Future Lyttelton Streetscape

Nostalgic Reflection or Fresh Beginnings

Architecture can be just as controversial as art. With controversial artworks the viewer has the option to just walk away. But with architecture, a grand design that polarises a community, or a modern carbon copy that may fail to impress will be permanent. And love or loathe new design, it is time to prepare for change as the Lyttelton Town Centre sits on the brink of redevelopment.

The Christchurch City Council intends to review the Lyttelton Town Centre Zone and the Design Guidelines over the next twelve to eighteen months. Such a review is necessary as existing design guidelines make strong reference to buildings that no longer exist. As an interim step the Council have released a document entitled “Lyttelton Town Centre Zone – Design Explanatory Note”. Such an interim document is designed to assist and support land owners who do not wish to wait for the town centre review to be finalised before rebuilding on their vacant sites.

Of course it should be noted that design guidelines are just that – guidelines or an ideology on how Lyttelton’s new buildings could look. And the design guidelines are not a one solution fits all, nor will they ever be. They are of course designed for the majority of building scenarios where ultimately form, function and finance are the driving forces. For a select few however, the design guidelines may be viewed as restrictive or non-imaginative, and it is fine for land owners to feel this response too. Under the Resource Management Act land owners will always have the right to step outside the building square and create something unique, remarkable or polarising – with the notified hearing process established exactly for this scenario.

From community discussions around the Lyttelton Master Plan, and subsequent Council involvement with property owners, it has been assumed under the Town Centre interim guidelines that “residents and visitors to Lyttelton are anxious to see the town centre reinstated in a way that recreates the atmosphere and character that existed previously, while at the same time taking the opportunity to make improvements and recognise the current era”. So, does the community still feel this way, or has consensus changed now that time has past. Do we want buildings that have a nostalgic twist as shown on the left? Or do we want a fresh beginning? And how much of a voice could the community have over another persons property?

As part of the review process, the community will be given an opportunity to express their vision for the township, so do keep an eye out for further details.

Banks Peninsula District Plan

Opportunity to Have Your Say

The Christchurch City Council is reviewing the current district plan, incorporating the current Christchurch City Plan and the Banks Peninsula District Plan. The new district plan is scheduled to be completed in 2016, before the end of the next Council term. As the Council works through the review process, they welcome your involvement in the drafting of the new District Plan. Your input can help form the way Christchurch looks and operates in the future. After all, it's about your home, your neighbourhood, your city and the wider district.

What is a District Plan?

The District Plan touches on everyone in the community. It's the Council's rulebook that sets out the provisions governing the use of land within our district, including such things as residential and business zoning, transport, natural hazards, development and heritage. The Christchurch City Council currently has two plans governing its district, the Christchurch City Plan and the Banks Peninsula Plan.

What is a District Plan Review and how can I find out more?

The Christchurch City Council reviews the district plans every ten years. This involves a full review of the two plans, to address immediate and long-term planning needs.

Why review the District Plan now?

Christchurch is a district that's not only expected to grow, but is also changing. The earthquakes significantly changed the city, and we need to look differently at how we develop in the future.

The Resource Management Act 1991 requires councils to review provisions in their district plans every 10 years. Christchurch City Council was gearing up to start reviewing the current Christchurch City Plan and the Banks Peninsula District Plan prior to the earthquakes, but this was then put on hold after February 2011.

In April this year the Council resolved to go ahead with a full review of the two plans, to address immediate and long-term planning needs. This followed the release of the draft Land Use Recovery Plan prepared by Environment Canterbury on behalf of the Canterbury Earthquake Recovery Authority. It makes sense to review the district plan for Christchurch in its entirety, rather than adding to or revising the existing ones.

What is changing?

The district plan review is not a complete rewrite, starting from scratch. The review will be looking at all elements of the current Christchurch City and Banks Peninsula District plans to see what's working well, and what needs improving. In some cases, a fresh approach may be needed to meet the changing circumstances of our city. The Council will also be restructuring and reformatting the plan into an electronic document, making it more accessible and simpler to follow. The result will be a new plan, not only in content but also in the way it works.

How can I get involved?

