Transitional Project for Lyttelton's New Civic Square

Watching the Corner Site Progress and Evolve

Oversized armchairs; a listening post with recordings of the local environment and a double-sided seat with a built-in lamppost and herb garden are among the seven transitional works selected to enliven the Lyttelton civic square site as part of a Council-funded Transitional Project.

Council's Request for Proposals for the transitional project for the civic square closed on 31 January 2013. This project provides an opportunity for local artists and craftspeople, with community assistance, to create and trial possible future design elements of the civic square. The fourteen proposals received were scored against criteria such as their ability to reflect Lyttelton's character and identity, and their ability to be relocated to other sites within Lyttelton.

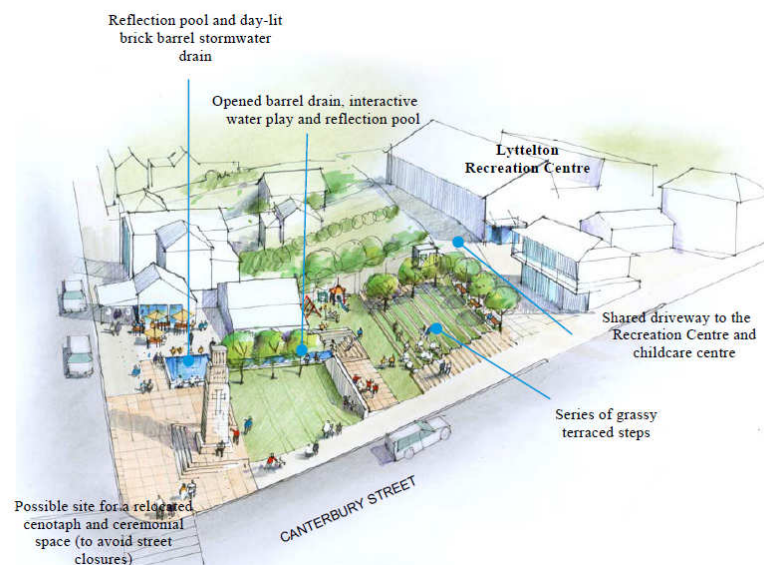

The seven successful works will be installed on site by the end of May and will remain there until permanent construction of the square begins. Depending on community feedback, it's possible some of them may be incorporated into the permanent design of the new civic square. If not, they will be relocated to other sites within Lyttelton. The evaluation panel endeavoured to use the limited budget most effectively by deciding on a diversity of proposals, some of which include significant community participation. The successful proposals are, in no particular order:

- Steps that mimic a lava flow and the contours of the harbour hills, to provide access between and integrate the upper and lower levels of the site.
- An artwork comprising four double-sided, 6 metre high sculpted, painted timber pillars visually representing, using the nautical flag alphabet, a poem about post-earthquake Lyttelton.
- A stall, in the Hundertwasser style with a green roof, for use as a local goods swap and gathering spot, exhibition/showcase venue for local artists, promotion material display, information hot spot during events, fundraising venue, etc.
- An artwork comprising a 1.5 metre diameter mandala [which means 'circle' or 'wholeness' in ancient Sanskrit] of 502 ceramic tiles in the shape of 'Lyttel' people.
- Three oversized armchairs.
- A listening post of regularly changed 'close listening' sounds, including recordings of the local environment
- A double-sided seat approx 1.7 metre long and 1.2 metre wide, influenced by the work of Gaudi and Hundertwasser, which includes a lamppost for night time lighting and security, and a small perma-culture style community herb garden.

The ideas contained in the proposals that were not selected will be included with those obtained through community consultation towards the permanent design of Lyttelton's civic square.

From Notebook Beginnings

New Opportunities to Connect with our Community

Prior to the earthquakes a visit to Lyttelton typically involved a visit to the Timeball Station, the museum, a cafe and a wander around the historic area. Losing so much of our physical identity has not meant we have nothing of interest to visitors any more, we just have to think differently about what we can offer. Speak to anyone and community pops up time and time again. Visitors from around New Zealand and the world are intrigued by what is happening here but we just need to provide new entry points for them to experience our place.

And so it began that Flo McGregor got the idea to host the Blue Star Crew Bar Reunion in Lyttelton on the first week in February. With her trusty notebook and her experience hosting Lyttelton Main School Past Pupils Association Reunions and South Island Netball Tournaments, she felt she had the knowledge to organize this weekend reunion. A spur of the moment challenge from Andy Swanney of Lyttelton Port Company saw Flo step up. Andy said "I've never done anything in the real community before, you have. How about you organizing this reunion for Lyttelton and getting us involved with the locals?" The end result was Flo helped out and forty people came to Lyttelton for the weekend to reminisce, explore and get to know us better.

