Modern Design Unveiled for Lyttelton Tunnel Control

Artists Impression Released for Replacement Building

The original Lyttelton Tunnel Control Building, designed by the late Peter Beaven, was badly damaged by the February 2011 earthquake, and was demolished earlier this year under the Canterbury Earthquake Recovery Act 2011.

Wellington based architects Architecture Lab, which have experience in designing similar facilities, have designed the replacement 310sqm building with strong horizontal forms that address the linear nature of the traffic movements through the Lyttelton Tunnel.

The NZ Transport Agency's Canterbury/West Coast State Highway Manager Colin Knaggs says the new building has been designed first and foremost as a purpose-built facility to manage the operation and maintenance of the Lyttelton Tunnel. It will be built closer to the tunnel, in an area at less risk from rock fall. "It is not intended that the building replicate the old structure but rather that it express some of the qualities of the original 1964 Peter Beaven-designed building, such as the strong horizontal lines and the appearance of it floating." Mr Knaggs says the new building is essentially three primary blocks, the largest dark grey-coloured block being partially clad with concrete panels to anchor it to the landscape.

Dan Popham of Architecture Lab says this block has a colonnade of concrete columns along the access path reflecting some of the rhythm and building elements of the original tunnel control building, while also providing a degree of protection from any potential future rock fall. "The remaining two blocks adjacent to State Highway 74 are of a lighter weight construction with a cantilevered deck to the north and operator room to the west giving the building a sense of floating." "The whole building is cut into the hillside and orientated to align with the existing landscape contours to minimise its impact and dominance on the state highway."

Mr Knaggs says the building will be constructed to 180 per cent of the Building Code to ensure it can continue to operate in the aftermath of any future earthquake. "The NZTA made the decision to have the original building demolished only after it had completed a full investigation of all feasible options to repair it. The cost of repairing the building was $3.5 million more than building a new fit-for-purpose one." Mr Knaggs says construction of the new $1.5 million building is expected to begin within the next couple of months and it is scheduled to be completed in time for Lyttelton Tunnel's 50th anniversary celebrations in February next year. "The contract to build the new facility is out for tender. This is expected to be let early next month."

Restoring Heritage in Allandale

Taunton House Coming to Life

Drive along the Governors Bay Teddington Road to Allandale and you will pass by the sign to Taunton Gardens. A short journey down the drive and you will meet Barry Sligh, the owner of this magnificent heritage property. Like most homes in the region Barry's home suffered severe damage in the September 2010 and February 2011 earthquakes, but unlike many historic buildings this one is being lovingly restored. Taunton, an 1852 stone home will be saved.

Barry has been the custodian of this home for many years but it was originally owned by the Viger's from Taunton in Somerset, then passed to the Radcliff's, Bundy's and then the Sligh's. Previous owners have descendents still living within the vicinity so the home is particularly special to many families.

Barry oozes ideas and passion about his home. After long discussions with insurers' and the help of the Historic Places Trust he has been able to convince his insurer Tower, that he can project manage the repair of this wonderful home. After much negotiation he cash settled plus added more of his own funds. And now along with master builder John Paton from Diamond Harbour and master tradesman Bembem they are lovingly restoring this heritage property.

"It is quite a job but a great opportunity" he said. Homes from the 1850's are generally quite dark. Being able to restore the property gives Barry the opportunity to make the house more liveable for modern living. "I have been able to make some really good alterations and in particular the addition of a new conservatory will add the extra light into the old house to improve living conditions considerably". Additionally he has been able to improve the insulation, double glaze windows, and improve heating systems. "None of this would have been possible prior to the earthquake" Barry said.

One of the main heritage features of the home are the lovely stone walls. They in themselves are quite special and unique to the area. A light sandy speckled hard volcanic rock comes from the beach walk between Allandale and Governors Bay. Barry thinks the seam runs all the way to Quail Island, but he is not 100% sure. The darker stone is home grown. The stones are used mainly on the walls but are an added feature for a lovely fire surround, where the marbling of the stone can be seen at its best.

When originally constructed most of the stone went into building the now historic house and a small amount was used to build a shed on the property. Following the earthquakes, that shed was condemned and ordered to be demolished completely. Barry has been able to salvage the building materials from the shed to help build the new conservatory.

Walking around the property you gain an insight to what a huge job this project is. Stone walls are no longer just about rocks. This house now has reinforced concrete walls with rock facings. They are an incredible 500mm to 600mm thick, and look strong enough to withstand another century, at least. The house is being built to last future generations. "I have a strong feeling to leave this place in a better state for future generations" Barry said.

Everything about the house is a labour of love. Watching Bembem, he is hand planing a beautiful 180 year old piece of Jarrah that will be a lintel for a window. The time, love and attention to detail is what makes this project very special plus Barry's desire to share the project with the wider community. There will be a special celebration at the property to mark the completion of the project. At this stage the completion date will be late spring to early summer.

In the mean time if you are an enthusiast of heritage buildings and you would like to see what is happening, Barry is happy for you to drop over. Just give him a call first on 03 329 9746 to arrange a visit.

about the lyttelton harbour review

Lyttelton Harbour Review is a community newsletter initiative developed by local Professionals real estate agent Lynnette Baird and Lyttelton Harbour Information Centre chairperson Wendy Everingham. The objective of the Lyttelton Harbour Review is to help keep local residents informed with what is going on in the wider Lyttelton Harbour community. Each week readers can read about community groups; businesses; events; and everything in between. If you have an event, topic, cause, or other, that you would like to share with the harbour community, then we would love to hear from you. Be heard, be seen, be informed - read it or offer it here.