The District Plan affects everyone in the community. So whether you want to let the Council know about something that affects your home, your neighbourhood or the whole city – now is the time to let them know what you are thinking. Planners are working on the District Plan Review now so the Council wants to hear from you, as your input could shape how the new Christchurch City District Plan looks. To find out more about the District Plan Review read Finding the Balance—a booklet attached to the rear of this edition of the Lyttelton Harbour Review will tell you about the review process and how you can get involved.

Lyttelton Port Company

Four New Straddles Unveiled

Lyttelton Port of Christchurch officially unveiled four new straddle carriers, last Wednesday, increasing the current fleet from 18 to 22. The investment was made in response to huge demand in container trade and to support the future growth of the business. Container trade has increased by more than 20% in the past two year and expected to double in the next eight years.

The new straddle carriers, purchased from Liebherr Container Cranes, are diesel electric and will stack one over two high. They are linked to the ports computerised container tracking system and are supplied with a 50t twin lift spreader.

The straddles were all signed off last week and have begun operations at the container terminal in Cashin Quay.

“The new diesel electric straddle carriers will deliver improved productivity and energy efficiency,” said LPC Chief Executive, Peter Davie. “The investment in infrastructure is expected to have an immediate impact on port efficiency but forms part of a strategy to set a platform for future growth.”

The straddles are a part of a $21m investment in infrastructure that also includes a ship-to-shore gantry crane which is expected to be delivered in the latter half of 2014 and is timed to coincide with the Cashin Quay berth reinstatement programme and development work for the Terminal.

Grow Harbour Kids

Getting Children Excited About Growing Food

There is a quiet revolution underway around Lyttelton Harbour. School children are getting excited about food. Led by enthusiastic students, teachers, schools and with the assistance Kitchen Garden Co-ordinator, Jacqueline Newbound, from Project Lyttelton's Harbour Resilience team, the children are learning how to grow and cook food.

In a recent trip around the Harbour, Jacqueline introduces us to many of the gardens that form part of this project. At Lyttelton Main School there are two gardens underway. One is a shared space at the Lyttelton Community Garden and the other is based at St Joseph's. While quite new projects there are exciting things already happening. Linking to the new MENZ Shed the children at the St Joseph's site will soon have chickens in their newly constructed chicken house. This site hosts a more portable garden. In a novel idea plants are growing in kayaks and other interesting portable containers. A great idea so that when the schools merge the garden can be taken with them. These children also have access to a lovely kitchen, and apparently many delicious muffins come out of this small kitchen.

Busy C's are also into the programme. They help with the shared garden at the Community Garden. It's lovely hearing the kids having such a fun time in the garden with their teachers and Jacqueline.

Roaming around the Harbour, Governors Bay School have the most beautiful looking garden. With the school at the head of the Harbour the garden has the most perfect spot. If only the plants could see the wonderful view they possess with views right to the opening of the harbour! A wonderful scarecrow watches over everything.

At Orton Bradley Park another garden appears. This one is led by the home schooled children. It's great to see that all the children around our harbour are participating in this project.

And last, but by no means least, the final stop is at Diamond Harbour School. At the moment they have the most advanced garden of all the schools. A lovely new hen house has arrived, a fruit tree orchard has been planted, and the actual gardens are quite large. The scale is extensive so here children are lucky enough to have a garden based/inspired lunch each week, where produce is cooked and lunches are provided to children who want to participate.

This project is both inspiring and it is really starting to make a difference.

Our children are learning great skills to create a more healthy and sustainable lifestyle.

Lyttelton Architect Impresses with Design Solution

Cantabrian Architectural Design Competition

Although the offices of Pynenburg and Collins Architects' are Wellington based, it was the home design from the drawing board of architect Simon Blencowe based here in Lyttelton that won over judges in the recent Cantabrian Architectural Design Competition. Simon's second place design featured easy to modify bedroom spaces, and options for solar hot water and rainwater collection.

Simon says "I had great fun responding to this tough brief, balancing an extremely tight budget and strict TC3 requirements to create a liveable home. My focus was an efficient floor plan that maximised available space with a core [entrance, kitchen, bathroom] positioned between a large open plan living area and the sleeping accommodation. The plan is designed to be adaptable to any site, orientation, or home owner requirements by re-arranging the areas of the plan. Full height windows and positioning of the house makes best use of the sun and covered areas area provide shelter from sun and wind. All-timber construction, with optional solar hot water and water harvesting, provide sustainability. Although Lyttelton and Banks Peninsular does not have technical land categories, the design would still be a cost effective option for an architecturally designed home."

