest confidence. But don't forget the deadline of Friday 15 February, and written applications only can be considered.

Lyttelton Farmers Market: Hot Tarts

All in the Family

Time and time again as we delve into the lives and motivations of the stallholders at the Lyttelton Farmers Market we find the most passionate and motivated people. Hot Tarts is no exception.

As one of the original stallholders at the market, this family inspired business has grown from a mothers' love of food and a desire to pass on the passion to the next generation. Trish Rey is the inspiration behind the stall. Mother to six daughters and three sons almost all of her children bar one have inherited her love of food. The stall in Lyttelton is a family project. Maressa and Saree are joint partners at the stall and are currently assisted by mum Trish while Saree is studying a degree in Mandarin in China

The philosophy of the stall is about local, fresh, hand made and organic. "It's about the true integrity of food" Trish said. It's great to hear Trish talk about sourcing produce from other stallholders. She mentions John Barton and Barry Sheehan in particular.

For this family the Lyttelton and Opawa Farmers Markets are their business outlets. Food is made specifically for each market and Trish says "The idea is that what goes to the market stays at the market". "Anything that hasn't sold on the day is either given away to other stallholders or to locals who are their regular customers," she said.

Trish says many customers are amazed when she says they don't have businesses cards and they don't have another retail outlet. Hot Tarts will do special orders for customers if requested. One such occasion was a wedding in Akaroa. Trish tells the story of a particular customer who loved the chocolate éclairs and requested them. Trish was happy to make and transport them to Akaroa. With a family member living there it was a good excuse for her to visit. The lucky client had the éclairs delivered direct to the wedding and then Trish was able to insert the cream just before serving. Now that is service! It's these wonderful traits of the stallholders that make the intimacy of the Farmers Market so superior to many shopping experiences

This is what Trish and her daughters really appreciate about the market. It's those close relationships that form. It's the customer who comes back week after week because the food is so good. Trish says "It's these special people who love our food that inspire me when I'm cooking. I think of customers when I cook their favourite treat." This is real cooking from the heart.

Trish has been involved in the food industry most of her life. She was the first female apprentice chef in the city, starting at Noah's Hotel which subsequently became Ridges. She worked with many chefs who went onto become quite famous in their own right.

She reminisces that could have been her path as well but luckily for our community, her family, and the market, she choose to impart her culinary skills onto her children. That has been the most important mission in her life. Daughters run the stall each week. Maressa looks after the pastries, cheese rolls and the filo delights; Saree specialised in the gluten free products and the vegetarian gourmet delights; and Sophie, an ex student of Trish's, is in charge of the fudge. Trish still also does quite a bit of cooking as well.

The Hot Tarts team is more than happy to modify their products for your dietary requirements. There are products that are gluten free, dairy free, onion free, and vegan. "It's all a matter of asking really" adds Trish.

There is real and genuine warmth with this interview. And is it so clear that the Hot Tarts philosophy is authentic and really embraces the true ideals of the Farmers Market movement.

Lyttelton Master Plan Projects

Planning for active citizen engagement, more than just consultation Do you want to join in?

In 2013 some of the key projects in the Lyttelton Master Plan will start. Being a naturally pro-active community a quick brainstorm was called to discuss how we can enhance the voice and effective participation of the community as we work in partnership with the Council and these great projects unroll.

Present at this first impromptu meeting were Wendy McKay and Christine Wilson from Lyttelton Community House, Lottie Harris from Project Lyttelton, Sarah Van der Burch from the Lyttelton Community Association and Wendy Everingham from the Lyttelton Harbour Information Centre. Paula Smith from the Community Board and Murray Griffin from the City Council's Consultation Team were also invited. It was a good way to get the conversation rolling.

Would you like to see a richer process of engagement with the council into the future? If you or your community group would like to become involved to figure out what this could look like please contact any of the people mentioned above. You will find their contact details in the Community Listings section of the Review.