Locals Step Up to Join the Coast Guard

Want to Join Them Too?

Duncan Innes is one of the local faces at Lyttelton Harbour's Coastguard. Living in Governors Bay he is now a regular member of the squad, albeit still with his training wheels on so to speak! Duncan is joined by quite a few other local faces, several from Cass Bay and some more from Lyttelton. Whilst there are quite a few members from the City, the squad has a local feel being based at Naval Point in Lyttelton.

Sitting chatting about the Coastguard is quite informative. The local squad looks after the entire Lyttelton Harbour.

So, what are they actually doing you might ask? They are on the look out for people getting into trouble on the variable waters around the harbour. Calls from the police and the rescue coordination centre guide them to incidents. Duncan has kindly brought along a summary of last years call out list to show the Review. They have helped a hiker who had fallen down some rocks, attended a mayday call, looked for overdue vessels, searched for a missing fisherman, looked for sunken vessels, plus helped with multiple windsurfer and jet ski incidents on the harbour. They also spend many hours towing people back to shore.

For the entire year the Lyttelton Harbour Coastguard squad spent 290 hours preventing incidents and 75 hours in actual search and rescue call outs. All these hours were performed by volunteers!

The crew in Lyttelton are made up of guys and gals. Training occurs every Tuesday, where the squad meet to go through the ropes, and each fortnight they take a turn at being the duty team. Teams are designated according to experience. Amazingly the green team are the trainees and the red the most experienced! Duncan laughs at the designation. He heads up the green team and he is slowly going through the paces to work his way up through the ranks.

Seems as though Duncan has learnt a lot since taking on a leadership role. He talks about learning all about boat maintenance, how to actually use the boat, what to do in a rescue, and how to search for people when you are at sea. He talks enthusiastically about it all and it seems the activities are a great way to learn new skills and meet other like minded people.

The thing that strikes us most about the Coastguard, is that it is a great way to get involved with the water without the hassle of having to own your own boat.

Duncan's best tip during the interview relates to the harbour weather forecasting and tide information service available on the Lyttelton Port Company web site. If you are a regular water user and you want the most up to date information check out this great resource: www.lpc.co.nz/RP.jasc?Page=LPCWeatherNetApp

As with all volunteer organisations the Coastguard are always keen to welcome new recruits. If you would be interested to learn more about our local coastguard branch you can contact Duncan Innes 021 069 9842 or dgginnes@gmail.com

Lyttelton Township Design Guidelines Update

Christchurch City Council recently publicly notified proposed Plan Change 56 to the Christchurch City Plan. The purpose of the Plan Change is to stimulate good urban design in the rebuild of suburban neighbourhood and district shopping centres.

To avoid any misunderstanding that may arise, Plan Change 56 applies only to suburban centres to which the Christchurch City Plan applies. Lyttelton is not one of them.

The design guidelines applicable to Lyttelton's Town Centre and adjoining Residential Conservation Zones are part of the Banks Peninsula District Plan and will be updated separately, with input from the local community, as part of the District Plan Review. Work on such recovery-driven aspects of the review is expected to start in July and be completed and given effect to within twelve months through the Canterbury Earthquake Recovery Act.

In the meantime, work has begun on a non-statutory, interim update of the design guidelines' illustrations and an associated application note for the information of both Council staff and the public. The interim update will distil and explain to what extent and how the existing Lyttelton design guidelines and associated District Plan rules (for example: on-site car parking requirements) are being applied now.

Diamond Harbour Writers Group

May Author: Jane Seatter

Jane Seatter has recently joined the Diamond Harbour Writers Group. She writes poetry and prose for the satisfaction it gives her and has had several short stories and poems published in magazines and anthologies.

The following is an extract from a short story: 'Downtown Seoul'.

She is in Seoul, fourteen stories up in an apartment block. No lawns; no stepping straight out into a garden. The children are quiet as she sees them off to school. They are not happy because she is not happy. Her husband pecks her on the cheek and they leave. The children on a rickety bus and, as she watches from the balcony, her husband climbs into a chauffeur driven Mercedes to go to his office. He knows she is unhappy "It's all for you," he said when she ventured to complain. "It's to get us on our feet."

The maid arrives, cheerful and plump. "Hello, Mummy". Lesley desperately wants her to go away again but according to Jim, it is essential to have a maid and provide employment. The apartment is too small to keep Miss Lee occupied for long. She sits in the corner of the kitchen, jumping at any chance to make herself useful. Lesley feels sorry for her but even more for herself.

Lesley decides to walk the several kilometres to downtown Seoul. Foreigners never walk; they take a cab or are driven. She decides on jeans and a calico shirt. Despite the heat, jeans make her feel safe; capable of defending herself if needs be. The roar of the traffic and the smell of LPG fumes nearly overwhelm her but she perseveres.

After thirty minutes or so she comes across a park with a small waterfall trickling over rocks into a deep pool. She dangles her fingers in the water and is refreshed. Keep Off the Grass signs written in English are everywhere and she wonders why not in Korean. Maybe only foreigners like herself would dare to sully such perfect lawns.