The Cantabrian is a design concept for Canterbury housing - bringing innovation, affordability and comfort to homeowners, while meeting the seismic challenges and special requirements of TC3 land conditions. Homeowners can tailor the concept to suit their own preferences, section shape and budget. Southern Response launched its architectural design competition seeking creative and practical designs for a TC3 home -The Cantabrian. The challenge was to members of the New Zealand Institute of Architects to design the next generation of housing in Canterbury, with particular regard to the challenges of TC3 land zones and future performance in earthquakes.

Forty-seven entries were received from architects from all over New Zealand. They were responding to a challenge to members of the New Zealand Institute of Architects to design the next generation of housing in Canterbury, with particular regard to the challenges of TC3 land zones and future performance in earthquakes. The competition brief was based on Ministry of Building, Innovation and TC3 guidelines on shape, lighter construction materials and sustainability.

Further design brief challenges included a gross floor area no larger than 150m², being single storey, including garage and decking; a construction budget $1,700 per square metre, GST inclusive without using free or discounted labour and materials; the design and budget must allow for efficient and light weight construction; the material selection must reflect permanence; the submission needs to demonstrate how construction and materials used will meet the budget; the selected entries were costed by a quantity surveyor to confirm costs and the house needed to comply with the Christchurch City Plan Living 1 zone development standards.

David Hill, Chairman of the Canterbury branch of the New Zealand Institute of Architects, welcomed the opportunity to be involved in "providing a legacy of post earthquake exemplar houses on TC3 land" he said.

Coastguard Outward Bound Scholarship

Acknowledging Lyttelton Volunteer: Michael Davies

In the August 5 edition of the Lyttelton Harbour Review, acknowledgment was given to Michael Davies for his coastguard volunteer work. Michael was nominated by Coastguard New Zealand to undertake an Outward Bound experience, and here Michael shares the experience of his trip:

The days 4 to 11 August this year were some of the most amazing of my life. I was part of Rutherford Watch 584 at Outward Bound's base at Anakiwa in the Marlborough Sounds.

The combination of a highly tuned programme, skilled instructors, stunning locations and motivated fellow participants led to me leaving at the end of the course feeling tired, sore and on top of the world!

We rowed, sailed, rock climbed, kayaked, tramped, and laughed. Yes laughing was one of the key activities.

As a watch [team] of 14 we quickly grew to enjoy each other's company. The support of the other 13 in the watch, and the two instructors was a huge motivation when a challenge became tough.

However I did not quite appreciate the full extent of the course's impact and the truth of one of Outward Bound's key sayings - Plus est en vous

[there is more in you than you think]. I think I am still coming to grips with the ways in which I can do more with what I now understand about my ability to set my mind to goals and work towards them.

I was nominated for this course by Coastguard New Zealand and funded by the New Zealand Community Trust, a huge thank you to both organisations. I had the pleasure of meeting amazing and inspiring people who had also been nominated for the course by community organisations. It was great to be part of a group with such a commitment to the idea of "paying it forward" to help make communities across New Zealand even better places to live.

The Outward Bound School is a stunning place staffed by passionate people. Their fifty years experience was evident as the facilities had a place for everything and everything was carefully checked and put in the right place. Yet the complex felt very comfortable and like a home away from home. It gave me real hope for what can be achieved in the rebuilding of buildings and facilities in Lyttelton - with well thought through design form and function just fitted together like a glove.

Possibly one of the best ways to summarise my gratitude for the renewed enthusiasm and motivation this course has led me towards comes from a friend who asked "do you talk about anything apart from Outward Bound these days?"

The certificate for the course came rolled up in a cardboard tube and we were tasked with passing on the baton to the people we knew who would enjoy and be challenged by the course as much as I was.

If this sounds like you or someone you know then head to www.outwardbound.co.nz and start looking for a course to fit.