Flo tapped into her community connections to ensure the group had a great experience. The Lyttelton Top Club became the hub of the activities when the former workers were welcomed to the township by representatives from the Lyttelton Port Company, Lyttelton and Mount Herbert Community Board, local MP Ruth Dyson and community members. That began a weekend of discovery. Rather than sitting in a bar for the weekend Flo organized a series of tours that connected the visitors to our community. One group had a guided tour of the Farmers and Grassy Market, some went on a harbor tour that local Don Ross organized, another group went a red zone tour. Everything was centered around local people, whether it was local tours, eating or accommodation. The community was really hands on giving this group an intimate experience of Lyttelton and its surrounds.

The entire experience was all about re-kindling friendships. The visitors had a terrific time. "The village went out of their way to look after us" a visitor told Flo. The visit was so successful that planning is now underway for the next reunion in Lyttelton.

Lyttelton has lost many physical things but we have our passion and our enthusiasm that excites people. Visitors rarely get to connect directly with a community. We have so many unique connection points, our community gardens, the Lyttelton Timebank, the Harbour Resilience Project, community owned Farmers' Markets, the harbour, guided walks, our volunteer Information Centre, the list goes on. It's up to our imaginations what we can create around our community to show case the things we do. In the process we'll help our wider community recover. Flo's initiative saw proceeds flow to the Top Club, the Irish Bar, Information Centre, the Farmers Market, Don Ross and others. By providing "a real community experience" she was able to get 40 people to visit. Well done Flo McGregor.

Some back ground to this article courtesy of "Portal" Lyttelton Port of Christchurch staff newsletter in February 2013. What's the Blue Star Crew Bar reunion all about? "Alex Salmond and Steve Tyley were both with the British Merchant Navy working for the Blue Star Line running to either South America or New Zealand in the 1970s and 1980s. Over the years some of the old sea dogs kept in touch discussing their many journeys.

Alex and Steve kicked off the Blue Star Crew Bar in January 2011 with no great hopes or expectations of anyone turning up. A year later they have over 150 members scattered around the globe.

Why Lyttelton? Alex was on the Auckland Star in 1975 when he was caught up in a British Seaman's strike who were on strike in Lyttelton for weeks. With no money the ship galley locked up, so no food, the locals especially the wharfies looked after them, fed and entertained them during their enforced stay in Lyttelton. This was a way to say thank you to the many people who helped them during this time."

A Natural Progression

TimeBanking to Art Therapy

Many of you will know Bettina Evans from the Lyttelton TimeBank. Last week were Bettina's last days as a joint TimeBank co-ordinator, and she left on a high with the BLYTSS event celebrating the TimeBank's eight birthday.

Bettina has been in the role almost two years. Interestingly that period straight after the earthquake was when she joined the TimeBank team and when she realised that she'd like to retrain and become an art therapist. Days of stitching hearts with Sue-Ellen Sandilands introduced her to art therapist Debs Green and with that she realised the power of art and healing and so she set off on another career idea. Her immediate response was to enrol in a degree course in Auckland and for a time she combined that nicely with her work at the TimeBank. Bettina is now in her final year of the course and it requires a component of volunteer work, so with not enough hours in the day she is leaving her role at the Lyttelton TimeBank.

Bettina has had a few roles in Lyttelton working for Project Lyttelton as the joint TimeBank Co-ordinator and prior to that she was the Grow Local Garden Co-ordinator. The skills she learnt along the way combine nicely into her new career. At the TimeBank she has been the creative ambassador, thinking up the great small events that gave us an excuse to meet when nothing was working or open around us. Do you remember the book, clothing, CD and magazine swaps that she organised at the Petanque Club? All these activities were community based, creative and healing. She views her new career as just taking that all one step further.

Art therapy is about getting people together to share experiences and make them feel good. It could be older people in rest homes being stimulated by an interesting creative activity, children in hospital who have treatment after treatment and this is a welcome break or new immigrants finding it hard to adapt to a new country. For them Art Therapy can be an outlet to express their feelings.

Bettina has a passion for older people. She'd love to brighten up days for them. She remembers fondly back to a time in Germany when a family member was ill and the hospice was such a warm inviting friendly place. She believes Introducing art therapists into environments like that makes them happier and more people friendly. She dreams about such a facility in Lyttelton.

