Lyttelton Club Supports Local Groups

Available Funding Round Gives Back to Community

Lyttelton has long been known to possess a strong volunteer and connected community spirit with many residents freely giving up their time to improve the way other residents live, work and play around the harbour. In so many different ways the Lyttelton Harbour benefits from the enthusiasm and energy of our local volunteers, but there are occasions when some financial assistance is required to go hand in hand with the goodwill of these volunteers to make things happen.

And that is why having community based organisations like the Lyttelton Club is so important to Lyttelton. Over the past twelve months the Lyttelton Club has proudly been able to financially support so many diverse community groups and individuals in their quest to improve the way residents live, work or play in the Lyttelton Harbour.

As the name suggests the Lyttelton Club is a club, not a business. First and foremost the Lyttelton Club operates as a not for profit organisation owned by its members. And when there is a surplus the Lyttelton Club is in the position to donate money back into the local community. Community donations available from the Lyttelton Club's latest round of funding for the last half of the 2012/2013 financial year have now been completed. The sub-committee, established to allocate the funds, have selected eight submissions from groups and organisations within the educational, historical, sporting, service and event sectors, including:

Combined Lyttelton Schools Charitable Trust Art Peninsula Auction to cover the cost of leasing the building space at the old supermarket site on London Street. Lyttelton Historical Museum Society for contribution toward a data projector and pull-up screen. Lyttelton Main School, Year Six Gardening Team to purchase garden forks, gloves, watering cans and a wheel barrow so that the children can develop an edible garden. Lyttelton Netball Junior Section for the purchase of netballs, pumps, cones, first aid kits and gear bags. Lyttel Soccer to help the club grow through support to purchase more sporting equipment including soccer balls, goal, cones, training poles and team bibs. Lyttelton West School to assist with the 125th Anniversary and reunion held in October. Lyttelton Volunteer Fire Brigade in supporting four fire fighters in the Sky Tower Climb fundraising for Leukaemia and Blood Cancer New Zealand. Project Lyttelton, Lyttelton Farmers Market to sponsor the high calibre of local musicians and visiting guest bands.

The Lyttelton Clubs next funding round closes at 5.00pm, 30 September 2013. Just send them an email or a letter outlining what you need, and while there are no guarantees, they will see what they can do: Funding Sub-Committee, Lyttelton Club, 23 Dublin Street, Lyttelton. New members are always welcome, so you too could become a member of the Lyttelton Club. From social events and gatherings to live music, dancing and now a great restaurant, the Lyttelton Club is a place of friendly locals—your local. Call in and see them some time soon

Gorse and Broom: Friend or Foe

MIM - Minimal Interference Management

The Whakaraupo and Urumau Reserves, located on the east and west side of the Lyttelton township are managed by local volunteer organisation the Lyttelton Reserves Management Committee, in conjunction with the Christchurch City Council. The Lyttelton Reserves Management Committee meets on a regular basis to make decisions concerning the management of these reserves. In addition it organises weed control and planting programmes that include public and schools planting days along with programmes to support this planting including watering and releasing the young trees.

This week the Lyttelton Reserves Management Committee explains the process of Minimal Interference Management:

Many looking at the broad swathes of yellow and gold on the port hills during summer see land left to go to wrack and ruin which is in dire need of spraying, burning and clearing. However existing stands of gorse and broom provide the quickest and the most economical method for the re-establishment of native shrub-hardwood species.

Minimal Interference Management facilitates the ecological process of Natural Succession where undisturbed stands of gorse and broom act as “nurse” plants; the seedbed beneath older gorse and broom is ideal for germination and seedling growth.

An important feature of Minimal Interference Management is the elimination of grazing: a single annual visit by a sheep is sufficient to remove all small seedlings, as most native shrub – hardwood species in their seedling stages are considered to be ‘ice cream’ to a hungry sheep.

Where there is stock exclusion, with possums, hares and rabbits kept at low numbers, native shrub-hardwood species such as native fuchsia, kanuka, mahoe, wineberry and ngaio emerge through dense stands of broom and gorse within three years. Complete smothering and replacement of gorse and broom by native shrub-hardwood forest could take place within 10–30 years depending on site.

Existing pockets of native species are sufficient and close enough to reserve areas to provide an effective seed source for natural dispersal without extensive enrichment planting. Enrichment planting is used on boundaries to control the spread of gorse and broom onto adjacent areas and the spread of weeds into the reserve areas. It also acts as a fire break and to improve soil stability reducing erosion.