Lyttel Soccer starts this Sunday 10 February at the normal time of 10.00am down on the sports field by the tank farm at the end of Godley Quay. Andrea and Derek are looking forward to seeing all the familiar faces of last year and will welcome any new players for 2013.

The Loons

Venue News, Update and Upcoming Performances

2013 is shaping up to be an exciting year for The Loons. We will be reopening in time to be a part of the Christchurch Arts Festival in August-September this year, with a performance of a new solo work from Pascal Ackermann. The WMC Lyttelton Inc have been working hard with Mike Friend and Pete Evans [of Volcano Restaurant fame] to not only repair but improve the facilities at our quirky old venue. When we reopen you can expect to see a taller performance space, new toilets and a separate bar for you to frequent whenever you'd like!

There are two shows coming up in Feb that would LOVE your support - by attending if you can, and by telling everyone you know to go along and check them out ...

Sunday 17 February

David Ladderman: Solo Performance

Court Theatre

David Ladderman's show 'The Battle of the Bastards' will be one that hopefully many of you are familiar with, as he has performed three seasons of it at The Loons and other venues around Christchurch. The exciting news is that this show has been accepted into the Auckland and Wellington 2013 New Zealand International Comedy Festival, before heading to a tour of Canada, performing in Toronto, Edmonton and Winnipeg Festivals! Dave needs to raise funds for these tours and is holding a one-off fundraising performance of his show, along with a showcase of his mentalism and juggling skills at the Court Theatre on Sunday February 17th at 7.00pm.

Comedy, circus and Shakespeare collide in a fundraiser like no other! Strap on your codpiece! Complete with sword fights, eye-gouging and Elizabethan cussing, one man transports the story of King Lear into bawdy and sublimely entertaining tragic-comedy. Battle of the Bastards is David Ladderman's new project with Court Theatre regular turned producer, Lizzie Tollemache [Scared Scriptless, Five Women Wearing The Same Dress, The Elves and the Shoemaker, Much Ado About Nothing]. "A polished, spellbinding performance from someone who knows how to work the crowd to perfection. Brilliant fun." -Nelson Mail

Tickets: Adults $20.50

Friday 22 to Sunday 24 February

Pascal Ackermann: Brand New Solo Show

Ashburton Trust Event Centre

Two members of The Loons Theatre Company have very exciting and challenging solo shows that are being developed further this year. Pascal Ackermann is working with Company Director Mike Friend to create a new piece of work called "The Lepidopterist - The Butterfly Collector".

The Lepidopterist is a charming and at times darkly funny theatrical treat, exploring certain aspects of human nature that many share. This visual show is for all ages. Hell-bent on completing his collection, the Lepidopterist hunts-down and finally comes face-to-face with his last outstanding objective. The chase ensues in the form of action-packed comedy, combining feats of spectacular visual circus with poignant buffoonery and some really interesting facts about butterflies and the hobbyists who seek them out including grislier ones about collecting them.

Tickets: Adults $30 : Senior $25 : Children $15

Naval Point Club News

A Busy Weekend

The South Island leg of the windsurfing Kendall Cup regatta was raced over both days. The Trailer Yachts raced to Wakaroa Point and back while the keelboats raced to Wakaroa Point and home via Spencer Park. Fresh Easterly conditions meant everyone had a good afternoon with the exception of Willie Newman and crew in "Breathless" who discovered their keel locking device wasn't too effective and finished up upside down off Cashin Quay.

New Rule Books

The 2013-2016 Racing Rules have been published. We have a supply available. $25 less the usual member discount

Learn to Sail for 2013

Junior Learn to Sail Programs are getting under way. We are planning to run a course based on Sunday mornings 9.00am to 12noon for eight weeks starting early February. There are still places available. Contact the office 328 7026 for more info.

Car Parking

Parking Area K is under a lot of pressure. To try and reduce the problem, we'd like to reserve our main car par for cars and trailers only on race days. If you have a car only, please park in the area alongside the trailer yacht compound. We're working with the Council to tidy up more of the area to create more parks but we need a bit of co-operation meantime.