Today however she's reflecting on her time at the Lyttelton TimeBank. "I feel really privileged to have been invited into so many peoples' lives. From the new migrants who are arriving to the area, to the school children and the wide variety of people who form part of the TimeBank network. I think of the small things we have created that give people so much joy, the book exchange at the Information Centre is one positive example of that."

Bettina's new role will suite her perfectly. Combining art, healing and compassion she will positively touch the lives of many.

Lyttelton Brothels Decision

Councilors For and Against

Last week, in our covering email, the Lyttelton Review mentioned that the Brothel By-Law Hearings Panel voted “unanimously” to recommend that no commercial brothels be established in Lyttelton. The Lyttelton Review has since been corrected. The vote was by a majority 3-1 to again recommend to Council that no commercial brothels be provided for in Lyttelton.

Those in Favour: Jimmy Chen, Glen Livingstone, and Helen Broughton

Those Against: Ngaire Button

Apparently Aaron Keown has resigned from the Hearings Panel. Councillor Button expressed the view that brothels should be away from residential areas, but believes an area for commercial brothels in Lyttelton would work well.

The arguments in favour included:

- new information about closure of Lyttelton west and more children walking through the proposed brothel zone
- no new information to support a commercial brothel zone
- another layer of disempowerment
- SOOBS or small owner operated brothels can operate so the service is still provided

Arguments against included:

- the risk of legal challenge by people wanting to establish commercial brothels
- enforcement is more difficult with SOOBS

The Brothel By-Law Hearing Panels report will go back to full Council at the end of March for a final decision. Fifteen members of the Council will have an opportunity to vote again on this subject. Last time the vote was very close.

If you are opposed to brothels in Lyttelton you can ask to make a deputation to speak for up to ten minutes at the beginning of the meeting. Contact the Christchurch City Council 03 941 8999 or email info@ccc.govt.nz.

Lyttelton's Civic Square: Creating a Civic Square for Lyttelton, Together

During development of the Lyttelton Master Plan, the Lyttelton community asked for a new civic square. The site located on the Corner of Canterbury Street and London Street has been purchased by Christchurch City Council for this purpose. The Lyttelton/Mt Herbert Community Board now wants your ideas on what you want to see and use in the square. Features you asked for in the Master Plan included an imaginative playground, water play, public toilets, the relocated cenotaph and a day-lit section of historic barrel storm water drain. Please pop in any time to the following drop-in sessions to find out more about the site, speak with Council staff and tell us your ideas.

Last chance drop-in sessions will be held at the former supermarket site, 27 London Street, Lyttelton:

Tuesday, 5 March 2013 from 4.30pm - 7.00pm

A feedback form and project information will also be available online at www.ccc.govt.nz/haveyoursay from 1 March 2013 to 18 March 2013. 1860s Well Discovered in Lyttelton

A 30-metre-deep well dating back to the 1860s has been uncovered in excavations at a Lyttelton house. The well appeared to have supplied an orphanage in early Lyttelton, archaeologist Kirsa Webb told The Press. The well's brickwork goes down for seven metres and the remainder is solid clay. It is situated at the site of a former hospital and orphanage, which burned down in 1904.

Owner Gael Abraham said the well was then capped and covered with concrete. "My first reaction [when the well was discovered] was: oh, no."

However, she now believes it's exciting. She would like to either cover it with glass and use it as a feature in her new house or pump water from the well into the house. Her husband, John Bickley, also thought the well was amazing. He had tasted the water from the well; it was cloudy but drinkable.

plenty to share

In Lyttelton so many residents grow vegetables; or have fruit trees literally dripping with produce. Plenty to Share is about sharing any excess produce with the community. So if your lemon tree is yellow with goodness and you can't keep up with making lemon curd, bring those surplus fruits down to the organisers, where every Saturday the swapping of produce is well underway in Lyttelton on the corner of London and Canterbury Street; and also in Diamond Harbour on a Saturday morning at the village centre. If there is something on the Plenty to Share table that you would like to take home, then you are warmly invited to do so.

EQC Update Retaining Walls

EQC have updated their web page on land claims. The principle addition is information about their booklet Guide to Canterbury Land Claims [February 2013 edition]. Amongst other things the Guide covers:

- how to make a claim for land damage
- how EQC assesses and settles land damage
- what is and isn't covered, and
- how much excess you'll pay
- specific information for owners of land in hill suburbs
- specific information for owners of TC3 land
- the land claim process

About Retaining Walls:

EQC provides indemnity cover for retaining walls and not replacement cover. This means we pay out the value of the wall when it was damaged, not the cost of building a brand new retaining wall.