It is possible to classify land for its potential for natural succession based on rainfall, aspect/exposure and distance from seed sources. The Whaka Raupo and Urumau reserves rank a very high 13 out of a possible 15 for their succession potential.

ABOVE: What a difference two years makes; over topping of broom and gorse, enrichment planting on boundaries.

Lyttelton Civic Square

Summary of Community Meeting 17 April 2013

On the evening of the 17 April 2013, around forty Lyttelton residents attended a meeting hosted by the Lyttelton Mt Herbert Community Board to discuss ideas and design concepts for Lyttelton's Civic Square space and build on the feedback from previous consultation in March. The purpose of this meeting was to:

- Consider the design features put forward from the March consultation – discuss how these elements could be incorporated into a plan that, overall, meets the needs of the community.
- Consider the type, scale, function and look of each design features, and how the features might integrate and work well together.
- Consider how and which design features might be prioritised, and where tradeoffs might be made if necessary.
- Develop a plan with a clear reason as to the design features the group had chosen and how the design features worked together.
- People worked together in nine design groups to develop options for the layout of the space. Reference material was provided including a site plan and images of a wide selection of design features. Groups were guided by, but not limited to, topics including the nature of the square and its use, the playground, play areas including water play and positioning or inclusion of public toilets and the Cenotaph war memorial.

Of the many ideas the groups explored, some key themes emerged:

- One theme is to retain the site's current three levels and incorporate these into the design – recognising the opportunities that the different levels provide in terms of views, a natural amphitheatre effect. Groups also highlighted the ways the three distinct spaces could be treated to provide for different uses and to create different atmospheres.
- Another theme is the need for an organic and flexible approach to the space to enable its use by a wide range of people for a variety of activities – including a performance space, active space, areas to meet and socialise and an area for contemplation.
- Connections to different spaces within the site, with opportunities to cross paths, meet people, stop for a chat, and share a meal appeared in all of the plans in some form. Integrating the space and its activities with the town centre also featured. The groups also explained the types of activities they wanted for the site, with the majority of groups describing a relaxed informal use at the top of the site [the space adjacent to the Recreation Centre] to a more lively, active and colourful space where the site connects with London Street.
- The integration of Lyttelton's history into the site also featured. Examples included the creative reuse of materials, interpretation and the need for cultural representation. Groups also mentioned the need for design elements that support play for everyone – fun, creative and challenging without necessarily resulting in specific areas of play or play equipment.

The groups had a mixed response to the placement of both the cenotaph and the toilets in the space, recognising their desirability and importance, but also the potential impacts that they might have on the usability and feel of the space. However, where the toilets and cenotaph were incorporated in the design by some groups there was a strong desire to ensure they were well-integrated into the space, through their placement, design and connection with the other design features of the space. The majority of teams felt that if the toilets and cenotaph could be located off-site, but in close proximity to the space, that would be a good outcome.

The groups also spoke about the need for textural, colourful and interesting plantings, including trees, grass and appropriate shade. Opportunities for a more sustainable or indigenous approach to planting was also raised, including the use of native species or fruiting plants. The words 'playful' 'original' and 'local' were well used in relation to the overall flavour of the space, and as desired aspects of any permanent or temporary artworks, including a water feature.

“The key theme could be summed up as a space for all, improving wellbeing for as many people as possible.”

Overall, this was a very positive meeting that provided some strong themes and ideas for the Council's landscape architects to consider as they develop draft design option/s. These will be presented to the community for further consultation in June/July 2013.

Lyttelton Civic Centre Update

Residents Concern Over Land Designation

Lyttelton resident Sue Stubenvol attended the feedback session held by Christchurch City Council staff at the old supermarket building in London Street on 17 April. From that meeting Sue has identified a potential conflict with the land designation being applied to the site, and brings the following to our attention:

During the town feedback session in the old supermarket last week, Council staff were surprised to be asked about lighting plans for the Civic Centre/Civic Space. They have assumed that the space will be a Reserve, which means:

- Daytime use only (no BBQs, birthday parties, play groups, performances, reunions, sky watching etc and no lights); and
- No trading (including sausage sizzles, local performances, theatre workshops, market overflow, arts market, busking or fund raising auctions etc); and
- Several other restrictions, such as No Dogs.