Trickles of sweat run down between her shoulder blades and breasts. Her hair lies hot and dank against her neck but for the first time in three months she feels happy. A small group of Koreans are watching her, fascinated by the tall foreign woman sitting alone on the edge of a pool. She smiles at them and they smile in return, moving in closer to her, welcoming...

Lyttelton Road Tunnel to Celebrate 50th Anniversary

Opened on 27 February 1964, more than 110 years after it was first mooted, the tunnel was hailed by the community as the new gateway for the Port to the Plains, says NZ Transport Agency Regional Director Jim Harland. "In publicity at the time, it was said the Port Hills were no longer a barrier to road transport; Christchurch and Lyttelton having originally been connected by the zig-zag Bridle Path then a tortuous hilly road, a railway tunnel and then 114 years after the first organised settlement of the province, a road tunnel."

He says costing £2.7 million, the Lyttelton Tunnel was "among the most modern in the world" and at 1944m long it became New Zealand's longest road tunnel, which it remains today. "The opening of the road tunnel was an important time in the history for Christchurch. It reduced the distance between Lyttelton and Christchurch by five miles [eight kilometres] and avoided the hill climb over Evans Pass/Sumner Road, opening up a new era for Christchurch, Canterbury and its industries."

The tunnel was opened by the then Governor General His Excellency Brigadier Sir Bernard Fergusson after more than a century of planning, debating and negotiating, then three years of construction. It was estimated 2000 to 2500 vehicles would use it every day with revenue from tolls expected to be sufficient to meet operating costs. At the time, the Lyttelton Harbour Board has already been working for some years on a development plan for new berths and wharf transit sheds on the eastern extension. Plans had also been provided to develop the inner harbour.

Mr Harland says following the earthquake and the closure of Sumner Road, the Lyttelton Road Tunnel is now the only direct route for port traffic, carrying more than 9614 vehicles each day, 1500 of which are trucks. "This makes it a critical lifeline for the South Island and an important access route for Lyttelton residents."

The tunnel's 50th anniversary celebrations will be centred on Lyttelton; details of these are expected to be finalised in the next two to three months. He says the celebrations will have a strong community focus and will reflect the importance of the tunnel to Lyttelton Harbour residents and in supporting both Christchurch's and the South Island's economy.

plenty to share

In Lyttelton so many residents grow vegetables; or have fruit trees literally dripping with produce. Plenty to Share is about sharing any excess produce with the community. So if your lemon tree is yellow with goodness and you can't keep up with making lemon curd, bring those surplus fruits down to the organisers, where every Saturday the swapping of produce is well underway in Lyttelton on the corner of London and Canterbury Street; and also in Diamond Harbour on a Saturday morning at the village centre. If there is something on the Plenty to Share table that you would like to take home, then you are warmly invited to do so.

Naval Point News

Where is the Wind

For the first time in a number of years, we had a yacht race in Lyttelton that went nowhere. There was no wind. Not a single boat in the 20 strong fleet completed a single round of the course. It was, however, a pleasant warm day and everyone adjourned to the clubhouse for the prize draw and some lies about how slow they were going. We're looking at 8 knots of SW for the weekend so here's hoping.

Waka News

There's a lot happening in the world of Waka. Te Waka Pounamu have published a newsletter with all the information and where you can keep up-to-date with club activities, members, safety and maintenance protocols, harbour rules and of course the races coming up. The newsletter can be found toward the end of this edition of the Lyttelton Review.

May is NZ Music Month

They have a great, vibrant show and are heaps of fun and while they have played extensively round New Zealand this is their first gig in Christchurch. LIFT Library

Listening to National Radio there is often good news. This morning I heard about the new proposal to involve Christchurch City Council in strengthening community – to have its parks and gardens staff begin planting edible foods – vegetables and fruit trees – in city centre parks, and to encourage residents to take part in the action, and of course the consumption. Follow the example of Project Lyttelton! “The Canterbury District Health Board (CDHB) wants the city council to use some of the parks it owns to grow fruit and vegetables.”

Here’s another review of a new book in our library, again written by Sarah. Rather relevant to the above topic:

Green Urban Living:

Simple Steps to Growing Food, Keeping Chickens, Worm Farming, Beekeeping and More 2011 Janet Luke

A perfect book for reluctant gardeners, those who like to do the fun bits of gardening but not the boring bits, and conventional gardeners who are curious about permaculture. Put simply, permaculture is about working with nature rather than trying to tame or control it. It also emphasises making use of the resources that are already available and how to effectively use limited space. This book is an engaging introduction to permaculture and includes a step-by-step guide to creating a food garden as well as information on keeping bees and chickens in urban areas. It’s full of handy tips and lovely ideas such as growing lavender or rose geranium by the clothes line so the smell of the plants infuses the linen. It has gorgeous photos and a lovely chapter about gardening with kids. It would inspire the most reluctant of gardeners to get out there amongst the dirt, worms and plants.