The value is determined by working out its replacement value and making deductions to take account of its age and pre-quake condition. For instance, a retaining wall that is halfway through its useful life will have 50 percent of its replacement value deducted, to determine its indemnity value. Very old retaining walls retain a residual value, usually about 25 percent, so in most circumstances, the homeowner will get some cover for their earthquake-damaged retaining wall.

Where a retaining wall failure leads to land loss, the land damage settlement also includes the value of that loss, so in some circumstances the total settlement (land damage plus retaining wall damage) can be sufficient to replace a retaining wall.

Retaining walls that serve a landscaping function, rather than supporting or protecting your house, insured land or main access way, are not covered by EQC.

Neither are council-owned retaining walls [the Stronger Christchurch Infrastructure Repair Team Programme is repairing these]. Some insurance companies provide top-up cover for retaining walls – so it pays to check your policy.

Wunderbar: The Eastern “Town Like Here” Tour

Friday 8 March | 9.00pm w/Lindon Puffin $15 Pre Sale $20 Door Sale Tickets www.undertheradar.co.nz

How to describe this hardworking band with its “poetic, political and ‘bare knuckle’ country influenced songs that sit alongside Springsteen’s working class balladry, the rambunctious Pogues, whisky-voiced Steve Earle, pub rocking Dr Feelgood and Cold Chisel’s open-road truths” ? Playing close to 200 nights a year around New Zealand, Australia and America over the last six years, The Eastern has made it a point of pride as well as a way of life to pack up their banjo, fiddle, six string and double bass and engage with folks wherever the road has taken them.

Over the past five years they’ve delivered three albums (The Eastern, Arrows and Hope & Wire), and have toured and opened for Fleetwood Mac, Steve Earle (twice), Old Crow Medicine Show (twice) and Jimmy Barnes, among others. They’ve made friends and excited audiences wherever they have played – street corners, theatre stages, outback pubs and living rooms – treating every show as the best one yet.

The Eastern’s next tour is a first with Arts On Tour New Zealand – leaving behind the band’s Lyttelton roots for a six week tour through the highways and byways of rural New Zealand.

Lyttelton Harbour/Whakaraupo Issues Group

LHWIG Updated on BP Zone Implementation Programme [ZIP]

The February meeting of the Lyttelton Harbour/Whakaraupo Issues Group (LHWIG) was given a progress update on the Banks Peninsula Zone Implementation Programme (ZIP) by Fiona Nicol, the BP Water Management Zone Committee Facilitator.

The ZIP's purpose is to guide the management of freshwater across Banks Peninsula, giving greatest emphasis to areas at highest risk. It will influence the formulation of policies and planning as well as specific projects - and is near complete. The analysis of public submissions are currently being finalised and the ZIP is likely to be approved in March 2013.

For Lyttelton Harbour/Whakaraupo, the draft ZIP supports LHWIG's long held concern that some of the most pressing issues relate to sedimentation and stormwater run-off. Both these issues are addressed in the Zone Implementation Programme though there are no firm targets or dates when action should be taken. The message was clear that if we want action on these issues quickly then the best way to achieve this is through added political pressure.

A presentation on the finalised BP Zone Implementation Programme - with special focus on Lyttelton Harbour/Whakaraupo - will be made at the next meeting of the Lyttelton Harbour/Whakaraupo Issues Group on April 9. For more information on the Lyttelton Harbour/Whakaraupo Issues Group contact Melanie Dixon on 3299 908 or visit www.ecan.govt.nz/lhwig

LIFT Library Film Evening

Monday 4 March, 7.15pm

Feature: The Last Ocean

Did you miss it when it was screened at Lyttelton Main School in November last year? The Director, Peter Young, was there. I missed it, so here it is again. The Last Ocean feature documentary won Best Call 2 Action Film at the February 2013 Boulder International Film Festival awards ceremony. The film screened to a near-capacity crowd and director Peter Young welcomed the opportunity to interact directly with his enthusiastic audience. This was Peter's first presentation of the film to an American audience and marked the beginning of the 2013 Last Ocean campaign. Negotiations on this issue are to continue in June this year.

If you have missed a film that you would really like to see, Juliet often has them available on laptop, so could arrange to get them to you to look at. Let Juliet know if you want any films that have been shown and she will tell you how she got hold of it.