LIFT Library Update

The latest arrival at LIFT is a magazine that seems very well worth reading: New Internationalist, Jan/Feb 2013: The Feral Rich – what can we do to stop them? As usual, the articles are detailed and hard-hitting, with several different points of view to stimulate you into thinking about the topic. The focus is not so much on the rich themselves, but more on the rich-poor divide, which is increasing, as we know here in New Zealand, and the obliging nature of governments in easing taxation issues for the very rich.

No new books have come to hand, but as soon as possible I shall be ordering a book I am now reviewing for 'earthscan', from Routledge: How Local Resilience Creates Sustainable Societies: Hard to Make, Hard to Break - by Philip Monaghan. Here's the first paragraph of my review:

"Philip Monaghan is an established writer in the fields of economic development and environmental sustainability, which are coming to be regarded universally as essential matters for improvement. In this book he draws on his own experiences and previous writings, as well as a multitude of case histories and examples from worldwide research and publications, in order to lay out the need for changes in these fields, and to explain what has been working and also what could work to shape a better world. His vision is of society improved from the bottom up, with leadership at the local level building sustainable and resilient communities. And those currently in power, governing from the top down, would be well-advised to read this book, understand what is beginning to shake their world, and why, and join in with the action."

As I read it, I couldn't help thinking of Lyttelton and its relevant strengths – and also the group at the workshops at Camp Iona. Although New Zealand is not quoted in the book, maybe we should feature in his next one!

And here's today's quote: (from the above book's preface)

"...transferring power to ordinary people at key points in the economic or political system will make our societies more resilient against shocks and failings, be they economic instabilities, terrorist attacks, social inequalities or climate chaos." [or 22.2.11 earth quakes, as proved in Lyttelton]..."My intention is that this will unsettle and upset people in equal measure. It may even stir revulsion and retaliation. For some, I hope, it will inspire new thinking and action." And, that's how I feel about books in the LIFT collection.

To become a member of the LIFT Library, based right here in Lyttelton, contact Juliet Adams on 03 328 8139 or mobile 021 899 404, for more information.

plenty to share

In Lyttelton so many residents grow vegetables; or have fruit trees literally dripping with produce. Plenty to Share is about sharing any excess produce with the community. So if your lemon tree is yellow with goodness and you can't keep up with making lemon curd, bring those surplus fruits down to the organisers, where every Saturday the swapping of produce is well underway in Lyttelton on the corner of London and Canterbury Street; and also in Diamond Harbour on a Saturday morning at the village centre. If there is something on the Plenty to Share table that you would like to take home, then you are warmly invited to do so.

Book Review: Michelle Parkes

The Christchurch Fiasco

'THE CHRISTCHURCH FIASCO. The Insurance Aftershock and its Implications for New Zealand and Beyond' by Sarah Miles. Published 2012. The author of 'The Christchurch Fiasco', Sarah Miles, describes herself as a "resident, therapist and 'survivor' of the Canterbury earthquakes".

This book is a necessary read for all claimants currently dealing with the Earthquake Commission [EQC] and their insurance companies, trying to get their properties paid out/repaired/rebuilt. It is written about the current earthquake situation in Christchurch for Christchurch people and for future earthquake victims. It tells the story of how we are not only victims of the earthquakes but also vulnerable to the subsequent City Council processes, Government processes and the Corporate

Insurance Companies. The author says that "In Christchurch we are now experiencing the 'new normal', i.e. civil chaos, dishonesty, self-service and flagrant profiteering." She says that our own Government has failed to protect us by not holding private insurers to account.

This book reminds you that you are part of a national disaster and that you are not alone. You will be able to identify with many of the people and situations in the book. It gives you an understanding of insurance strategies, which may assist you to deal with them. The author proposes solutions for change in the insurance industry and catastrophe management. It is a reflection of history in the making and of the implications for the social and economic wellbeing of our seismic nation and the future of the insurance industry. Prepare to be shocked.