Recently I’ve come across people featured or referred to in documentaries, and thought “I think there’s a book by him in our library.” Sure enough – and I’ve had time to read two and a half of them, and strongly recommend them:

The Biology of Belief

Unleashing the Power of Consciousness, Matter and Miracles

2008 Bruce H. Lipton

“New scientific discoveries about the biochemical effects of the brain’s functioning show that all the cells of our body are affected by our thoughts. This research shows that genes and DNA do not control our biology; but instead DNA is controlled by signals from outside the cell, including the energetic messages emanating from our positive and negative thoughts.” But I’d like to add that this is a very enlightening book, and although the author is an eminent scientist, I found that he writes in such a way that, even though my scientific knowledge is very limited, I could follow practically everything, because he illustrates his concepts with humour, with practical examples, and his own experiences that clarify his points. If you want to know what really makes us tick, read this book, and you’ll understand the whole world in a new way. I thought the chapter ‘Conscious parenting’ was especially useful.

The Wealth of Nature:

Economics as if Survival Mattered

2011 John Michael Greer

“Building on the foundations of E. F. Schumacher’s revolutionary “economics as if people mattered”, this book examines the true cost of confusing money with wealth. By analysing the mistakes of contemporary economics, it shows how an economy centred on natural capital – the raw materials that support human life – can move our society toward a more productive relationship with the planet that sustains us all.” Again, this author makes a challenging topic really accessible. I usually find books on matters of economics rather heavy-going – but this one kept me hooked, reading quickly and with enjoyment. It’s great when humour and practical examples help you to understand something outside your normal range. I’ll quote one paragraph on the topic of different “answers” to the problem of peak oil. “Compare any two energy resources in practical terms and it’s clear that in most cases they’re not even apples and oranges – they’re apples and orangutans. Take petroleum and solar energy as good examples. A highly concentrated form of chemical energy and a rather diffuse form of electromagnetic energy have very little in common, and even when they can do the same things – you can heat a house with passive solar design, for example, or you can heat it with an oil-fired burner – the technologies are totally different. Easy talk about swapping one for the other thus evades the immense challenge and nearly unimaginable cost of scrapping multiple continent-wide infrastructures geared to oil and building new ones suited to solar energy. (There are plenty of other questions ducked by talk of that kind, but this one will do for now.)”

And finally, today’s quote:

There are two ways of spreading light: to be the candle, or the mirror that reflects it. Edith Wharton

Queen of the Sun: What Are the Bees Telling Us

This is a profound, alternative look at the global bee crisis. Taking us on a journey through the catastrophic disappearance of bees and the mysterious world of the beehive, this engaging and ultimately uplifting film weaves an unusual and dramatic story of the heartfelt struggles of beekeepers, scientists and philosophers from around the world including Michael Pollan, Gunther Hauk and Vandana Shiva, and even some New Zealanders! Together they reveal both the problems and solutions in renewing a culture in balance with nature, not just the bees, but all of life.

c'mon get involved

Lyttelton is known for its culture of volunteer activity and community participation. If you have ever had the thought that you would like to be more involved in the local community, but you are not sure where to go, or who to talk to? Start by having a conversation with the team at the Lyttelton Harbour Information Centre, as they can give you some advice on the many types of great volunteer organisations here in Lyttelton. If you are passionate about elderly care, sustainability, youth culture, harbour activities, heritage, radio, business development, fundraising, or just about anything - then there is a group who would love for you to be involved!

Gondola Facts

A few weeks ago the Lyttelton Review shared the good news that the Gondola had re-opened, and now we thought we would share six commonly asked questions and answers that you might want to know about the Gondola:

How was the Gondola damaged during the earthquakes?

The Gondola itself was undamaged however the area and operation was water damaged by a burst sprinkler head as a result of the February 2011 earthquake. This caused 60,000 litres of water to flood the entire top station.

How much did all the repairs cost?

Welcome Aboard has invested almost $2million in upgrading and modernising the whole operation post earthquakes, including improving the food and beverage offering. In addition to this a further $600,000 was spent on rock fall mitigation.

Who was involved?

Welcome Aboard worked closely and co-operatively with various parties including the Council, CERA and Recovery Canterbury (CECC and CDC) to get the operation up and running. Aon insurance and Golders Associates, Resource Management Group and landscape architects Rough & Milne also provided expertise.

Who manufactured the pods and cable system?

The detachable gondola is manufactured by the Austrian company Doppelmayr/Garaventa Group a world leader in ropeway engineering. Operating for 120 years, the Group has production facilities and sales and service locations in over 33 countries and has built more than 14,300 installations in over 87 countries.

Was it the vertical height of the summit?

The cableway spans 862 horizontal metres.

What is the distance travelled in the gondola?

The distance is less than a kilometre and takes 10 minutes.

CERA Community Questions and Issues

Some months ago CERA launched a communications platform for residents to ask questions about any aspect of the repair and rebuild process. A number of questions have been lodged already, and under their new, managed and helpful open process, answers are coming through.

Local resident Sue Stubenvoll has raised the query that there appears to be a shortage of Port Hills related queries making it through to this valuable forum. Are there more questions that need to be put to forward to CERA to help Port Hill and Banks Peninsula residents? Port Hill and Banks Peninsula residents need to make their concerns and questions heard, so that answers are received for all to see, and decisions can be made.

Sue is an active member of CanCERN and suggests that residents could place their questions with either Sue, or CanCERN directly. CanCERN have been collaborating with CERA to lodge proven and well worded questions, to get answers fast-tracked.

Background: CERA Community Questions and Issues

The updates found on the CERA website will show you that fourteen community questions have now been processed and are at different stages in terms of being answered by the various agencies involved. The online form to submit questions, the processing of information using a community group called the Think Tank and the collation of answers from the agencies by CERA has been the result of a three month trial which finished recently.