LIFT Library Update

Now at last I can tell you about the small collection of books I bought a while ago from Living Economies. Check out the website www.le.org.nz Shop – Books - Summer Sale - lots of good buys there. I've only had time to read two and a half of them, so these notes are mainly from the blurbs:

Converging World: Connecting Communities in Global Change

2007 John Pontin and Ian Roderick

This is another Schumacher Briefing (13). The Converging World is defined as "connecting communities through action to maximise our quality of life while achieving equal and minimal impact on the Earth's resources." Various groups around the world who focus in this way are brought together here. The central concept involves reducing the total ecological footprint of some, while increasing that of others – aiming for equality. It means having an ideal for social justice, as well as economic redistribution and environmental protection.

The Omnivore's Dilemma: The Secrets Behind What You Eat

2009 Young readers ed. Michael Pollan

Try this easy read that opens up the food industry. It's written for young people, so is a light read. You'll go undercover at the supermarket. You'll delve behind the scenes of your dinner, and by the time you've digested the last page you'll have put together the fascinating (and sometimes disturbing) puzzle of what's in your plate and how it got there. A real eye-opener! Of course it's in the USA. How much of this is also true for NZ? It's a great change to read about some technical matters in simple, clear language.

The Resilience Imperative: Cooperative Transitions to a Steady-State Economy 2012 Michael Lewis and Pat Conaty

This is a 'must-read' if you want a broad view of all the important issues today, and how they are being handled – a wealth of detailed examples are very convincing. 'Time for a SEE Change' – Sociological, Ecological, and Economic strategies for life after growth.' The authors explore a comprehensive series of strategic questions, community initiatives and transition factors within the broad areas of: energy sufficiency, local food systems, low-cost financing and monetary reform, affordable housing and land reform, and democratic ownership and sustainability.

And today's quote:

Ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you mad - Aldous Huxley

Council Adopts Draft Three Year Plan for Consultation

A cycling network, a new walkway in Lyttelton Harbour and funding for suburban masterplan projects are among the proposals in the draft Christchurch City Three Year Plan. Councillors met today to debate project proposals and financial information. The next step is to release the draft Christchurch City Three Year Plan for public consultation from 16 March to 19 April. "These projects are affordable and very important as we move towards making this city stronger and more sustainable and a better place to live," says Mayor Bob Parker. Councillors also agreed to request a report on the process and steps required to integrate the New Brighton suburban master plan and water park concepts. "There's been an extraordinary outpouring of support for this idea, which has really captured the imagination of people in the east and is one of best ideas I've seen in a while. We need to sit down and examine the pros and cons, without losing the excitement or momentum."

The draft plan proposes a total rates increase of 6.67 per cent made up of:

- 4.74 per cent - to cover standard services and projects
- 1.93 per cent - a Special Earthquake Charge to fund lost income, for example from parking meters and additional earthquake related costs.

"We've thought very carefully about what Christchurch can afford and tried to keep rates rises as low as possible. This increase will see the average household's rates go up by about $2 a week." Christchurch's rates remain well below average for a metropolitan city in New Zealand. Other Councils increased rates by about five percent during their planning processes last year.

Public information sessions and open days will be held in different locations around Christchurch so people can find out more about these plans. A summary document will be distributed to every household in Christchurch during the first week of consultation from 16 March. The full draft plan will be made available via the Council's website, libraries and service centres at this time. Between March 16 and April 19, people can then make a submission by emailing ccc-plan@ccc.govt.nz, online at www.ccc.govt.nz/haveyoursay or using the freepost form in their summary booklet.

"I encourage residents to take the time to make a submission to the plan. This city belongs to all of us and it's important we all have a say on its future" says Mayor Bob Parker.

Peninsula Art Auction

March 2013

For immediate release

Peninsula Art Auction – April 13 and 14 2013

Lyttelton's Peninsula Art Auction is back! Some of New Zealand's finest artists alongside exciting up and coming talent will be showcased at this premier event happening at the Lyttelton supermarket (19 London Street) on April 13 and 14. The event brings together work from more than 50 of the finest artists on the Peninsula for the fifth time to once again benefit Lyttelton schools.

The Banks Peninsula Art Auction is one of those rare events that brings artists with connections to the Peninsula, such as Bill Hammond, Neil Dawson, Mark Whyte, Jason Grieg, Gill Hay, Asher Newberry, Helen Taylor and James Robinson, into an intimate and familiar setting making this event a special happening on the New Zealand arts calendar.