August Author: Brenda Walker

The Listener

One rainy afternoon she asked herself what it meant 'to listen'? to really, really, listen? and came to the conclusion that one could listen to any number of things or people yet in the end it was what one heard that could be a game changer.

Outside the window rain continued steadily pattering down. Although she could detect tweeting in the shrubs, the birds had not yet arrived on their afternoon foraging rounds. Today there would be plenty of worms around driven out of their holes by the soaking. Snails also would be having a feast on the exposed roots and fallen cellulose of grass stalks, to say nothing of newly planted spinach and lettuce.

The solid cloud cover convinced her that there would be no break any time soon in the weather so she put on her rainwear and stepped out. Nobody around on this somber afternoon, not even dog-walkers, that's unusual she thought, not a soul in sight, just me, the gulls and the rain. Glancing towards the coast, she saw the ferry making its way across the harbour and marvelled once more at the fact that all the water she could see came from above; all the clouds living in the mountains poured it down the rivers which gave it to the sea. Utter magic.

As she walked along it hit her again, what a gift water truly is. Every drop of it has a history, every molecule a mystery. Perhaps its been part of a waterfall, or dripped from alpine forest branches, lived in a flowing river or rushed over rocks in a mountain stream. Maybe its hung over the countryside in the form of mist or sparkled like diamonds in the morning dew. These raindrops which now gently brushed her face were on a journey which affected every aspect of living, a pure miracle of life without which nothing could exist.

Turning the final corner for home, she felt convicted of the unthinking ways she often discarded water, without valuing its true worth and in that moment of true listening, what she heard was life's voice.

Special Thanks to Volunteers

Harbour Co-Op Acknowledges

We just wanted to take a quick moment to say thanks to those incredible folks who have come in over the last few months and made such a huge difference to the running of the shop. We have now had 20 fantastic people who have given some of their time in the shop – most have regular hours – between 1 to 4 hours per week – others fill in when needed. On average, our volunteers are contributing nearly 30 hours per week! This goes a long way to keeping products on the shelf and the whole operation ticking along. Jobs include: repacking bulk items, stocking shelves, checking dates, filling up containers, receiving goods, cleaning and even serving customers.

But there is still room for more people, energy and skills. Do you have artistic inclinations and are handy with chalk or paint? Do you have tasty recipes or nutritional tid-bits that you'd love to share with everyone? Keen to organise workshops, events or tours to our growers and producers? Are you a networker who loves to connect and communicate with others? Do you love research and always on the lookout for new products? Get in touch and let's find some ways that you can contribute that aren't necessarily in the shop during business hours.

As always, we say thank you to our volunteers in a number of ways including 20% off a nominated purchase of up to $200 for every two hours worked. The Co-op is an awesome place to hang out and work, but don't take our word for it – our volunteers have said:

"Volunteering for the Co-op helps to advance the cause of organics – I feel I'm involved, doing my bit for the community also. I like the pleasant, relaxed atmosphere of the shop".

"I want this business to succeed, both financially, and in educating the public to healthy food and other products. And it's also good to work among people, both paid and volunteers, who are generous with their efforts and so pleasant to work with. The atmosphere is warm and welcoming and appreciative."

"Of course, earning a discount on purchases, based on the hours worked, is also an incentive, and very worthwhile! It's great to be getting healthy products at a healthy discount."

Thanks again to: Juliet, Faye, Chris, Bettina, Cliff, Helen, Keith, Jenny, Jacinda, Ruby, Skye, Christy, Lisa, Gerard, Philip, Jodi, Alison, Robyn, Charlie, and Alyssa. And of course we are very grateful for the generous contributions of our Board members: Dana, Doug, Jenny and Nina. As always, when we work together we can accomplish things that we couldn't possibly achieve on our own. A Co-op is only as strong as the participation of its members. What's next for OUR Co-op?

All the best, The Harbour Co-op Team

Drawn Together

Art Submissions Sought

plenty to share

In Lyttelton so many residents grow vegetables; or have fruit trees literally dripping with produce. Plenty to Share is about sharing any excess produce with the community. So if your lemon tree is yellow with goodness and you can't keep up with making lemon curd, bring those surplus fruits down to the organisers, where every Saturday the swapping of produce is well underway in Lyttelton on the corner of London and Canterbury Street; and also in Diamond Harbour on a Saturday morning at the village centre. If there is something on the Plenty to Share table that you would like to take home, then you are warmly invited to do so.