All in all this has been a very successful creative collaboration between CERA and the community that we hope will be a sign of things to come. The next step is to promote this process far and wide so that the people of greater Christchurch can see and utilise its benefits starting with this call to action.

If you have an earthquake related question that you know is burning a hole in the back of your head and is one that affects a reasonable number of people then please check to see if it has been asked or not using this link. If it hasn't let us know using the online form. Also look out for booklets that look like this in your local library and send us your ideas about where they should be or how they could be better.

Councillor and Community Board Local Elections

Here at the Lyttelton Harbour Review we will be looking to interview the people standing for Banks Peninsula Councillor and also those standing for positions within the Lyttelton Mt Herbert Community Board. To remain impartial with our interviews the same questions will be asked for each candidate to answer. But, what would you really like to know? If you had five minutes with a prospective Councillor or Community Board Member, what would you ask of them? Give it some thought, and let us know, so that we can ask and report accordingly. Email your questions to: lynette@realhomes.co.nz or wendy.everingham@xtra.co.nz or drop your questions into the Lyttelton Harbour Information Centre.

Welcome to the Te Waka Pounamu newsletter: a place where we can keep up-to-date with club activities, members, safety and maintenance protocols, harbour rules and of course the races coming up.

CHAIR'S REPORT

Canterbury Community Trust Firstly thanks to the Canterbury Community Trust for their generous support and contribution of just over $10,000 dollars to the club. We are grateful for this and comes at a fortunate time with the pending arrival of our new W6. At recent April club meeting we received a number of suggestions for this money, these will be taken under consideration but first and foremost replacement of life jackets, safety equipment and new paddles will be a priority.

Long Distance Nationals – Some fantastic results from the weekend.

Congratulations to our new gold medallists Barbara and David in the 15 km Mixed Masters event and for getting line honours in the race. Also congratulations to Paul for his gutsy performance in Golden Masters singles race in heavy conditions. Congratulations to the Tight Six crew girls for their efforts in coming 5th (10) in the 25km Womens Masters in very strong conditions. Awesome effort.

Te Waka Pounamu Regatta – We have now completed the first 2 regattas in the series with the last to be held on Sat May 18th. We have been blessed by the weather, great participation and some awesome racing and fingers crossed we can have 3 fine days in a row. Please don't forget that the club will be providing a meal on the last day and help will be needed on the day.

New Waka – Our new waka will be arriving in the near future and we will be requiring a name, so this is an opportune time to start thinking about a name and it's relevance.

Regatta's – good luck to those heading to Caroline Bay and for those considering Fire & Ice in Dunedin in June

SAFETY BOAT COURSE

Naval Point Club are running another safety boat course 12 May, 10am – 4pm.

There is no cost to this course for Club members other than your time and it's FUN!!

Also, more importantly, it will give you a good idea of some of the safety requirements and weather conditions here in the harbour basin, and also enable you to take out safety boats when we are racing or travelling to places outside the heads – like Pigeon Bay.

Please contact Ross or Ken if you are interested. Ph 328 7029 or e mail them - secretary@navalpoint.co.nz

STEERING CLINIC on 11 May and 25 May – Saturday sessions, Followed by Steerer Qualification sessions on Saturday 8 June.

COACHING CLINIC

International paddler, NZ coach, NZ paddler and world champs medallist Corrina Gage was invited by Te Waka Pounamu Coaching Committee to Christchurch on 7, 8 & 9 March 2013. She was kept extremely busy with a club session, coaching a team and with one-to-one sessions. An extremely informative session was delivered on the Saturday morning followed by coach/participant on the water training at Corsair Bay.

The feedback from those involved was that this was a very valuable experience. Key coaching points and specific areas for teams and individuals to work on were identified. The 'Tight 6' Womens Masters team have been consistently implementing Corinna's techniques and after a month were feeling the results in the movement of the waka on the water.

Some key coaching points are summarised below. Please feel free to contact Andrea or any member of the 'Tight 6' team to explain any of the key coaching points below.

COACHING POINT # 1

Watch paddle you are following, YOU MUST exit together
Paddles in the water for too long slow the waka
Think 'pop' and SPEED as exiting paddle

COACHING POINT #2

Place fist on chest – rest head on fist – remove fist.
This is the neutral head position –chin down in waka but eyes looking ahead.

COACHING POINT #3

Feet position

1. Front foot – feel like you can push off the ball of the foot
2. Back foot – sprinter position under the seat
3. Stabilise with knees to the sides if any boat movement – immediate reaction

COACHING POINT #4

Rotate the torso – not just the shoulders (If finish stroke with biceps usu not rotating body)

Hip starts the movement

Maintain the triangle with little finger around the shaft – get the little finger wet.

COACHING POINT #3

Focus on placing the paddle on the water then applying the power
Focus on driving top shoulder to front toe

COACHING POINT #5

For the change over, hold paddle fist width above the neck of the paddle – higher reduces the leverage - Also, leaves space to catch the paddle

Change out in front to receiving hand at side of waka eg. Right hand stays on right side to catch

Drive paddle straight down – front of the stroke only - think POLE VAULT

Due to the enormous success of this coaching venture that the Coaching Committee are hoping to bring Corrina back to Christchurch again towards the end of this year and they can forward any enquiries for bookings to Andrea

NEW CLUB MEMBERS

Alexis Frangoulides: I was born and raised in Paphos, a little town in the island of Cyprus in the Mediterranean sea. Since a child, I loved sports, especially anything that had to do with the sea and water... After all I grew up in an island and having a very hot weather, what better place is there to be but the sea or a swimming pool... I was a competitive swimmer for more than a decade, did lots of speargun fishing and free diving, windsurfing etc.