If the space is for our community, the Christchurch City Council needs to recognise that we are a port community, not a dormitory town or old people's home. We operate 24x7 and it is part of our main retail street. The space will also, for example, need to accommodate activities which have been held on the Grassy so may need temporary seating and a tent or shelter from the weather for special events.

This means the civic space also needs to be available 24x7— or at least 16x7 or whatever we choose. It's possible that a designation as a civic space [like Cathedral Square], rather than a Scenic or any other type of Reserve, would legitimise the activities we may want to conduct in the space and put control of its use back in our hands without unreasonable restrictions.

Now the Christchurch City Council is aware of the conflicting messages they have been giving out and the full expectations of our community, Christchurch City Council are working with their lawyers to find a suitable designation. Everyone's loud support to any Community Board member may help swing their decision in our favour.

Please give feedback to the Christchurch City Council Project Manager, Janine Sowerby, or to our Community Board members.

ANZAC Day in Lyttelton

Symbol of Friendship and Bravery

The word ANZAC, or Australian New Zealand Army Corps, encompasses Australian and New Zealand armed forces. It stands for courage, loyalty and friendship. It stands for fighting for one's freedom and the freedom of one's fellow countrymen. It stands for resilience and persistence under the most horrible and hopeless of fighting conditions.

Over many years ANZAC Day has come to emphasise the friendship and the bravery shared by our two countries in fighting to preserve the principles and freedoms that we all hold so dear. ANZAC's have taken part in conflicts in many countries of the world, as well as on oceans and in the air. In South Africa, Europe, the Middle East, Italy the Pacific, Korea, Malaya and Vietnam just to mention a few. More recently the ANZAC's have been involved in United Nations peacekeeping activities in many theatres of conflict including Bosnia, Timor Leste, The Solomon Islands, Iraq and Afganistan. Since the Boer War many thousands of young men and women from New Zealand and Australia have given their lives, with countless acts of bravery and heroism acknowledged, and in many cases rewarded.

In every country where Australians and New Zealanders live, ANZAC Services are held on the 25th of April each year to remember the sacrifices others have made, so that we can enjoy the principles and the freedoms we inherited. We shall remember them.

plenty to share

In Lyttelton so many residents grow vegetables; or have fruit trees literally dripping with produce. Plenty to Share is about sharing any excess produce with the community. So if your lemon tree is yellow with goodness and you can't keep up with making lemon curd, bring those surplus fruits down to the organisers, where every Saturday the swapping of produce is well underway in Lyttelton on the corner of London and Canterbury Street; and also in Diamond Harbour on a Saturday morning at the village centre. If there is something on the Plenty to Share table that you would like to take home, then you are warmly invited to do so.

Fresh Milk Available for Purchase

Harbour Resilience Project

Kia Ora. Recently we had a privilege to meet Laura, an amazing, passionate young woman, who is aiming to start a small biodynamic enterprise of raising cattle and selling fresh milk, straight off the farm, to the local community. She is currently doing a market research aiming to see whether such enterprise could work out here in the harbour.

It would be of great help if you could contact Laura via email in response to the survey questions she has posted below: laurabeckaotearoa@gmail.com.

Survey for Interest in Fresh Milk

Are you interested in purchasing a weekly amount of local, organic raw fresh milk? Estimated cost $3/litre

If so, how much milk per week would you consider purchasing?

How far would you travel to pick it up?

Would you commit to picking it up from the Lyttelton Farmers Market every week?

Do you know of a local business who may be open to being a distribution point ie: health food shop, café, juice bar etc?

It is useful to know where the critical mass of people live, so that we can determine where a central distribution point could be.

Also, Laura will want to get back in touch with you once she is on her way and ready with fresh milk for you, so it is helpful to know:

What is your name

What suburb do you live in

Phone number

Email address

Any other comments or suggestions

Laura comments:

Hello. I am a local and I want to farm cows to sell raw milk to the local community and I need your help. I am totally committed to resilient communities and for me that means, local nutritious food, strong community culture and a healthy vibrant ecosystem.

This means that I will be growing to biodynamic organic standards, that the cattle I work with will be in a healthy and stress free environment and that the milk will be of the best quality we can produce (with a lean towards A2). It also means that I will be actively seeking opportunities to help develop a connection between people and land and a local food culture.