Sewing Space

In association with the TimeBank and the Garage Sale team we are pleased to announce a new project on the first Saturday of every month. TimeBank member and Garage Sale enthusiast Ruth Targus will be hosting a sewing workshop alongside the Garage Sale from 10am to 1pm. Based in the Project Lyttelton meeting space above the Sale this is your chance to ask questions about all your sewing needs. Perfect for advice on alterations to clothes that you have just purchased down stairs! Ruth looks forward to meeting you and chatting about all things sewing related.

looking for reading material

A book swap has been operating from the Lyttelton Harbour Information Centre for some time. Thank you to all the lovely residents who keep dropping books in. This service is available to all local residents, simply just pop in, choose a book, and then return it or another when you are finished. Borrow or swap - it's your call. If you are looking for reading material on economics, the transition movement, sustainability, alternative currencies and community development then check out the LIFT Library that has recently started. Contact Juliet Adams on 328 8139 for more information.

LIFT Library

Recently LIFT received a kind donation of several issues of "Forest & Bird" magazine. They range from May 2009 to May 2013. They offer a wealth of vital information, of colour, of valuable opinion from professionals and concerned citizens, of inspiration – and the welcome shortage of commercial advertisements [all of which are relevant to the topics]. Here's a few topics in the most recent issue: Frogs from the dinosaur era; Denniston Plateau; The cat among the pigeons; Marine biology for beginners; book reviews – and masses more, too many to list here.

And another donation has just arrived, from Sarah Pritchett – three books on important topics:

Globalization and Environmental Reform: the ecological modernization of the global economy, by Arthur P.J.Mol.

'This book provides a balanced understanding of the relationship between globalization and environmental quality.'

The sustainability revolution: portrait of a paradigm shift, by Andres R. Edwards. Jane Goodall says: 'It shines a light on the path that we all must follow to make this world a more sustainable and peaceful place for all living things.'

Whose reality counts? Putting the first last, by Robert Chambers. 'The writer argues that central issues in development have been overlooked, and that many past errors have flowed from domination by those with power. Development professionals now need new approaches and methods for interacting, learning and knowing.'

Last week we went to a presentation in town, given by a team from WISERESPONSE. There were four speakers, with Powerpoint projections, giving powerful information on the risks we need to face up to and deal with. Then I bought 2 DVDs made in March this year, when the WISERESPONSE RISK APPEAL was launched. So now you can borrow them and learn even more on the topics from experts in their fields.

This session is a series of further talks, some with Powerpoint materials, by several of the speakers from the afternoon launch event, and a new one. They are providing a scientific base for the movement: Sir Alan Mark, Hoani Langsbury, Dr Peter Barrett, Dr Susan Krumdieck, Dr Mike Joy, Dr Russell Tregonning, Neville Peat, Dr. Tim Hazledine, Louis Chambers, Kennedy Graham, Dr Royden Somerville, QC .

And today's quote:

If anything is wrong it is because it is too big. - Leopold Kohr

combined church service

CanCERN Spring Campaign

Have you ever heard about Cancern? It stands for the Communities Earthquake Recovery Network. Their team came to Lyttelton last Friday to talk about a winter campaign that they are running in conjunction with "Make It Right". The campaign aims to support people who are still living in poor housing conditions as a result of the earthquakes. Maybe this is you or your neighbour. If your home or your neighbours is unsafe ie leaking, damp and mouldy or unclad, unhealthy ie rodent problem, cramped living or confined due to poor footpaths, or cold because of poor cladding they are happy to help connect you to the right people who can make a difference for you.

The Lyttelton Harbour Information Centre have some forms that you can complete, and that can be submit to Cancern or alternatively you can find the form on their website www.cancern.org.nz or phone 0800 777 846. Cancern is a grass roots community organisation. So don't be shy, please tell them if you need help sorting this out.