After studying medicine in Crete - Greece I had decided to seek adventure and having met some cool kiwi guys and girls who visited Greece for their elective, I decided that New Zealand is an ideal place to live...After coming to this beautiful place, I very quickly found a job in Tauranga... I knew nobody there, so went for a walk and saw this kayaks with the outrigger...it reminded me of the Captain Cook series I was watching as a child.... So I approached the guys at the club there and gave it a go... One of the most spectacular sports I've ever done, and I've tried "heaps"... Tauranga Moana Outrigger Canoe Club made me feel very welcome. Good group of people,with great attitude and some competitiveness and beautiful scenery in Tauranga harbour with the Mount Maunganui in the background...

After Tauranga, my career meant that I had to move to Wellington, were to my regrets I didn't join any paddling club, although did some other sports and had to work quite hard...

Eventually I ended up in Christchurch, and again the same story, knew nobody, googled waka ama and drove around... I Liked the place, approached the team that was coming out from their training and arranged to join them in the next session and eventually became a member...

I have to admit that you made me feel very welcome in this club and everybody is friendly and supportive... A bit of teasing each other make it more fun and it's good to have some people to push us a little to try harder on the trainings and in some races in the harbour...I have to admit my favourites is the after paddling drinks in Lyttleton or the Saturday's coffee sessions...

I strongly recommend this club to new members or to whoever is interested to try this sport or to anybody that is knew to town and wants to meet people and make friends..

Kia ora, Alexis

St Bedes College: 2013 sees the introduction of an old sport at St Bede's College. Waka Ama, outrigger canoeing. We have a good crew of mixed junior and senior students who have been travelling out to Naval Point Yacht Club in Lyttelton for the past seven weeks developing their skills in paddling and in waka etiquette on the Lyttelton Harbour, through the watchful eye of Te Waka Pounamu Outrigger Club.

Students have completed their compulsory Huli (captize) which they never want to have to do again, especially as the water is now cold. The three races that they have competed in have given the boys an indication of how they fair against other teams. They just wish there was more secondary schools involved. We are looking forward to the races in Timaru and Dunedin in the next few months. We wish to thank David Kan, for being our experienced steerer, also Shane for being our coach as well as Andrea for her support.

*Gerard MacManus, Teacher
St Bede's College*

A serious training session

I found this amazing photo in an old German Sea Kayakers magazine. Trying to convince kaihoes that they shouldn't throw their torsos sideways to any degree is not easy, and the exercise (in the photo shown) might be an example to us. This guy means business!

As a waka is quite wide, the shoulder should be just over the gunnel of the waka so that the hoe shaft can be positioned vertical. If some bods are narrow across the shoulders and seated in the mid section of a waka they might have to move a certain distance sideways to achieve this.

Pete Sullivan

Easter Paddle to Pigeon Bay and back

The case of the missing orange spork: It was a perfect setting for a 'who dunnit mystery weekend'. An empty villa on the outskirts of a small rural and remote village - and a group of people who didn't know each other really well (do now). In hindsight I shouldn't have gotten rid of all those cobwebs!

So what did happen to the orange spork?

Was it Merv, Anna and the kids? Merv did arrive later and may have caused a diversion with the leaving of Sandie's chillybin at Naval Point. Alex was 'sort of responsible' for getting all our gear there? Maybe it was him? Merryn (the owner of the orange spork) - she may have had an inkling that something was up and had an ulterior motive for sending Alex and co. with trailer around the treacherous coastal route.

Andrea and Paul had their own sporks – does one have a need for more than one spork? Alexis the club ‘Count Dracula’– perhaps not so keen on counting so many sporks (lucky he likes counting paddle strokes and did it for 2 x 3 hours).

Tania arrived later and may have planned all along to take Merryn and the lovely Ellie (who wouldn’t have let anything bad happen to anyone) away under the pretenses of a paddleboard excursion – so someone else could do the deed.

Celia and MariPaz – perhaps sporks are a rarity in Spanish speaking countries and hence worthy of stealing and exporting. Where did they go on that long walk?

If I remember rightly (I had had a few not-so-strong-gins - thanks to Alex for monitoring my drinking) that Pete demonstrated the ‘pea catching paddle technique’ with a spork ... but not an orange one ... perhaps he knows something that we don’t and that it is easier to catch peas with an orange spork – a race advantage!

Ing and Polly, I think, left the scene prior to the crime so perhaps we can eliminate them as suspects. Just in case, does anyone have friends at customs to check Polly’s luggage on her return to Switzerland?

Chris, a question – Does an orange spork do a good job of mixing gin and tonic? Q is is not capable of doing something so naughty as stealing Merryn’s spork, is he?

Or perhaps it was our hosts? Dom is more than enthusiastic about items that cut and stab – and I’m sure Eden would have put a spork to good use. Gus is looking for an efficient way to harvest olives – hmmm maybe not. Anna? – not an ideal utensil for feeding Ngaio so lets hope it wasn’t for that – and not sure what else she would need a spork for.... maybe a ‘still life’ etching?