Cemeteries Feedback

The Christchurch City Council is currently seeking feedback on a proposed cemeteries bylaw, the Christchurch City Council Cemeteries Handbook and Strategic Cemeteries MasterPlan: Copies of the proposals are available on the City Council website, the local service centre or library. If you want face to face information the closest drop in session is at the Diamond Harbour Community Centre Memorial Hall 2L Waipapa Avenue, to be held on Tuesday February 12, 3.30pm -7.00pm. In the harbour area the council currently looks after the Diamond Harbour Memorial Gardens, the Lyttelton Anglican Cemetery and the Lyttelton Catholic and Public Cemetery.

Key issues for cemeteries that have so far been identified are:

- An aging population and the demand for burial sites with limited land available for cemeteries.
- The recognition of different cultural, religious and ethnic beliefs and the ability of the different groups to fulfill their customs associated with burials and disposals of ashes.
- A growing demand for eco-burials and a location for these burials.
- The need to coordinate and integrate the planning for cemeteries as public open space across the district.
- To include in decision-making the relationship of Maori, their culture and traditions, water, waahi tapu, fauna and flora, and other taonga.
- The management of historic cemeteries recognising their heritage and conservation values.
- Review Christchurch City Council Cemetery Bylaw to include all council owned cemeteries in the District under one bylaw.
- Provision to accommodate a mass burial, such as a pandemic.
- Rezoning the Banks Peninsula cemeteries to align with the zoning of the Christchurch City cemeteries.
- Planning, operation and maintenance of the cemeteries are consistent throughout the District (including Banks Peninsula).
- Recognition of the historic, cultural, spiritual and religious differences of each cemetery and to protect and conserve these values - the cemetery character.
- Planting on graves.
- Grave decoration.
- Maintaining plants on graves.
- Mature trees damaging graves.

Your feedback is welcomed until February 19. You can share your thoughts several ways:

February 22nd Commemoration Event

Second anniversary of the February 2011 Canterbury Earthquake

Planning is underway by Christchurch City Council for a Civic Memorial Service to commemorate the second anniversary of the 22 February 2011 Canterbury earthquake. The memorial service will be in Latimer Square on Friday 22 February 2013 at noon. The service, co-hosted by the Anglican Christchurch Cathedral, will be for the community and will include one minute's silence at 12.51pm.

Mayor Bob Parker says two years on, the effect of this unique event is still being felt in the daily lives of all Cantabrians. "The commemorative service will be a time where we can gather as a community to remember our community's strength and kindness in the days following the earthquake and to take heart in our city's future. "We have all come along way in the last two years as individuals and as a city. Christchurch has risen to the challenge and while remedial work is still progressing, Christchurch still has much to offer and we are looking forward to a positive future as we re-invent our world-class city", Mayor Parker says. Other events led by various groups will also be held around the city at that time.

New Liquefaction Report will help with the Rebuild

Environment Canterbury today released a review of liquefaction information for Christchurch and neighbouring districts outside the green and red zones. The review report maps areas where building projects will no longer need expensive 15-metre deep ground tests and other areas where these tests will still be required. The report covers twenty years of liquefaction studies and draws on the experience of the 2010 and 2011 Canterbury earthquakes. Environment Canterbury Commissioner Donald Couch says the report provides an up-to-date assessment of the need for geotechnical investigation of liquefaction-susceptible ground in eastern Canterbury. "This comprehensive piece of work gives our communities better information for those considering building outside areas already zoned by the Canterbury Earthquake Recovery Authority," Mr Couch said.