Fresh milk, also known as raw milk, has had both positive and negative things claimed about it. It is something that you will have to make your own mind up about. This is some of what I have heard:

- Most foods – milk included – provide best nutrition when consumed in a fresh, raw or minimally cooked state.
- Fresh raw milk is also rich in natural food enzymes: lactase, lipase and phosphatase number among many of these natural enzymes. These enzymes help your body to better digest milk and better metabolize its vital nutrients.
- research indicates that this substances in raw milk are known to fight cancer (particularly breast, intestinal and bone cancers), hypertension and adipose obesity.
- Fresh milk or raw milk is easier on your stomach and digestive track

c'mon get involved

Lyttelton is known for its culture of volunteer activity and community participation. If you have ever had the thought that you would like to be more involved in the local community, but you are not sure where to go, or who to talk to? Start by having a conversation with the team at the Lyttelton Harbour Information Centre, as they can give you some advice on the many types of great volunteer organisations here in Lyttelton. If you are passionate about elderly care, sustainability, youth culture, harbour activities, heritage, radio, business development, fundraising, or just about anything - then there is a group who would love for you to be involved!

Harbour Co-Op Launches Buying Club

Supporting the local production of safe and healthy food is paramount to the Harbour Co-op's mission. We will always give preference to quality products that are made or grown in as close a proximity to the shop as possible. But with that being said, we do recognise the reality of our dependence on imported goods in order to offer the extensive selection that our customers demand. So, in order to achieve our vision of "providing for the well-being of our members and their environment" and to "make high quality, ethically produced, ecologically sound and reasonably priced goods and services available to our members," we are excited to introduce the Harbour Co-op Buying Club.

The concept of a Buying Club is simple: a group of people order and pre-pay for case lots of goods, for example, 12 cartons of rice milk or 6 bottles of juice boxed for shipping. This order is then placed collectively with a wholesaler, and once the goods arrive, the 'Club Members' receive their goods. We have found an excellent overseas wholesaler with a vast catalogue, hugely competitive prices, and an outstanding ethical reputation. Our first offers of the buying club will be through this distributor so that we may build up volume and successively increase our price advantage.

So how does it work? Well, every month the Co-op will produce a list of Buying Club specials. This will be distributed as a spread sheet via email, website, and Facebook links. There will also be several in-store copies of the list that can be borrowed or used in the shop. Individuals or groups will then fill out a Buying Club form [also available via the above methods] and indicate what items they would like to order. These goods will then need to be pre-paid by the monthly deadline – usually near the end of the month. We anticipate that goods may take 4-6 weeks after the full order is placed to arrive in the shop, though we will know with greater clarity after we have gone through the process a couple of times.

Please note that the Buying Club is open to both Members and Non-members of the Co-op, though Members have a clear price advantage as part of their member benefits. We feel that inviting the rest of the community in will give us greater strength and help demonstrate to those who haven't yet joined the advantages of co-operative thinking.

Take some time and look over this month's list to see if there is anything that you, your family, or friends regularly purchase that you might be able to save a considerable amount on by participating in the Buying Club. Please go to our website and follow the links if you'd like to find out more about some of the great new products that we are offering. Also, if there are other products which you would consider purchasing in bulk, please let us know so that we may include them in future monthly specials.

Remember: together we can accomplish what we could not possibly achieve on our own.

Background

For the last 12 years Dr Sanchez has played professionally as a Latin Guitarist all over Europe and Australasia. Dr Sanchez has held contracts for most of the large hotel chains such as Hilton, Versace, Sheraton and Raddisson, as well as Restaurants, Wine festivals such as Waiheke and Devonport and corporate functions such as the Gold Coast Indy and the Americas Cup - averaging around two performances a year.

Dr Sanchez plays a mixture of traditional Mediterranean and South American songs, from artists such as Paco de Lucia, Armik, Ottmar Liebert and Santana—right thru to original tracks that lean more toward progressive beats fused with nylon string guitar.

The music can be used to create an ambient, relaxed tone to your venue, or can be played as a focal point for your guests to dine and dance to.

It's the first week of May – that means New Zealand Music Month 2013 has begun. Thirty-one days of music across our clubs, libraries, airwaves, screens of all sizes, schools, parks, and theaters has started. New Zealand Music Month Manager Simon Woods says "There is a wonderful array of music events across the country this May, celebrating our music and our music makers. Christchurch City Libraries: Free Music Downloads

Freegal Music Launch

Christchurch City Libraries adds another flagship service to its impressive range of Digital Libraries resources from Wednesday 1 May – Freegal Music, enabling library members to download and keep up to three songs a week from Sony Music's catalogue.