Mark spent a considerable amount of energy trying to steal Merryn’s (and other’s) mattresses (maybe that’s why his shoulder was sore at the end of the trip and not because he is 56) and perhaps jealousy got the better of him – or maybe he was just cranky from a nights sleep on something less than luxurious.

Now that leaves me and a handy multi-functional tool absent from this year’s checklist

KEYS

Keys can be purchased to enter the lock up (where our paddles and lifejackets are stored) under the club. Once a member these keys are obtainable from Ross or Ken in the Naval Point office for $20. The same deal goes for a key to the compound where the double is stored – another $20 (although the key for this is in the lock up on the yellow buoy).

SLIPWAY PROTOCOL

If we are launching waka or taking them from the water at the same time as yachties are trying to launch or retrieve, please use the club side of the slipway. The deeper water is nearest the 'Psyche' jetty and it enables them to tie up easily.

PSYCHE JETTY PROTOCOL

If we are leaving waka attached to the 'Psyche' jetty, these are to be attached to the Diamond Harbour side of the jetty and only for short periods of time. This is especially important on a Saturday morning when the jetty is heavily used

SAFETY PROTOCOLS and NIGHT PADDLING

Night Paddling

- All paddlers must have a head light (white light only - not flashing - this is a sign of distress on the water)
- Take a dry bag (in the clubrooms) with flares and a cell phone in a plastic zip lock bag.

RACE NEWS

Active Post Long Distance NATIONALS

Barb and David (15km Mixed Masters doubles): Thanks Te Waka Pounamu for all the support while training for the Active Post LD Nationals. Just out of novice status, it was a steep learning curve.

A huge thanks to Andrea and the "Tight Six" Womens crew. We piggy-backed so much of our training off them. They welcomed David into the waka when a seat was free and we gained so much from this.

We are so grateful for Pete Sullivan's wise counsel on technique and how to read and harness water. We still have so much to learn from Pete. Corrina Gage's private coaching session helped us "blend" and sharpened our change overs.

Thanks for the borrowed gear: To Chris and Alex for lending us their racing tops so we could go faster! Paul Wilford (from Ocean Elements) generously lent us a brand new Tempest OC2, identical to the one we own. It was ideal for the heavy conditions. Paul Dahl helped put it together and get it on the water in time; whew!

Finally, thanks for the fun. The social times after training are the best and get us up in the morning to train! All in all, a team effort.

The W6 Tight Six (25 km Masters Womens)

This race was exciting. We had the biggest seas we have ever experienced. Several waka didn't manage to finish. Training in Lyttelton harbour with our friend the easterly held us in good stead. Corrina Gage's coaching advice paid off. The team blended well, finishing in a very respectable time in a strong field. Mel (# 1) took a hammering from the waves and kept a great rate even when she was trying to find the water, cheerful Anita (# 2) helped Mel keep a steady rate, Marie (#3), the machine kept on giving it all, Barb (#4) guarded the ama obsessively and Lisa (#5) and Andrea (#6) guided us safety though the rough seas. Andrea's calls kept us in great heart. A fantastic adventure. We are eager for the next one!!

Paul Dahl (15km Golden Masters Singles)

In just 6 months, Paul has gone from supporting Andrea and her crew.... to owning a single, learning how to stay upright and catch wavesto being the 3rd Golden Master home at Long Distance Nationals in Auckland.

On a borrowed Pegasus (slightly too small for his big frame (lol)), he battled the Waitemata westerly in a field of 80 out to Browns Island and back. At the finish Paul was suffering from cramp...in his left butt cheek. "It's hard work keeping that ama down!", he said.

COMBINED CHRISTCHURCH CITY/BANKS PENINSULA AND CANTERBURY RURAL LOCAL DISTRIBUTION COMMITTEE 2012/13

The Canterbury Earthquakes and many aftershocks have placed strain and limitations on community organisations and volunteers. In 2011, in response to this, the Minister approved the forming of a combined Canterbury COGS Committee consisting of representatives from the previous Christchurch City/Banks Peninsula, and Canterbury Rural LDCs. In 2012 this single committee has continued to assess applications made to these separate committees at one meeting but distribute the annual allocation according to each separate LDC allocation. To achieve this, new methods of working were developed and trialled and we found them to be both challenging and rewarding.

In 2012 the combined Christchurch City/Banks Peninsula and Canterbury Rural Local Distribution Committee (LDC) had the task of allocating a portion of the national COGS appropriation. In the 2012/13 funding round the amount for distribution was $288,882 towards Canterbury Rural applications and $1,220,992 towards the Christchurch City/Banks Peninsula applications, a total of $1,509,874. This year the committee considered 391 eligible applications for funding, 92 Canterbury Rural applications and 299 Christchurch City/Banks Peninsula applications. The total amount requested was $3,560,969 made up of $760,705 towards Canterbury Rural applications and $2,800,264 towards Christchurch City/Banks Peninsula applications.

COGS has national priorities that are determined by Government. In addition, each LDC is required to consult the community and identify local funding priorities.

During the assessment of applications this year the following social issues and trends were observed:

- Group's applying had less reserves and a greater funding need.
- Group's had less people power to deliver the services needed.
- In Christchurch, many group's had had a number of office moves.

- While a large number of National organisations applied, the LDC declined these in preference to local organisations delivering local services.