"The wonderful thing about this auction is that all the money raised benefits the two primary schools in Lyttelton. It is a great way for people to get a chance to buy a wonderful piece of art for a good price and also support the children of the Lyttelton," says Lucie Ozanne, one of the event organisers.

As in previous years, the auction is turning into a true community event with generous support already being provided by Portico, Coastal Living, Peek Exhibition, The Lyttelton Coffee Company, Coffee Culture, Lyttelton Farmers Market and the owners of the supermarket space. "The owners of the supermarket have generously offered this incredible, minimalist space that will be a fantastic site for the Peninsula Art Auction," said Lucie Ozanne.

Works will be available for viewing all weekend and a silent auction will be combined with a live auction at 7:00pm Sunday 14 April. Tickets for the live auction are $35 and will be available for purchase from Portico, Lyttelton West and Main Schools, and the Lyttelton Farmer's Market. For further information phone Lucie on 328-9560 or go to www.peninsula-art.co.nz. Established Peninsula artists with an interest in participating should also get in contact.

Features you asked for in the Master Plan included an imaginative playground, water play, public toilets, the relocated cenotaph and a day-lit section of historic barrel stormwater drain.

Please pop in any time to the following drop-in sessions to find out more about the site, speak with Council staff and tell us your ideas.

Hello Lyttelton, 18 Feb, 2013
After the success of the First Urban Down Hill, we have been requested by the CCC to apply for a Road Closure during the day on March 16th.

The line in orange is the route we have been asked to close.

These roads include- Upper Jackson, Keebles Lane, Upper Dublin, and a portion of Winchester, Canterbury and London St. Traffic Management New Zealand will set up the road closure which will begin at 10am and will be in place completely by 12pm. Our Event Marshals and equipment will in place by 1pm. Please ask a Marshal if you have any questions on the day about the movement of riders and cars. There will be breaks in the day for the Riders and the Volunteer staff, however the road will remain closed until after 6:30 when the last rider crosses the finish line. We hope to have the signage and cones cleared immediately after the last rider is home.

We have applied for a rain day as Sunday the 17th, this would mean if Saturday was too wet to run the event we would use the Sunday Road Closure from 10am.

We apologies in advance for any inconvenience this closure may cause you and your loved ones. Please feel free to contact us with any concerns you may have for the movement on March 16th. Our aim is to keep as many people happy as possible, and we will try our best to make this event a success for Lyttelton.

Kind Regards from our hard working volunteer staff,
Andrea Murray

What we are doing

- Work was scheduled to commence in October 2012. Due to poor ground conditions and a change in methodology work was delayed. Work is now due to start on retaining wall one on Thursday 28 February 2013 and will continue for four months.
- Work will take place from 7:00am to 6:00pm Monday to Friday and may include some weekend work if necessary.

Retaining wall one:

- We will deconstruct the old wall, store the red rock and remove any vegetation. Once the site has been cleared, the slope will be excavated to a safe angle. Next we use reinforcing steel to construct the skeleton for the new retaining wall. We then use poured concrete to finish the wall. Finally we backfill the space behind the wall, reinstate the road and install concrete steps.

Retaining wall two:

- A final design and methodology is underway. Retaining wall two will commence at a later date.

Traffic impacts

- Ticehurst Road between the Ticehurst Road/Ticehurst Terrace intersection and 30B Ticehurst Road will be closed for the duration of work. Please follow our detour signs.
- Driveway access and on-street parking will not be available within the road closure area during the day and night.
- The footpath will be closed during the day, however, we are able to escort residents through the work site during the day if required. We will provide a safe pedestrian access way after working hours.

Rubbish Collection:

- Please continue to leave your wheelie bins at either the seaward side of the Bridle Path and Ticehurst Road intersection or at the old quarry site opposite 34 Ticehurst Road.

General information:

- All works are subject to favourable weather and on-site conditions.
- The work may result in dust, if there are dry weather conditions. The work may also result in noise and vibrations. We will endeavour to keep any disruption to a minimum.
- The work will have no planned impact on power, wastewater, telecommunications, water or gas services.
- During the period of construction, we ask that you observe special cordons around construction areas for you and your family's safety.
- We apologise for any inconvenience and appreciate your patience while we do this work.

Safety is our number one priority. Safety is your responsibility too. Stay clear and stay alert - keep children and pets at a safe distance. Keep your vehicle safe by locking it and removing any valuable items.