Coinciding with the celebration of New Zealand Music Month – and its free performances found in libraries across Christchurch throughout May – the launch of Freegal Music allows Christchurch City Libraries to increase the size and diversity of its collection. Freegal Music, from digital content provider Library Ideas, offers members access to over three million songs from 10,000 music labels and 65 different countries. Featured downloads include tracks from One Direction's Take Me Home and Justin Timberlake's The 20/20 Experience as well as classics from Beethoven and Bach. Under the terms of the agreement, library members can legally download three Freegal Music tracks in MP3 format each week – at no direct cost – via the Christchurch City Libraries website.

"Freegal Music is easy to use, compatible with most devices and full of great music from today's top 40 to classical," says Carolyn Robertson, Unit Manager Libraries and Information. "There's no better time to launch this service than during our New Zealand Music Month celebrations – it's further proof that Christchurch City Libraries deserves its reputation as the first port of call for many music fans.

"This is going to be incredibly popular with our customers, and will serve as a gateway to the rest of our digital offerings. Christchurch City Libraries are far from being just about books on shelves – members can access our massive online resource, The Source, from the comfort of home." Once a member has their library card and PIN, they can enjoy for free all the online resources subscribed to by Christchurch City Libraries, including e-books and audio books, current newspapers from around the world and language learning systems.

"Sony Music has an incredibly expansive and popular catalogue and we are really excited to partner with them on this, a very important product for libraries," says Brian Downing, co-founder of Library Ideas. "A library is a focal point of the community that requires many tools to excite people about library resources. More than anything, that is the reason for the service." To begin using these services, or for more information, please visit www.christchurchcitylibraries.com

Community Food Forest Working Bee

Kia Ora, you are invited to the Inaugural Community Food Forest working bee on Sunday, 19 May in Lyttelton. We have done a preliminary design for the site through the Food Forest workshop with Robina McCurdy a while back. Since then a neighborhood group was working on adapting and developing that further and now we are at the stage of getting the real work done. Our swales are half dug already (its a pretty interesting site with quite a gradient to it) and we have crowd sourced a good number of plants so far. We are still looking for: Pear, Cherry, Peach, Red currants, black currants, various herbs, various berries, feijoas, lemon and mandarin tree, hazelnuts, globe artichoke. AND some helping hands eager to be a part of this project and learn new things as we go along. Our neighbourhood team will be there all day and we also have a group of people that will lovingly look after everyone that comes to help out. Let me know if you are keen to come along and I'll send you some more information. Also please help us spread the word to people that might be interested. Nina Srot: nina.srot@gmail.com

TV TakeBack wants to recycle your old TV

In advance of the Digital Switch over for the South Island this Sunday 28 April, Christchurch City Council is reminding residents that they can recycle their old televisions. As part of the TV TakeBack programme, Christchurch residents can take advantage of a subsidised fee to drop-off old televisions to the RCN e-Cycle centres in Hornby and Sydenham.

The Ministry for the Environment and the Christchurch City Council have come together to promote and assist with the recycling of old televisions that have been replaced or will no longer be required, once the Digital Switch over takes place. From this Sunday, some older televisions will not be able to pick up any channel signals.

Televisions contain many materials which can be recycled such as copper, precious metals and glass. They also contain materials like lead that are hazardous to the environment and your health if dumped in landfills or into the environment, so recycling them is best course of action.

To encourage responsible recycling of old televisions, the Council has partnered with RCN e-Cycle for the TV TakeBack programme where for a limited time Christchurch City residents can recycle their old televisions for a small fee of $5 at either of the e-Cycle drop-off centres.

RCN e-Cycle has two drop-off sites located in Hornby and Sydenham. Both are open Monday to Friday from 8am to 4pm, with the Hornby centre open on Saturdays from 10am to 4pm. They are located at the following addresses;

- 81c Buchanans Road, Hornby.
- 36 Byron Street, Sydenham.

RCN e-Cycle has also engaged a number of retail outlet partners in the programme that will also assist residents who cannot get to either of the drop-off centres. This is a great opportunity for people to get rid of those old televisions at a reduced cost and to do it in a responsible manner that helps our environment.

Visit the TV TakeBack website to find out everything you need to know about recycling your unwanted television. www.tvtakeback.co.nz .

– Ends –

The TV TakeBack programme is run by the Ministry for the Environment. Further information about the nationwide TV TakeBack programme is available on the Ministry for the Environment website, and on the RCN e-Cycle's website;