The committee acknowledges that it is difficult to please everyone and at times some very difficult decisions have to be made.

When making funding decisions the Committee is guided by the:

- National COGS Committee's (NCC) policies
- Local community needs
- Local priorities. (These must be consistent with the national priorities).

The method the LDC has adopted when making decisions is:

1. Members must declare all conflicts of interest before embarking on the decision-making process.
2. Each member assesses all applications, (except those where there is a conflict of interest) Information on each application and an overview of the service or project is prepared and provided by Christchurch DIA staff.
3. Interviews with applicants are held where the LDC members consider further information is required.
4. At the allocation meeting, each member discusses their recommendations and the rationale for this decision.
5. Members consider the recommendation and, after discussion, agreement by consensus is sought. If agreement by consensus is not reached, the committee will determine the outcome by vote.

The Committee would like to acknowledge the wonderful work that is being done in this region. We should all be proud that we live in a community in which so many people are prepared to give freely of their time, effort and knowledge to assist so many in a wide variety of ways.

Once again, thank you for allowing us to work with you this past year.

Linda Ngata (Chair)

Combined Christchurch City/Banks Peninsula and Canterbury Rural COGS LDC

PURPOSE OF COGS

The purpose of COGS, as defined and approved by Cabinet in May 2003 [Cab Min (03) 17/5] is as follows:

'The Community Organisation Grants Scheme (COGS), with consideration to the principles of Te Tiriti o Waitangi, provides government funding for supporting community-owned and community-driven social services and projects that contribute to the development of vibrant and sustainable whānau, hapū, iwi and communities by:

- actively encouraging participation in communities;
- promoting community leadership;
- investing in community capability;

- promoting social, economic and cultural equity with regard, but not limited to, Māori, women, Pacific communities, other ethnic communities, older people, the rurally isolated, people with disabilities, families, youth and children, and unemployed people;
- responding to locally identified community needs and priorities; and/or
- attempting to reduce downstream social and economic costs to the community and government.

In considering the above, COGS can provide support for smaller groups and those that have limited access to other funding as well as providing support for new and established initiatives. COGS does not fund inappropriate duplication of existing services or political advocacy.'

NATIONAL PRIORITIES

The definition lists COGS priority areas as:

- | | | |
|----------------------------|----------------------|----------------------------|
| ▪ Māori | ▪ Families | ▪ The rurally isolated |
| ▪ Women | ▪ Youth and children | ▪ People with disabilities |
| ▪ Pacific communities | ▪ Unemployed people | ▪ Older people/seniors |
| ▪ Other ethnic communities | | |

COMBINED CHRISTCHURCH CITY/BANKS PENINSULA AND CANTERBURY RURAL LDC PRIORITIES FOR 2012/13

The committee gave higher priority to:

- Organisations providing community services and earthquake recovery support to the communities within the Canterbury area.

When making decisions, the LDC:

- generally considers organisations providing services the Government has a responsibility to fund to be of low priority for COGS funding. Examples include, but are not limited to, Health, Education and Social Welfare
- assesses organisations with a religious focus on whether they provide services to the entire community or just to people belonging to their own organisation
- assesses organisations on their financial viability and whether they are meeting local needs, not on how many years they have received COGS funding.

MESSAGE FROM NATIONAL COGS COMMITTEE (NCC)

Tēnā koutou katoa

On behalf of my colleagues Jill Dean, Bonnie Miller-Perry, Linda Ngata and Rawiri Thompson, it is my pleasure as Chair of the National COGS Committee (NCC) to provide a summary of COGS during the 2012/13 year.

NCC members are nominated and elected by the Local Distribution Committees (LDCs) and hold office for three years. The current members took office in May 2012. I thank the outgoing committee for their commitment to COGS since 2009, and for the advice and support given to the new Committee.

Each year, the Committee allocates a portion of the COGS appropriation to each LDC. In 2012/13 the NCC had $12.5 million to allocate across the 36 LDCs.

The National Committee is responsible for establishing and monitoring policies and national standards. Two new funding policies were implemented in the 2012/13 funding round:

- COGS will not fund projects seeking to promote commercial, political or religious objectives, including political advocacy projects, employment and/or business initiatives, and commercial enterprises; and
- COGS will only consider funding any material of a technical nature if the material is consistent with applicable policies and guidelines produced by relevant Government departments or Government approved authorities. The onus of demonstrating such approval is placed on the applicant when making the application.

The NCC is also responsible for providing governance to the 36 LDCs operating throughout New Zealand. As a result of the Canterbury earthquakes a temporary committee is operating in this region. The Committee includes past members of the Christchurch City/Banks Peninsula and Canterbury Rural Committees.

Local Distribution Committees receive and consider funding applications from not-for-profit organisations that provide community-based social services. During the 2012/13 COGS funding round, LDC members assessed 5286 applications, an increase of 180 compared with the previous funding round. The number of grants distributed was 4369 with 83 per cent of all eligible applicants receiving a grant. The average value of a grant this year was $2,861.

Special thanks to all committee members and the Department of Internal Affairs support staff for their effort to an increasing and very important workload.

COGS grants make an important contribution to the well-being of New Zealand communities. The funding scheme contributes to improving community capability, leadership and networking. COGS grants continue to assist community organisations to meet the needs of communities, whānau, iwi and hapu.