The main purpose of the report is to provide territorial authorities and communities with general guidance on where geotechnical investigation and engineering assessment of liquefaction potential may or may not be required for plan changes, and for subdivision and building consents. It may also be useful for lifeline utility and emergency management planning. "The report covers the Christchurch City Council area, including Banks Peninsula, and eastern parts of the Waimakariri, Selwyn and Hurunui districts, but does not include other parts of Canterbury or land that has already been zoned by CERA," Mr Couch said. "A map in the report shows areas of solid ground where damaging liquefaction is unlikely and areas of more variable ground quality where liquefaction assessment is needed during site investigations." This means that for many areas of Canterbury, fewer deep geotechnical investigations will be required than at present, while those that are carried out will be better targeted. "You might still need a shallower geotechnical investigation for other hazards though – for example, for susceptibility to flooding or land subsidence," Mr Couch said.

Kelvin Berryman of GNS Science says his organisation, and the Natural Hazards Research Platform he chairs, were pleased to be involved in co-ordinating and funding the report. "I am sure the results of this collaborative effort will be very helpful for the Christchurch rebuild and appropriate building work throughout Canterbury," Dr Berryman said.

Environment Canterbury has been liaising closely with territorial authorities, CERA and the Ministry of Business, Innovation and Employment to help inform their natural hazards and building consenting activities. "It is pleasing that this collaborative work is resulting in the development of consistent processes through MBIE's Building & Housing Guidelines, which now include a section on liquefaction testing specifically taking account of this report," Donald Couch said. "The practical effect of this is that costly investigations will no longer be done in areas where they are not needed and will be focused on areas where they can ensure appropriate building solutions. This is the way it should be in helping make sure our buildings are as safe as possible for the future of Canterbury." ### Seminar: Leadership in the Community Sector

Registration forms can be downloaded: www.csbec.org.nz/not-for-profit/aspire\_seminars/seminars

Presenter: David Marra      Date: Wednesday 20 February 2013      Venue: TBA on Registration

Time: 1.30 pm to 4.30 pm (Afternoon tea provided)

Leadership is a must for all not for profit organisations. How is it provided in your organisation? This interactive workshop will use the collective experience and wisdom of the participants to work as a team to build a profile of the ideal leader with the aim of identifying: great leaders' qualities; behaviour and what makes a great leader.

In this workshop we will start with our personal stories and direct experiences of leaders. We will then compare those leaders against some of the common leadership, theories and models celebrated in contemporary literature and in the media. We will explore the qualities of some of the celebrated great leaders of modern New Zealand history. From this we will build the profile of the ideal leader and finish up with a reflective exercise in which we compare and contrast our own practice against the profile of the ideal leader and set our own aspirational leadership goals.

Canterbury Law Workshops

Amongst other things, Community Law Canterbury runs workshops on legal issues for those on the Boards of community groups. These workshops are free if you are a manager, or on the Board, of a Christchurch-based not-to-profit.

Legal Documents: A Guide to the Paperwork you Need

Date: Thursday 14 March 10.00 - 12.00 pm

This is a new workshop for 2013. The workshop is designed for those of you who are responsible for the administration of your organisation. We'll look at what legal paperwork you are required to keep, explain the basic obligations you have and then give you some tips for staying on top of things.

Dodging the Bullets: Part 1

Date: Tuesday 09 April 2.00 - 4.00 pm

The workshop is designed to help those of you new to Board membership (as well as those of you who are more experienced but who are new arrivals to an existing group), get to grips with the governance of your organisation. The workshop is based around a series of checklists - all of which you can take away and use with your group. Our aim is to ensure you can quickly and simply check that your organisation is doing all that the law requires of you.

Dodging the Bullets: Part 2

Date: Tuesday 23 May 10.00 a.m. - 12 noon

This workshop will focus on other legal issues relevant to your group including: the law applying to your members, the laws that apply when dealing with clients and with members of the public. We'll look at handling complaints and dealing with disputes. Again, the workshop will be supported with written material that you can take away to use with your group.

Financial Reporting Standards:

Date: Wednesday 08 May.

This workshop - jointly held by the External Reporting Board/the Charities division of the Department of Internal Affairs and ANGOA - will provide more information about the proposed new financial reporting standards for not-for-profits. If you're the Treasurer of a not-for-profit - particularly a charity with operating expenses of under $2 million - we'd strongly recommend you have a closer look at this.