A note from Bob Henderson - CanCERN SPRING Campaign Coordinator: the saying goes "if you wish to know another, spend some time walking in their shoes". Does this apply to 'knowing' communities too? Of course! The Spring Campaign has repeatedly highlighted this saying. Each community faces it's own set of real issues from flood zone stress to isolated and vulnerable residents. We have been meeting locals groups in their place to help identify and support residents who are doing it hard in their homes and yes, there is tremendous tiredness through each community. But in the midst of the tiredness what comes through is concern and care for their fellow residents and their community – they know their shoes still walk in muddy places – our care can mean walking there too.

What's this all about?

Do you know of friends who are living in a home that feels unsafe?

Do you know of a neighbour who lives in a home that is unhealthy?

Do you live in a home that you just can't warm up?

To get this started you can fill out the CanCERN form. Enter your details, or the details of someone who may need help [please note that you need their permission] and with this information we can make contact with you and talk about the next step.

We also want you, the community and community leaders to become involved to make sure we get to as many people as we can. This campaign invites participation from many areas of the community. Its purpose – to identify and practically support people who are still living in poor housing conditions as a result of the earthquakes. And just one of the objectives states – enable friends, family, neighbours and groups to support residents with warm clothing, blankets, food and company to make everyone feel connected and a part of the wider community.

The process is simple – from the connections intentionally made with neighbours, the poor housing conditions lived in can be identified. Our team will then refer the emergency/temporary house repair work to 'Make it Right' with CEA or to community groups who have said they will see to the need. Our team is not only the us in CanCERN's office but is the community groups/persons who participate in this support network – to help identify, to refer, to follow up and to fix.

Come and join in whatever place you can and see the objectives achieved. Specifically volunteers can help as residents identify the unsafe, unhealthy and/or cold houses. Help with house calls, in street gatherings and other meetings to record where the issues surface, that follow up can happen. We will bake for our neighbourly calls and gatherings, a start of neighbourhood sharing.

Contact your neighbourhood group or Bob Henderson if you're interested in helping or need some support to set something up in your community at thehendersons@paradise.net.nz

CanCERN's involvement in this campaign is made possible because of support from the Tindall Foundation and Family and Community - Anglican Care, NZ Sharp Corporation.

CERA is also working with others in the 'Make it Right' Campaign. You can go to the CERA website to see what services are available at - <http://cera.govt.nz/support-and-assistance/winter-help> or you can call the Canterbury Support Line on 0800 777 846 between 9.00am and 11.00pm any day and they'll put you through to the relevant organisation that may be able to address your needs.

FROM THE APPOINTED BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE LYTTELTON MERGED SCHOOL

This is the first newsletter from the Appointed Board of Trustees for the new Lyttelton Merged School. The Board will regularly produce a newsletter to let you know key decisions and offer opportunities for you to engage with the Board.

From Tom Scollard - Board Chairman

It is a pleasure to serve on the Lyttelton Merged School appointed board. As a Board we are working hard to ensure we move towards the merger into the new school as smoothly as possible.

The Appointed Board will be meeting regularly over the next 9 months as there is much to be done, including recruiting the Principal for the new school, ensuring appropriate staffing is in place, choosing a name for the new school and development of the new school site.

There will no doubt be challenges along the way but the board is committed to success in providing the best possible opportunities for the children of our community for the future

Tom Scollard, Appointed Board Chairman

The Appointed Board

The Minister of Education appointed the Board of Trustees in late July. The Board has been established to develop a single school for the community of Lyttelton and the neighbouring bays.

The following people have been appointed to the Board of Trustees:

Board Chairman: Tom Scollard

Parent Trustees: Jeff Bluett, Crile Doscher, Barry Dowrick, Dave Nicholl, Bridget O'Brien, Karen Wiley

Governance Facilitator: Christine Nijdam

Profiles of all Board members are included on page 2 of this newsletter.

The Merged School

On May 5 2014 Lyttelton Main School and Lyttelton West School will merge to become a single school, governed by a single Board of Trustees.

Initially the school will be located across two sites; the Lyttelton West School site (Voelas Road) and the St Joseph's site (Winchester Street). The new school will be built on the existing Lyttelton Main School site on Oxford Street.

There are some key milestones that need to be achieved before the schools merge. The Board is already working toward some of these milestones including:

- Vision
- Appointment of new principal
- Development of new school
- Development of St Joseph's temporary site

21 AUGUST 2013