Law changes for incorporated societies: The Law Commission [who have proposed that changes be made to the Incorporated Societies Act], were planning to release an updated discussion paper at the end of 2012. They have now indicated that the release of this document will be delayed until June 2013. We'll revise this document once it becomes available. Our plan is to run another "updating your rules" workshop later in the year and we'll let you know more about the Law Commission's proposal as part of this.

Limited space: These workshops usually fill quickly. If the workshops are oversubscribed, we reserve the right to offer priority to clients of CLC and the Canterbury Community Trust.

You can register for one or more of these workshops by emailing us at susan@canlaw.org.nz and letting us know your name and your group's name. We'll then check available space before contacting you to confirm your registration.

Time and venue details: We have had past difficulties with people showing up without booking. We're also borrowing a venue for these workshops, so in fairness to our host, we don't want to create any extra administration hassles. For this reason, we no longer advertise the workshop venues - we just give you enough details to work out whether the timing might suit you. Rest assured, we'll let you know specific details once you've contacted us.

Finally, these workshops (and the essential accompanying lollies!) are all free thanks to the generosity of The Canterbury Community Trust and Christchurch City Council. We're really grateful for their support.

Works Notice: Norwich Quay and Gladstone Quay, Lyttelton, wastewater, stormwater and road repairs

We will be carrying out repairs to earthquake damaged sections of the wastewater and stormwater pipes along Norwich Quay and Gladstone Quay. From the week of Monday 11 February 2013 work will begin to replace the damaged sections of pipe as well as some minor footpath and kerb and channel work. Road resurfacing along Norwich Quay and Gladstone Quay will begin approximately three weeks after the completion of the pipe work. This project is expected to be completed in May 2013. Two-way traffic will be maintained along Norwich Quay and Gladstone Quay via lane shifts. Parking will be reduced and access to side streets may be restricted at times.

Key:	From 11 February 2013: Work will begin to replace earthquake damaged sections of wastewater and stormwater pipes.	From April 2013: Work will begin on the road surface replacement.

How our work could impact you: General impacts

- There will be increased noise, dust and vibration levels associated with this work, and the use of trucks, diggers, pumps and compactors will be necessary.
- To repair the wastewater and stormwater pipes in some cases open trenching will be necessary. Please observe the special cordons and fences around the construction area.
- To repair the wastewater and stormwater pipes we may need to lower the ground water level. If needed a dewatering pump will be running 24 hours a day.

Please turn over

- Works will have no planned impact on current power, telecommunication, wastewater or gas services. However, the network is still fragile so please be prepared in case there is an unexpected service cut off.
- Works will take place between 7.00am and 6.00pm, Monday to Friday, with Saturday work if required.
- All works are subject to favourable weather and on-site construction conditions.
- Safety is our number one priority. Safety is your responsibility too. Stay clear and stay alert - keep children and pets at a safe distance from the work site. Keep your vehicle safe by locking it and removing any valuable items.

Traffic impact :

- Norwich Quay will be open to two-way traffic at all stages of this work. This will be done by shifting traffic lanes around the work sites.
- During the road resurfacing, work will begin near the tunnel on Norwich Quay and will progress east.
- There will be less parking available along Norwich Quay, as parking directly opposite the work sites will be unavailable.
- The traffic lanes will be shifted during different stages of the work, please be alert as the traffic management will change often.
- When work is taking place near the Dublin Street intersection, and the Canterbury Street intersection, traffic will not be able to turn into these streets from Norwich Quay, please use Oxford Street.
- There will be a temporary 30km/h speed limit in place through the worksite.
- When work is taking place near the existing tunnel control escort bay a temporary bay will be set up east of the work.

Example of the traffic management:

Temporary bus stop impacts:

The two bus stops along Norwich Quay will be impacted at different stages during the work.

When work is taking place in front of the bus stop opposite Dublin Street this bus stop will be closed. Travellers will be directed to the bus stop opposite 20 Norwich Quay.
